LIQUOR AT HOME

As long as there is a home in the world, there will be a home where the liquor is sold...
The liquor is sold in the home, and it is sold in the home, and it is sold in the home...

HAMMERS

The hammer is a tool that is used in the home, and it is used in the home, and it is used in the home...

Although more hunting clubs are in existence than ever before, the deer within the National Forest continue to multiply satisfactorily and, owing to the closed seasons and the buck law, there are estimated 60 deer in every hundred head.

These figures are in one way not surprising in that they correspond to the experience of many other States proving that game exhaustion is essentially a matter of choice, even in settled communities.

It is easy to get down and deplore the poaching of game, but it is something to get up and give over a couple of pages in which the reader is given a full and complete illustration.

DEER OF PISGAH

The report of Verne Rhodes, forest supervisor of the Pisgah National Forest, shows that in the last season more than 250 deer have been killed by hunters on the preserves adjacent to the game sanctuary in the forest itself.

to punishment for carrying pistols concealed.
An act to place the names of Capt. James Lane, of Henderson, and Mrs. Ella Lewis, of Transylvania, on the pension roll.

ENCOURAGING INCENDIARIES
The western states have recently been visited by a fire which has caused a suffering of 20 years each.

The men in this case confessed to the crime of arson, to torching a patch to oil-soaked materials.
Liberating fire-burns imperils the lives and financial interests of property owners, whose insurance rates are higher on account of leniency to confessed criminals.
