

THE PRAYER CORNER

"THE SECOND MILE"
 "Whoever shall compel thee to go one mile, go with him two."—Matt. 5:41.

I have been reading lately about The Second Mile, and it so impressed me, that I must share my reading with you.

"Sooner or later every man and woman find their boundaries, and while poets may sing their songs of pathos over the fact, practical people have a more serious problem: to find out, that is, how a man or woman ought to face life's compulsions, in what attitude of mind they should meet the most of the world. And Jesus said: Whosoever shall compel thee to go one mile go with him two."

"At first sight, that is about the strangest prescription for the trouble one could well imagine. It proceeds upon the homeopathic principle, that "like things cure like," and would drive out the poison of a disease by injecting more of the same kind. If you are compelled to go one mile, of your own free will go two, it says, and so defeat the malice of the necessity by voluntarily going it one better."

"Indeed it is clear that if the earth should say to two plants in a garden, 'You must grow,' and if one plant should accept the bare necessity and sullenly grow its stint, and no more, that would be slavish business with no glory in it. But if its companion should say: 'It is my delight to grow. Come on, O earth, with all your bounty. You say I must grow, but lo, I am twice as willing as you are to make me.' That would be a free plant with worth and distinction in its growing. It is found true at even a cursory glance, that the sting of compulsion is gone when a man or woman is twice as willing to act as necessity to make them."

"Among all the ways in which we feel the hand of compulsion upon our shoulder, none is more inescapable than the compulsion of time. This is the most inevitable of all inevitable things. This slow inevitableness of time is a small matter indeed to the youth, but it puts compulsion on a man or woman not easy to be glad of."

"How many men and women rebel against this inevitable fatality of growing old. How they fret over declining powers and grudgingly submit to limitation. Because they take it so, because they enter their cramped confines with such ill grace, they make a sorry business out of age with never a touch of Rabbi Ben Ezra's mellow and radiant spirit:

"Grow old along with me,
 The best is yet to be,
 The last of life for which the first was made."

Rabbi Ben Ezra had the spirit of The Second Mile. His years were no less ineluctable in their compulsion, and his limitations no less carking than is the lot of other men, but he could see in both years and limitations:

"Machinery just meant
 To give thy soul its best;
 Try thee, and turn thee forth
 Sufficiently impressed."

"And whenever you seek the secret of this kind of age, you will not fail to find a man or woman who has gone the Second Mile, who has faced Time and said:

"O Time, you are a stern fellow, but you have a godlike power of Beauty about you. You can make souls deep and rich and fruitful, as you make old violins musical with the stored up melodies of years. As you make old wine perfect, with the ripeness of long generations, you say I must go this mile with you, but I am wise enough to look upon my necessities as though they were my luxuries, and I will go with you so willingly that men and women shall learn from me to say anew: 'The hoary head is a crown of glory.'"

The more one considers it, the more it is clear that when a man or a woman must go one mile the only spirit that can save their soul from bitterness is the willingness to go two.

A PRAYER
 My Father God, give me the larger sense of Thy Presence among the children of men. May every life be to me as holy ground. May the common bush flame with the secret fire. May I see the glory on the Common Road.

Teach us that both the depth and delicacy of Nature are revealed, when in our human relationships men and women are serviceably grateful to one another or when they interpret their religious life as Benjamin Franklin did in his daily morning prayer: "Accept my kind offices to Thy other children as the only return in my power for Thy continual favors to me. To this grace help us to see that the New Testament makes its habitual appeal. We should love others because God first loved us. We should forgive our enemies, because we have been forgiven. We should lay down our lives for the brethren, because Christ first laid down His life for us. We should love even our enemies because God's impartial care has included us all, just and unjust, good and evil. We should be kind one to another, even as God also in Christ forgave us. Use us our Father, for Thy Purpose even as water bearers and love bringers, to those whose souls are parched and desolate here. Let us go forth upon our daily journey knowing that Thou wilt help us to bring beauty and sweetness to those who know it not. Above all, touch our lives, we beseech Thee, with love of Jesus Christ. Make us lowly and kind as He was, following His "Example in thought, word and deed." Guard us against all that embitters our relations to others. Fill our souls with true charity in judgment and in utterance. Let us seek good rather than ill, in the lives of those around us, that we may help to sweeten the world for the Day of the Coming of Christ. Amen.

NEW BILLS GO INTO HOPPER LAST WEEK

Thought That Number Will Reach 2,000 Mark in Next Few Days

HIGH SCHOOL BOOK MEN WILL RECORD FINDINGS

Children of Veterans To Have Free Tuition in State Institutions

Brevard News Bureau
 Raleigh, May 13

In this endurance test session the number of bills introduced has reached 1990, and will doubtless pass 2,000, 1370 in the House and 620 in the Senate.

Only a few public bills were ratified last week. Among them was one to submit to the voters at the next election a proposal to separate the judicial and solicitorial districts, so additional judges may be named without having to name solicitors too, similar to the measure voted down last election.

Another was adopted to insure the full appropriations to the public schools, preventing cutting down as in case of institutions and departments of the State and providing for borrowing money on short term notes to supplement the fund, in anticipation of taxes, if the revenues are not sufficient.

Another new law provides for free tuition in educational institutions of the State to children drawing compensation from the U. S. Government because of the death or disability of their father, a World War veteran measure, and one provides a method of abolishing special taxes in special tax districts.

The printers of North America are invited to build their tuberculosis sanatorium and home for their sick and aged in North Carolina under a joint resolution adopted. Another resolution provides for safe-keeping of the girls formerly at Samarcaud and now under indictment for burning buildings.

Among the new bills introduced last week are the following:

Providing for a committee to study the question of adoption, purchase and distribution of high school textbooks and report its findings, conclusions and recommendations to the next session of the General Assembly.

To permit women to haul their fellow-workmen to and from work, when car is not larger than seven-passenger, without having to secure a hire license.

To allow the listing, valuation and assessment of suburban and rural subdivisions on acreage basis, rather than as town lots, when property has not been developed for residence or business purposes.

To permit the refund of tax on gasoline for all motor boats.

Providing that county and municipal tax claims may be combined in actions to foreclose on property for taxes.

Pleasant Grove News

Mrs. Carl Killian and small son of Brevard, spent the past week with Mrs. Killian's parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Grey, and friend of this place. Miss Arrie Rushton of this place, spent last week-end with schoolmates and friends at Fruitland Institute.

O. S. Grey and family attended the Orr reunion at Beulah Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Gay Banks were Sunday dinner guests of his daughter, Mrs. Coy Blythe of Blantyre.

Mr. Hall and Earl Grey were in Hendersonville on business Saturday. Sorry to report that Mrs. N. M. Brown is still on the sick list.

We enjoy the Sunday School lesson and the Prayer Corner and hope they continue to be carried in The News.

Mrs. Rena Aiken of Cherryfield is spending some time with her daughter here.

Gaston Whitmire of Cherryfield, was a Sunday guest of his mother-in-law, Mrs. L. C. Hamilton, of this place.

Mrs. Rena Aiken was a Sunday evening guest of Mrs. W. H. Grey. Mr. and Mrs. Tave Merrill and son of Little River, were visitors at the home of W. H. Grey Sunday afternoon.

THE HAUL OF FAME
 Paderewski arrived in a small Connecticut town about noon one day and decided to take a walk in the afternoon. While strolling along he heard a piano, and, following the sound, came to a house on which was a sign reading:

"Miss Jones. Piano lessons 25 cents an hour."
 Pausing to listen he heard the young woman trying to play one of Chopin's nocturnes, and not succeeding very well.

Paderewski walked up to the house and knocked.

Miss Jones came to the door and recognized him at once. Delighted, she invited him in and he sat down and played the nocturne as he only could, afterward spending an hour in correcting her mistakes. Miss Jones thanked him and he departed.

Some months later he returned to the town, and again he took the same walk.

He soon came to the home of Miss Jones, and looking at the sign, he read:

"Miss Jones (Pupil of Paderewski) Piano lessons $1.00 an hour."

MANY people have the mistaken belief that mail order houses can sell tires for less money than legitimate tire dealers can.

THIS IS NOT TRUE

For your own benefit, please be kind enough to take a few minutes of your time; and read the facts, give special attention to the comparison we make with the cross-section of our tire and that of the mail order tire; and be your own judge—what could be fairer than this? Folks, this mail order fellow has been fooling a number of people for some time, and we say to you—it's about time you investigated the added value and quality that you can buy at our authorized Firestone Station.

At Mail Order Prices Plus FREE Installation Service

Not the kind of service you receive at the mail order house—but real Super Service—True, the mail order tire company will have the tires applied, if you insist upon it—and folks that is all it does—apply the tires—that's all—Our Service means everything to the life of any tire—we clean the rims of rust—graphite the rims, straighten any rim bends, check your wheels for alignment, and see that each tire is properly and evenly applied—all this you will agree comes with experience as conscientious tire dealers, and does prolong the life of tires—This Service goes with each tire we sell FREE—and you don't have to ask for it.

And, Future Service

Whenever you need it, evenings, Sundays, holidays, or at any time

The Mail Order House Can't Give You This Service Still He Charges You The Same Price We Do

The Mail Order or special brand tire does not carry the name of the manufacturer who builds them—because they are not recognized as good standard merchandise—and are inferior to his first grade tires—all Firestone made tires carry the name Firestone and are
