

THE PRAYER CORNER

THE SECOND MILE

Matthew 5:41
What this Principle of Jesus does, when applied to our moral life is clear. It divides a man's or woman's conduct into two parts, the compulsory and the voluntary, the things he must do, and the things he chooses to do, the First Mile and the second Mile.

Such men and women reveal themselves by their instinctive attitude toward cleanly slated moral obligations such as "Thou shalt not bear false witness against thy neighbor." Facing this command, some will cry, "dear me, all their rights. Is my neighbor then, bearing false witness against me?"

Nights or duties, you can interpret any commandment either way, and it is the relative emphasis, a man or woman places here that measures the first stage in their character building.

privilege in service becomes greater than both rights and duties. For us to be a Christian is to be more willing to serve a man or woman than they are to demand it—to go the Second Mile; to forgive seventy times seven; to pray on our Calvaries for the men who put us there; to act, that is, as no one has the right to require of us and to feel about it all that our meat and drink are to od the will of Him that sent us. The essential word of Christianity is LOVE, and that means superabundant willingness to help. A man or woman becomes really Christian when the sense of joy in ministry overflows both rights and duties and submerges them.

And here is the Real Worth of the Moral Life—To long as words-worth sings, "Duty, stern daughter of the voice of God," he is but on the threshold of the matter. It is only when he rises in his climax to say: "Yet thou dost wear The God heads most benignant grace, Nor know we anything so fair As the smile upon thy face; Flowers laugh before thee on their beds And fragrance in thy footing treads"—only then has he come to the heart of it.

Duty is never worthily done until it is performed by a man or woman that loves it. So that they would gladly do more if they could. Some men and women say of their duties: "I must." Some say "I ought." Some say: "I want to, let me at it." These are the three tones of life. One man or woman is the slave of their necessities; others the grim moralists doing their duty; others of an abounding sense of privilege in life who feel all blessings large with God's favor, all trials meaningful with purpose, all duty as a glorious prerogative.

Though the gross output of moral living may seem in each case to be the same, those lives are not of one spiritual family. A duty done grudgingly, and the same duty done willingly are after all not the same. All sense of compulsion and of obligation is only underground foundation for the real temple whose altar song is forever, "I delight in the law of the Lord."

A PRAYER

We come to Thee, O God, with words of thanksgiving on our lips. We thank Thee for Thy gifts. They are as varied as our needs, as manifold as our desires. Our hearts cry for Love, and Thou hast given us the Love of parent and of friend, that have been as Thy Benediction on our lives. Our minds crave light and knowledge, and Thy spirit has kindled a lamp within us. We long for the vision of beauty, and Thou hast revealed Thyself gloriously in the open page of nature.

May we take these gifts, not for their own sake only, but as steps with which to mount upward to Thee, which are the perfection of Love and Truth and Beauty. Bathe us in Thy recreating life that we may cast off all meanness, all despair, all sin and shame, and enter into the secret of Thy Eternal Gladness. Help us to turn our earthly blessings to ends divine.

Grant us brave hearts and true. Inspire us with firmness to carry out every holy purpose. Forbid that we should waste the time that is left in vain regrets for the past, or vague dreams of the future, but let us be up and doing, knowing that though we fall, Thou wilt not cast us away.

May we gather up the fragments of time and opportunity which remain that nothing be lost. Grant that we may see Thee, not only in the thunder and tempest and earthquake, not only in the great moments of spiritual exaltation, but also in the commonplace duties, in the familiar relationships of life. May our home life be glorified with the spirit of love and mutual helpfulness. Remove from our midst all wrath and clamour, and evil speaking, and bitterness, and estrangement, and make us gentle and easily entreated, the children of a Forgiving God. May we know, with a spiritual knowledge, that Thou are Love and that dwelling in Love we dwell in Thee, through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

of Mr. James Sheppard one night last week.

Wake up, Glade Creek, if you don't get busy we will get behind. Come on and let's keep the news a-rolling.

Let's have a SHOWDOWN on this matter of TIRE COMPARISONS

WITH all the conflicting claims published about tires, it is obvious that misleading statements are being made. The only conclusion that you as a tire buyer can draw is that either we, as Firestone Dealers, are misrepresenting Firestone products, or that a certain mail order house is not telling the truth about theirs. Both can't be right—one or the other is misleading the public by their comparisons.

get the facts yourself, makes it unnecessary for Mr. Firestone to make affidavit on the truth of his statements or to file any complaint with the Federal Trade Commission, and then advertise it, in an attempt to lead the public to believe his statements were true.

Mr. Firestone doesn't ask you to accept comparisons about Firestone Tires and special brand mail order tires until you see the facts yourself. Neither do we. All we ask is that you make your own comparison.

Firestone, in their advertising, only make comparisons that can be easily verified by the customer before buying tires. To attempt to substantiate the comparisons made by this mail order house, it would be necessary to go into a laboratory and employ experts.

COMPARE CONSTRUCTION Table comparing Firestone and a Special Brand tire. Firestone: 168 cu. in. volume, 17.93 lbs. weight, 4.75 in. width, 6 plies, .610 in. thickness, $5.15 price. Special Brand: 159 cu. in. volume, 15.48 lbs. weight, 4.73 in. width, 5 plies, .610 in. thickness, $5.15 price.

Double Guarantee—Every tire manufactured by Firestone bears the name "FIRESTONE" and carries Firestone's unlimited guarantee and ours. You are doubly protected.
