"We'll also serve as waitresses at all social affairs on afternoons and Saturdays."

ANDRE MOUROIS IS PROVING POPULAR

"Disraeli" by Andre Maurois, is the most recent rental book added to the U. D. C. Library, and is proving a popular book with the reading public since its addition to the shelves last week.

Disraeli is described by literary critics as an eloquent book about an eloquent man, in which the author brings all his wit, irony, brilliance and charm into the study of that extraordinary diplomat and novelist, Benjamin Disraeli. It is the story of an obscure Jewish youth, assailed by religious bigotry and worried by debt, determined to become Prime Minister of England. He never lost sight of his goal, which accounts for his finally becoming Prime Minister and winning his seat in Parliament. It is a story of a tempestuous career, a life of vivid contrasts, said by many authorities to be more fascinating than any novel. Its author, Maurois, traces Disraeli's hopes and crushing defeats, his brimming cup of success, his romantic worship of his wife and his ripe friendship with Queen Victoria, his triumphant leadership and his bitter struggle against Gladstone. This book-of-the-month is well worth reading.

WHITMIRE RESIGNS FROM PISGAH BANK

J. L. Whitmire, for the past five years connected with the Pisgah Bank, has resigned his position with that institution to become secretary-treasurer of the Western North Carolina branch of the Security Life and Trust company. Headquarters for this big company are maintained in Brevard known generally as the C. P. Wilkins Insurance Agency. Mr. Wilkins is manager of the western territory for the company. Mr. Whitmire has been financially interested in the Wilkins agency for some time, but just recently severed his connection with the Pisgah Bank to become actively identified with the other business.

Mr. Whitmire was assistant cashier and a member of the board of directors of the Pisgah Bank, in addition to being a stockholder in the institution. His greatest activity in this community has been that of a builder. Mr. Whitmire has erected nine new residences in Brevard during the past few months, besides building the fine new home of the Whitmire Motor company on Main street.
