tion, which automatically gives membership in the Woman's Bureau, with no further dues. The women of the town, through the Woman's Bureau, have done much good work for the community, and the fact that they are to be actively interested in the Chamber of Commerce is assurance that unusual results will be obtained during the coming year.

Pat Kinzey sounded the keynote of the meeting, when in a brief plea for co-operation, made just before election of officers, he urged that all people of the town stick to the officers that were about to be elected, regardless of whom were chosen, forget some of the "nasty personalities" that have been so prevalent in the community, and not be a "back-biter." Mr. Kinzey was given much applause.

President Jerome, in an impassioned plea for the betterment of the town and a closer cooperation of all the people, touched in his plainspoken way of the duties of the membership of the Chamber of Commerce, stressing the fact that the president and officers of the organization were powerless unless the membership was cooperative. "It is time," the new president declared, "that the people of Brevard forget the things that are small, the things that are mean, the things that are selfish, and all work shoulder to shoulder for the best interests of the community. 'To be or not to be,' as Shakespeare said—Whether it is nobler for ourselves and our town to suffer the pangs of these petty grievances, selfishness, jealousy, greed, antagonism, or to take up arms, and by cooperation, work, and earnest endeavor, try to end them.

"Too much energy has been wasted," Mr. Jerome continued, "in this town upon small, petty, selfish things. Personal feelings have been entirely too dominant with some of us. These things avail nothing in the way of upbuilding a community. Let's forget the things that are gone and all pull together for a greater Brevard. And a greater Brevard cannot be made by the officers of this Chamber of Commerce. No one man, no small group of men, can do the work that is so badly needed to be done here—it is a work for all. We can go forward if we all try. I will do my part, and I'm expecting you to do your full share."

calibre, would guarantee complete restoration of confidence in the community, it is said by those interested in the plan of re-organization.

B. W. Trantham, directing the work of procuring signatures to the agreement for re-organization and re-opening the bank, expresses hope that the work will soon be completed. Depositors have been signing rapidly during the past several days, it is reported, and the hard task comes in seeing all those who have but small amounts in the bank, yet whose signatures to the agreements are just as necessary as if they had large deposits. Being scattered throughout the county, these depositors with small balances on deposit must be seen by the workers and Mr. Trantham asks the aid of all who will volunteer to help in obtaining the signatures.

Insofar as the amount of deposits is concerned, it is said, the work is about completed. Practically every large depositor has signed the agreements, and many of them are now helping the committees round up the smaller depositors, which, after all, is the most difficult part of the work. Time is drawing near when the work must be completed, and but a few days remain in which to obtain the balance of the signatures. Citizens who have cars and are willing to devote a few hours to this work of re-organizing the bank and re-opening are urged to call at headquarters, in the Joines Motor company's place of business, and be given names of depositors to see and obtain signatures.

With the work of the point committee making this satisfactory headway, thought is now turning to other phases of the proposition, such as obtaining the state's sanction for re-opening the institution under conditions embraced in the agreement, and the procuring of the $36,000 by the stockholders to be placed in the bank, which is one of the requirements of the agreement. No report has been received as to these matters, but it is assumed that those in charge of these phases of the question will be ready to meet the requirements, if all the citizens are expressing impatience with the long time being spent in the work. Five months have now passed since the bank closed, and the experiences of the community in that five months has been such as to create a marked feeling of uncertainty and impatience. Those working on the proposition declare that they have been working as rapidly and they could, and have done in their power to rush the work to completion.

BREVARD OUTHITS MARSHALL TO WIN

Brevard's baseball aggregation, under the management of Lawrence Holt, opened their "pre-season training" here Saturday afternoon by defeating Marshall 9-3 in a game that was cut short by rain.

Graham and P. Schachner, battery for Brevard, held the visitors down to a minimum of hits, while the Brevard boys played errorless ball behind them. Every man on the local team got one or more hits along with their excellent playing.

Graham, pitcher, got two out of three; Paul Schachner one for three; Whitmire on first, two for three; Skidmore on second, one for three; Atwell on third had a perfect day at bat, getting three for as many tries; Harry Clayton on short, smacked one over centered fence for a homer; Mitchell in left, one for three; Regan in center, one for three; and Tom Carson, one of the best fielders Brevard had at the beginning of last year's season, came through two for three.

Altogether, the Brevard aggregation looked good. The regular season of the industrial league will begin May 16.

MISS WILLIAMS IS VICTOR IN CONTEST

In the State Peace Oratorical contest held April 27th at Asheville Teachers' college, Miss Ethel Williams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas S. Williams, of Penrose, tied for first place, but owing to the rules of the contest, was awarded second place and received a prize of $40. In the contest were representatives from Duke University, N. C. State, Elon, Lenoir-Rhyne, Guilford, and Asheville Teachers college. The title of Miss Williams' oration was "The New Frontier," and gave as the way to achieve world peace the shift in the emphasis of education from ideals of militarism to ideals of peace.

This oration will be entered in a national contest where the sole elements entering into the judgment will be the merits of the oration. Miss Williams won third place in an oratorical contest held in Atlanta, Ga., May 18, under the auspices of the Southern Association of Teachers of Speech. In this contest five states were represented. The subject of the oration in this contest was "American Prosperity." Miss Williams is a Junior at Asheville Teachers college and in addition to her activities in oratorical fields, has been a member of the debate team for two years. She graduated from Brevard Institute in 1928.
