

BREVARD HI TURNS BACK THE INVADERS

Local Nine Hands Hendersonville Small End of 12-4 Score

"We came, we saw, we conquered" goes a well known Latin phrase, but had Hendersonville used the Latin for this Tuesday they would have had tucked onto the end of it the verb, adverb, preposition or what-ho spelled "n-o-n"—for unlike the great army of old, they came, saw and conquered not. Fact is, about all the Hendersonville High school baseball nine got here Tuesday was a drubbing of the worst sort, the local Blue Devils nosing them out in a seven-inning affair 12-4.

And to go back to another great saying—"given and it shall be given"—Brevard handed the visitors the same sort of gift that was received here last Thanksgiving, when Hendersonville's eleven left more down-hearted people of the football field than were left several days later when the memorable Fifteenth of December came around.

Facts and figures of the game were entirely too one-sided for comparison. With the big-town hoopla, the visiting team started off in the first inning by getting two hits, twice as many errors chucked up against Brevard and netted four runs. Blue was the predominating color on the faces of the home-town rooters as the inning came to a hazardous looking close.

Brevard came to the bat with no mercy on the new ball that is designated to keep long hits scarce this season. Bill Erwin smacked out a triple, Joe Schachner and Bear Davis each smacked one a mile for four bags, and everybody and anybody hit all the Hendersonville offerings for seven tallies in the second half of the first. Truly, truly, a great change in the color scheme was worked out in champion fashion. Smiles, handshakes, and all the acoustics of joy were evident on the faces of the local fans. This enthusiasm permeated the entire Brevard aggregation, for going to the field in the first half of the second, first class backing was given Albert Payne and Paul Schachner, battery supreme, and no more scores were allowed the visitors.

P.-T. ASSOCIATION TO ELECT OFFICERS

Last Meeting of School Year To Be Held Next Monday Afternoon

Monday afternoon, April 20, will witness the last meeting of the school year of the Parent-Teacher association, and it is expected that a large crowd will be present, as officers for the ensuing year will be elected at that time. The meeting will be held at the Grammar school building, and Miss Calls will entertain the members and visitors with a harmonica band.

The association is winding up one of the most important years' work in the history of the organization, and the contribution of the Parent-Teacher group to the undernourished children in the Brevard school can never be reckoned in dollars and cents. All winter long wholesome lunches and sweet milk have been provided for thirty-four children by the association and through the association's efforts. The citizens of the community have responded in magnificent manner to the appeals of the association for the boys and girls who need these lunches and the wholesome milk that have been provided every school day throughout the year.

It is the desire of the association to complete the work, and provide these lunches right up until the very last day of school. Provision is made through volunteers for the lunches during this week, and up to and including Tuesday of next week. Following is the list of the volunteers, beginning last Monday:

- Elementary School Group
Monday, April 13—Mrs. R. L. Stokes.
Tuesday, April 14—Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Ranson.
Wednesday, April 15—Mrs. Rush Whitmire.
Thursday, April 16—Mrs. R. H. Morrow.
Friday, April 17—Mrs. R. H. Morrow.
Monday, April 20—Mrs. R. H. Morrow.
Tuesday, April 21—Mrs. Trigt Brittain.

Monday, April 13—Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Whitmire.
Tuesday, April 14—Mrs. Mitchell Neely.
Wednesday, April 15—Mrs. G. C. Witmer.
Thursday, April 16—Mrs. G. C. Witmer.
Friday, April 17—Mrs. G. C. Witmer.
Monday, April 20—Mrs. James F. Barrett.
Tuesday, April 21—Mrs. James F. Barrett.

BREVARD INSTITUTE SENIOR CLASS PLAY WELL GIVEN

"Get Acquainted With Madge," a three-act comedy presented Friday evening by the seniors of the Brevard Institute, proved highly entertaining and well presented.

The humorous situation and difficulties unraveled in revealing the plot of the story were handled in a commendable manner by the different performers. The cast of characters included: Madge, Wilma McCracken; Arthur Tilden, Roy Lail; Mrs. Ridgeway, Edna Brown; College Boys, Sol Greener, Gorge Bowen, Sparks Hopper, Fred Lail; Irish, Maid Lizzie Frances McKay; Butler, Jarmon Beeton; Dr. Ridgeway, Russie McGuire; Jerry, Elizabeth Cline.

OLD SONGS PROVED POPULAR

Singing of old hymns at the Methodist church last Sunday evening, proved most popular to the congregation.

Hay production in Caldwell County will be increased this summer due to greater plantings of soybeans. More than 300 bushels of seed beans have been ordered cooperatively to date.

LEGISLATURE NOW IN DEATH GRIP OVER NEW REVENUE BILL

University, he made a motion that the General Assembly adjourn, sine die, which motion was ruled out of order. However, talk of adjourning has been going the rounds and many of the legislators are known to look on it with favor, except for the appearance of quitting before finishing the job. The suggestion is made that all of the members, by a joint resolution, tender their resignations to the Governor, and let him call another election to get a new group. The constitutionality of the suggestion is questioned—and the point is made that it would be the same fight all over again.

At this writing a deadlock is not only possible, but eminent, unless some give and take or compromise is brought about. The Senate, sitting as a committee of the whole, killed the general sales tax overwhelmingly, after the House had included it in the Revenue bill by a majority of four. Then the Senate killed the so-called luxury sales tax bill by the close vote of 36 to 24, the same bill which the House had killed two weeks before by an overwhelming majority. These sales tax measures, one of them, was intended to furnish most of the new money needed to operate the MacLean six months school term by the State.

The Senate, after killing both sales tax provisions, sought to go right into the task of providing the $10,000,000 equalizing fund proposed in the Senator John H. Folger bill, but was balked for a day by the opponents of that measure. Meanwhile, the House voted a motion which re-affirmed the MacLean school bill, thus further complicating the situation, by saying to the Senate, in so many words, that is demanded the MacLean law would have nothing else. That body had killed one sales tax measure, however, and adopted the other by only four majority.

But the Senate went steadily about its work of preparation for the Folger measure. By majorities of three to six it revised the taxes in the Revenue bill. This means a reduction from the figures adopted by the House, but they were raised with the view that the ad valorem tax would be taken from public service and other corporations. The Senate reduced them on the ground that the ad valorem taxes will be continued, but provided, in reality, increase in amount sufficient to raise the additional $3,500,000 needed for an equalizing fund of $10,000,000, which it adopted Saturday. When this measure is finally passed by the Senate, probably by Tuesday the bill, as amended, must go back to the House. What will happen there is a knotty problem. The House may refuse to concur, probably will, and may refuse a conference committee report, after a joint House and Senate committee has ironed out, or attempted to iron out, the differences. In that case, the deadlock reached would be hard to break.

However, many of the House members who are supporting the MacLean measure say that they are convinced it will not give the people what they think and hope and that they in reality, realize the $10,000,000 equalizing fund would add them about as much and would not burden them with a sales tax. Many citizens, they point out, have made up their minds that the MacLean measure is their one and only salvation, will not listen to anything else, reasonable as it may be, and demand that alone. Some legislators say that this pressure, based on what they have been led to believe will bring complete relief, causes them to attempt to give their constituents what they think they want, knowing it is not what they hope.

The problem is by no means solved. The General Assembly, with more to do than any previous one, is approaching its 100th day and will reach it before this week is over, on Friday. At the present outlook, it cannot finish this week, and possibly not the next. The appropriations bill has been passed in the House. It must be finished and in four or five days is a minimum in the Senate. The bills introduced reached 540 in the Senate and 1230 in the House, a total of 1770. About 20 public bills were ratified, and about twice as many local bills, during the past week. Little other than the Revenue and Appropriations measures have received consideration.

The measure to create in the Governor's office a Division of Purchase and Control has become a law. Governor Gardner is expected to name the director before long. He has already decided upon the seven members of the Highway Commission under the new law, but he is not certain he will announce them before the General Assembly adjourns. The bill to create a Division of Personnel is on its way, but not much nearer enactment than it was a week ago.

Another "short ballot" bill, to have the Governor appoint the Commissioners of Agriculture, Insurance and Labor and Printing and the Corporation Commission members, met its death in the House last week. The bill to re-apportion the House of Representative members has come from the committee with favorable report and may be enacted. No such hope is entertained for the bill to re-district the State as to Senatorial districts, on the 1930 census basis.

Bills Ratified
The General Assembly adopted a resolution of respect upon learning of the death of Nicholas Longworth, speaker of the National House of Representatives. Among the other bills that have now become law are the following:

To submit a proposed amendment to the Constitution of N. C. to protect from creditors insurance for wives and children during the life of the insured.
To extend the time for issuing alias and pluries summons in tax suits.

Authorizing receivers and trustees to foreclose deeds of trust and mortgages under court orders and validating such foreclosures and sales.

Amendment relative to the investment of trust funds.

Amendment relating to condemnation proceedings and assessments districts for condemnation proceedings.

Bills Introduced

Among the new bills introduced during the past week are the following:

To restore to the people the right to elect the Commissioner of Revenue.

To regulate the sale in N. C. of all wearing apparel and articles of domestic use manufactured by convict labor, requiring a label showing it.

PIANO RECITAL TO BE GIVEN NEXT MONDAY EVENING

One of the most interesting features of commencement period is the annual piano recital, which will be given next Monday evening in the auditorium of the High School building at 8:15 o'clock. Pupils of Prof. Alvin Moore and Miss Lillian Jenkins will play.

Additional entertainment will be provided for the occasion by presentation of the Toy Orchestra, which is always given a big hand in Brevard. Other features will be included on the program, and it is expected that a large crowd will enjoy the splendid program which has been prepared for the evening.

MILLER BOYS GIVEN EAGLE SCOUT HONOR

Kiwanis Club Present Fred and Jack Miller with Highest Boy Scout Emblems

Fred and Jack Miller were guests of honor at the Brevard Kiwanis Club last Thursday at noon. These two young fellows, the first in Brevard to win the coveted Scout rank of Eagle, were presented with a regulation badge each, the presentation being made for the Club by Kiwanian Jim Barrett.

In presenting the badges to the honor guests, Mr. Barrett stressed the importance of the Scout movement in Brevard, and lauded the local club for the interest taken in the youth of the town in being sponsors for the Scout troop. An Eagle Scout badge, the speaker declared, was not an evidence of great things done in a mediocre or passable way, but was evidence of a lot of little things done well; a badge of perseverance. In the attainment of the two Brevard Eagle Scouts is to be found, Mr. Barrett said, the remedy for all the ills of this or any community. A goal worthwhile set, and then effort and strife for its attainment.

Responses to the presentation were given by both boys in clear-cut manner. Fred Miller voiced the sentiment of the local Boy Scouts in declaring that the incentive for better work was manifest by the boys by reason of the fact that the Kiwanis Club was interested in their work, and as a patrol leader thanked the club for the courtesies extended the boys.

Jack, who is rated as one of the most studious boys in the Brevard High school, brought down the house by closing his acceptance speech with a reminiscence of history. "While," said he, "I hated to be second man of the troop to win the coveted honor of Eagle Scout, still there is honor in being second. George Washington, while generally thought of and universally spoken of as being first in everything, was in reality second. He was 'first in war, first in peace, and first in the hearts of his countrymen'—but here's the rub—he was not first with the ladies, for he married a widow."

President R. L. Alexander discussed phases of the committee work of the club, stressing need for more effort on the part of committee members. He reported on the work of providing glasses for several cases of underprivileged children, and stated that plans were practically complete for the fitting of four of these children so badly in need of glasses. This work of the club is attracting much interest.

A new idea in brooding baby chicks was begun in Alexander County this season with the building of six brick brooded houses. The new houses are giving good service according to their owners.
