PRESBYTERIAN CIRCLES MEET

Circles I and III of the Presbyterian church held a joint meeting Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. J. W. Smith.

Following the business meeting presided over by Mrs. Hinton McLeod, a program on Mexico was in charge of Mrs. Smith, assisted by other members.

A social half-hour was enjoyed and refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Harry Patton.

JOINT CLASSES ENJOY SOCIAL

The fifteen-year-old girls of the Sunday School class of Mrs. T. P. Ward entertained the young boys of Mr. W. W. Pruett's class Friday evening with a party in the parlor of the Baptist church.

After playing many interesting games, refreshments were served to about thirty girls and boys, all of whom reported a most enjoyable evening.

BREVARD CLUB ENTERTAINED IN ASHEVILLE

Generally pronounced one of the most enjoyable of the recent social events was the costume festival of the seasons held in the Wisteria rooms of the Battery Park Hotel, Asheville, Monday evening, on which occasion the Business and Professional Women's club of Asheville entertained the Brevard Business and Professional Women's club. About thirty members of the local club were in attendance, all present wearing costume appropriate to their respective birth month.

The members and guests, numbering 125, were seated at four long tables, a table for each of the four seasons, where the banquet supper was enjoyed. At the conclusion of the supper, a grand march was staged in the roof garden ball room, in order to better display the many pretty and varied costumes and to afford the judges a better opportunity for their decision as to the prize winning costumes of the four seasons. Brevard was represented among the costume prize winners, since Miss Luella Kellar won the prize for the most appropriate costume for the autumn season. The Brevard club president, Mrs. Hugh R. Walker, won a prize in a seasonal contest at the summer table. Adding further to the enjoyment of the occasion was the featuring of clever stunts by the different seasonal groups, for which prizes were awarded.

BREVARD WEDNESDAY CLUB HAS INTERESTING MEETING

Brevard Wednesday club met with Mrs. Vernon Crawford on the afternoon of March 14th. An item of interest was a letter read by the president explaining a contest and prizes for same given by the Federation for original posters depicting the problem of thousands of illiterates in North Carolina.

Mrs. Fred Miller read the complete report on the health survey of Transylvania county. Deep appreciation was expressed for the generous and efficient help given to the compiling of these records by Mr. A. H. Kizer. A rising vote of thanks was tendered him. Mrs. Frank Jenkins devoted much time and energy to this report and sincere gratitude was extended her. The president instructed that it be set down in these minutes that appreciation and thanks were extended the many outside organizations and individuals who lent a hand to this undertaking.

Mrs. Hinton McLeod was in charge of the program and held her audience in rapt attention. The subject was The Negro. Adding much to the pleasure was the singing of several spirituals by Mrs. Crawford. Mrs. McLeod opened her subject by reading a letter from the well known negro, James Weldon Johnson in answer to a request from her for an introductory paragraph to her program. For interest, it is here quoted:

"A number of approaches to the heart of the race problem have been tried; religious, educational, political, industrial, ethical, economic, sociological. Along all of these approaches considerable progress has been made. Today a newer approach is being tried, an approach which discards most of the older methods. It requires a minimum of pleas, or propaganda, or philanthropy. It depends more upon what the Negro himself does than upon what someone does for him or even together with him. It is the approach along the line of intellectual and artistic achievement by Negroes, and may be called the art approach to the Negro problem. This method of approaching a solution of the race question has the advantage of affording great and rapid progress with least friction and of providing a common platform upon which most people are willing to stand. The results of this method may seem to carry a high degree of finality, to be the thing itself that was to be demonstrated.

"For many years and by many methods the Negro has been overcoming the coarser prejudices against him; and when we consider how many of the subtler prejudices have crumbled, and crumbled rapidly under the process of art creation by the Negro, we are justified in taking a hopeful outlook toward the effect that the increase of recognized individual artists five-fold, ten-fold, twenty-fold, will have on this, one of the most perplexing and vital questions before the American people."

The club adjourned to meet in two weeks with Mrs. Hinton McLeod.

ENJOYABLE MEETING OF MUSIC LOVERS CLUB

Mrs. J. M. Tatum and Miss Lemons were joint hostesses entertaining the members of the Music Lovers' club Monday evening at the regular March meeting, at the home of Mrs. Tatum on Probarie avenue. The president, Mrs. Ralph Fisher, presided over the business session.

The club decided to observe national Music Week the first week in May, and plans for this and other matters were discussed. Two chapters in the musical study book were discussed by Mrs. J. B. Pickelsimer, Mrs. J. F. Winton, Mrs. Ralph Fisher and Miss Eva Call.

During the social period which followed a short program was rendered in keeping with the St. Patrick's Day occasion, including, two Irish readings by Mrs. Walter Duckworth, an Irish song by Mrs. A. H. Kizer, Irish jig by Miss Bertie Ballard. The St. Patrick suggestions were further carried out in the green and white color scheme in the refreshments, the favors and decorations.

The next meeting of the club will be held at the home of Mrs. J. F. Zachary, with Mrs. Zachary and Mrs. Kizer as joint hostesses.
