

RESULTS ARE SEEN IN FARM CAMPAIGN

"The 'Live-at-Home' campaign this year is already bringing results in all sections of the state," according to Charles A. Sheffield, assistant director of the North Carolina State College Extension Service. "Everywhere farmers and business men are cooperating to put into actual operation the slogan of the campaign this year, 'Farm to Make a Living in 1931'."

However, Mr. Sheffield finds that there are some misunderstandings among farmers relative to the raising of certain farm products. He found on trips made during the past three weeks, in connection with speaking engagements, that the farmers of the state had sold off brood sows quite heavily last year, to obtain ready cash. He thinks that this is an incorrect policy. He feels that the brood sow is one of the best investments on the farm and a sure money-maker. He urges farmers everywhere to increase instead of diminish their hog supply.

Another interesting farm fact learned during the January campaign was that farmers in sections where they kept no poultry records, had sold off much poultry. "Where they did not know that they were making a small profit on the poultry flock, handled without much trouble and with a minimum time effort, many farmers depleted their flocks because they thought that they were losing money or making none. In most cases, if they had kept accurate records, they would have found that they were making a profit. A poultry flock of 50 or more hens ought to bring in a small but steady income to any farmer anywhere in the state." Mr. Sheffield urges the farmers this year to increase their flocks and not to sell too many hens for meat profits.

He also met several individuals who readily admitted that they made a good living last year, due to the raising of hogs, poultry and garden produce.

HOGGING DOWN CORN PAID A GOOD PROFIT

Grow corn, feed it to hogs, and make money in 1931 is the suggestion W. W. Shay, swine extension specialist at State College, is seeking to broadcast over North Carolina this winter.

"There is no mystery in feeding corn to hogs for a good profit," says Mr. Shay. "The idea is not patented nor copyrighted and if the plan of feeding is followed systematically it will make money for the operator. The corn and hog combination is about the only bright spot in North Carolina agriculture this year and beginning with 1931, the system should be made a permanent part of farming operations on every farm where as much as 35 bushels of corn an acre can be produced."

Mr. Shay points out that 35 bushels of corn should be easy to produce. None of the 60 or more contestants in the Atlantic Coast Line 5-acre corn contest made less than 50 bushels last season and the 4-H club boys enrolled in the Chilean Nitrate of Soda contest made from 80 to 100 bushels an acre by following good methods. Club boys generally doubled the annual average for the state. This all indicates the ease with which good yields of corn may be produced.

If this corn is hogged down as was done by three good farmers in eastern Carolina last year it will pay 800 percent increase in profit over the old method of harvesting and selling it as grain. In addition, valuable plant food will be left on the soil for building up the land. Mr. Shay has worked out an interesting set of figures showing how the three men made their profits last season and will send a copy free to any person desiring to begin the work this year. He has also prepared extension circular 181 telling how to feed hogs for profit. This also may be had on application.

Conveyors Carry Ford Car Parts

Trains unload in the plant.

Bodies starting through the shop.

Conveyors carry wheels with mounted tires over a line on which cars pass to completion.

The highly important part played by conveyor systems in all Ford Motor Company manufacturing and assembly plants is graphically shown in the above three pictures taken in the recently opened Edgewater, N. J., plant. One of the pictures shows how parts may be unloaded from freight cars within the plant only a few feet from the various assembly lines. Another picture shows automobile bodies starting their trip on a conveyor while the third view is of the conveyor system used to bring wheels to the chassis which are also moving on a conveyor. As indicated in the picture, a constant flow of wheels on which the tires have already been mounted moves around and over the chassis assembly line. As a chassis enters the section, workers, in groups of four, each take a wheel from the hooks and fasten it to the chassis.
