

NOTED PROFESSOR SUNDAY SPEAKER

Dr. W. T. Thompson. Delights Congregation of the Presbyterian Church

A large and appreciative audience gathered at the Presbyterian church last Sunday morning to hear the excellent sermon delivered by Dr. W. T. Thompson, professor of religious education at Union Theological Seminary, Richmond, Va., and director of religious work at Camp Carolina during the present camp season.

Dr. Thompson chose his text, on the subject of Temptation, from the book of Hebrews. He referred to the fact that all, whether in the city or country, are subject to temptation and cannot get away from it, and that to overcome it will always be a genuine fight and a real struggle. The speaker further said that things should be called by their real name—a lie should not be called a fib, and anger in one's heart should be given the name Christ gave it, murder. If we have made up our minds to fight against temptation, then what we have hereafter may be of some use, but if we have not resolved to fight then what we have will be of little value. It will help us in our fight against temptation if we discover what our special temptations are and under what circumstances they most attack us, and then make our fight accordingly. A knowledge and recognition of these facts will aid us to be particularly on our guard against temptation. Dr. Thompson closed his timely remarks by reminding his audience that Christ can sympathize with us and will help us in our fight against temptation, because he was tempted in every point as we are, yet without sin.

Adding further to the enjoyment and impressiveness of the service was the offertory solo rendered by Miss Phyllis McCollum, of Camp Ilaha.

On next Sunday morning the pastor, Rev. V. A. Crawford, will preach on the subject, Obligation of Opportunity.
