"If I didn't love people and want them saved, I would not talk and preach and beg and pray for you like I do. I've told you plainly where you stand and where you are going if you let you are going if you let you are going.

Judge Raymond G. Parker, well known in Brevard where he held known in Brevard where he held court in January, die'l carly Tuesday morning at The Goorge Vanderbilt Hotel in Asheville. Death came to the popular jurist very suddenly, and announcement of the demise caused much sorrow throughout the state.

Judge Parker lived in Winston-Salem, and was one of the youngest Superior count judges in the state.

While on the bench a comparatively short time, the deceased had won a state with God. Now I am going to spend the remaining time pleading with you to accept the greatest gift ever offered to manking—the gift of God's Love."

Mr. McLendon has been preaching soul-stirring sermons this week, with a tenderness of tone and a sincerity of pleading that is just as marked as is his manner of denunciation when fighting satan face to face, as it were. Dozens of people are making confessions, and deep interest in spiritual welfare is plainly visible on the short time, the deceased had won a
