

THE PRAYER CORNER

MY NEIGHBOR

Read again: Luke 10:25-37
I repeat the opening words of last week's Prayer Corner: "One of the great truths declared The Incarnation of Jesus Christ is the Oneness of humanity. He was not a man only; but THE MAN. In Him all humanity was centered, therefore every man has a holy relationship to Him, and consequently all men have a relationship to one another. My Neighbor is my brother, and neighborliness is not confined to nationality, nor yet to near association."

Read St. Matthew 5:43-48
"The struggle in neighborliness comes when the sense of brotherhood is not reciprocal, when bitterness and wilful misunderstanding seek to paralyze inborn affection.—It is easy to help those who are grateful. It is playing with happiness when heart touches heart and love is mutual. But to help an enemy, to help when help is scorned, to let the heart and hand go out in the darkness—then we hear the call for ACTUAL heroism. And yet is not such service most in accord with Christ's service, and therefore rendered with finest loyalty to Him and to His Children? Christ died for our sins—but not one of all the people about Him—not even His disciples—wanted Him to die, a sincere referendum would have voted "No." The glory of the cross was slow in coming on the earth, though heavenly choirs were singing of human salvation. To give an enemy drink with honest desire to help is to partake of the holiness of Divine Love.

Read Romans 12:4-14
"The persistence of the mercy of the Good Samaritan is a large part of the lesson from the parable. He not only helped but he continued to help practically, indefinitely. We are apt to fail here. Spasmodic help, sympathy which is chilled by lack of appreciation, service which touches so many needs and masters none—these errors result from the fickleness of human nature. Persistence is a rare, yet a necessary element in our neighborliness. A single touch is often worse than nothing. One kind word, and then neglect, is fatal to sincerity. The patience of God is so marked, in that He keeps on helping us while we forget Him and fail to thank Him. Christianity which holds on Monday as well as on Sunday; faith which is as real in the home as in church; love which will not give up even in the face of indifference or opposition—What noble marks of loyalty are there. We are not told of one word as spoken by the wounded man; whether he spoke to his helper or was silent, or complaining, made no difference in the message of the parable.

God's love did all the speaking.

Read 2 Samuel 24:18-24
"As he journeyed"—that is all we are told of the Good Samaritan, but we can read between the lines, and recognize the personal sacrifice. "I will not offer unto the Lord that which doth cost me nothing," cried David. Indeed, the joy of service is manifold, but its dearest value, often unthought of, is in the denial of self, or rather in the giving of self. Virtue has gone out of me, was the lowly declaration of Jesus Christ. What has our Christianity cost us? Scorn, perhaps and misunderstanding, but yet more is demanded, even voluntary sacrifice, Forgetfulness of our own ease; weariness because we have sought to carry the burdens of another; love so intense that it hurt; sympathy that called for tears; a high spirit which from the need leaped to demand a general remedy for the need—these give beauty to the service because some of self has made the gift sacred. What is the real value of our faith? Where does Christ find the goodness and strength of our belief in Him? Lord, what have I given up for Thee that others might be comforted?"

A NEIGHBORLY PRAYER

O God, Fountain of Love, pour Thy love into our souls, that we may love those whom Thou lovest with the love Thou givest us and think and speak of them tenderly, meekly, lovingly and dwelling in love, may dwell in Thee. Our Father we cannot come into Thy presence, without bringing with us all our brothers and sisters. Are we not all Thy children, and hast Thou not a purpose of good for us all? Give us a large and noble outlook. Give us more interest in each other, more zeal for each other's happiness, more willingness to share each others pain. Take from us all miserable aims that end in self. May we, in the power of Christ's spirit, help the weak and neglected, comfort the afflicted and sorrow laden, and bring a sense of fellowship to those who are friendly and lonely.
Spirit Divine, Thou canst enable me to understand the speed of every heart by giving me a heart of my own. Thou canst help me to translate the words of others with my own experience and to ask "How would I feel in their place?" Evermore imbue me with this Divine Gift, a gift whose glory is its pain, whose crown is its cross. Evermore grant me this mirror within—the sympathy that can take its impressions from all the burdens that are passing by when Thou shalt give me utterance, I shall speak the language of love. And this I ask for Jesus Christ's sake.
Amen.
