WANTS PEOPLE TO CEASE BORROWING HER NEWSPAPER.

One good friend reports that she has a neighbor who got "all het up" at The Brevard News, and stopped her paper several weeks ago, and ever since that time this neighbor has been "borrowing" our friend's paper each week, even before this friend gets through reading it. "Folks who get mad and stop taking The Brevard News ought not to bother those who are taking it by borrowing it each week," this good friend says.

The best thing to do in a case like this is to "cool off" and come on in and subscribe for the paper again. We don't blame you for getting mad, that is your own American privilege. We get mad at the daily newspapers, sometimes, but we keep on with the dailies and with the magazines.

It isn't hardly fair, however, to get mad and stop taking a newspaper, and then sneak about and borrow a neighbor's paper. In fact, it is rather significant of a small mind a little spirit, and a poor sort of a sport.

This is not meant for the many people who read the paper that is taken by their relatives or friends, and with whom they have an understanding that The Brevard News is to be passed on from reader to reader. That is o. k. The above words are written solely to those who "get mad" and stop taking the paper, and then borrow a neighbor's paper. These are the fellows that will get dust in their eyes some day.

COL. WADE HARRIS, WESTERN CAROLINA'S BEST FRIEND, IN MOUNTAINS FOR SHORT VISIT.

The Brevard News was made most happy Monday when Wade H. Harris, editor of The Charlotte Observer and recognized as Western Carolina's best friend, came in for a short visit. The Colonel had just completed a swing through the mountains from Asheville to Sylva, Franklin, High Hampton, Cashiers, and on to Brevard. Mr. R. Neal Hood, prominent Charlotte citizen, was with Mr. Harris, and both reported a most pleasant visit through the mountain section.

"The mountains are filled with tourists," Col. Harris remarked, reporting large crowds at every point visited. The people of this community recognized the fact that many of the visitors in this section came here largely through the influence of Col. Harris, and the beautiful things which he writes about the mountains of Western North Carolina. No other writer in the South is so gifted in describing the beauties of the hills and the matchless splendor of the mountains. Nature has hidden nothing in these great mountains from his discerning eye. He sees, and can eloquently describe, every scenic beauty from the storm cloud that stands tip toe on the misty mountain peak, to the dense growth of the Catawba trees that line the lazily flowing French Broad passing through the placid Sylvan valley.

The men of the mountains love Col. Wade Harris and The Charlotte Observer, through which he utters his broad-minded, progressive precepts for a greater state. We are grateful for his consistent faith in Western North Carolina and take courage from his splendid support of this section.

"I am convinced that there is more genuine talent in Brevard than in any other town of its size in the country," remarked a visitor in Brevard to The Brevard News last Sunday. This visitor had attended services at the Methodist church, and had heard Alvin Moore sing. It was while commenting upon the wonderful ability of young Mr. Moore that the visitor made the remark, and, continuing, said: "I have attended many of your local talent plays, and have heard your choirs in four churches here, and listened to the splendid preachers of your town, and the talent here in all lines of endeavor is not excelled anywhere." We gladly print this visitor's words, for that is exactly what we have been saying for the past five years.

HATE AND SPITE AND PREJUDICE OUTWEIGHS SANITY AND CHRISTIANITY

Strong emotions these, controlling our lives and directing our actions in undisputed manner. Hate, and Spite, and Prejudice—destroying happiness here and driving men right into the bottomless pits of Hell. When Hate, and Spite, and Prejudice take ascendancy over reason, common sense, common justice and the spirit of Christianity and fellowship, then the victim is in one miserable state of mind.

Nothing is more pathetic than to witness a display of Hate, Spite and Prejudice on the part of an old man—a man whose white hair, wrinkled face, stiff joints and stooped shoulders, Nature's evidence of a life that is soon to end. You hear him, and even his crackling voice and quivering lips add evidence to the ravages of age and indicate that the end is drawing nigh. Yet, despite this unhappy condition, that man will express his hate, apply his spite and voice his prejudice against a fellow man with an enthusiasm and avidity which causes a shudder to those who hear him.

The strange part of the influence of these strong emotions—Hate, Spite and Prejudice—is the fact that a man will carry them right on in his life, day by day, when he KNOWS that he cannot be here much longer. He will carry these things in his heart right into the Amen corner of the church, and lead in prayer to the God of Love, while his own heart is raging with Hate, Spite and Prejudice!

If you know men who are living this blinded life, it is your duty to make effort to get that man to see the error of his way. Make him understand, if you can, that great message which was spoken by the Apostle of Love back yonder, when a lawyer asked Him which of all the laws was the greatest law, and that answering voice, gentle and sweet though it was, yet was so loud and impressive that it has thundered down through the ages, and said:

The greatest law is to love God with all your heart and mind and strength, and next to it and equally important was to love your neighbor as yourself. If these, the most important, the greatest, of all laws of God, are violated, why obey any of the other laws?

No man can love God and hate a fellow man. There is no need trying to kid yourself into believing that it can be done. The immutable laws of God say that it cannot be done. If one's heart is filled with Hate, and Spite, and Prejudice against another person, then there is no room for God's life in that heart. When a man stands on the street and spends his time cursing and backbiting another man, saying hateful things about him, and then goes into the place of worship and prays, he is making a mockery of the Master, a joke of Jesus Christ and casting reflection upon the crucifixion. Perhaps this is one thing that is acting as an impediment to the progress of the church.

Hate, and Spite, and Prejudice! These things do not go with Christianity. Christ died for love of man, not Hate, nor Spite, nor Prejudice! "I am the Way," He said, "and no man cometh unto the Father except he live and act and work and love and sacrifice as I have done. I have shown you the Way, the ONLY Way, and that Way leads through Love—not Hate, nor Spite, nor Prejudice!"

READ DR. KLEIN'S STATEMENT ON CONDITIONS IN GERMANY.

Those of our readers who have been somewhat befuddled because of the difficulty in understanding all about moratoriums and foreign trade, world depressions and other allied and kindred big subjects, will appreciate the simple explanation of these questions made by Dr. Julius Klein, and published elsewhere in this issue of the paper. Please do not let its length keep you from reading the article, for it is well worth reading, and will repay you many times over, in that its clear statements will help you to more readily understand these important questions.

Masons of the community should take their hats off to Little Jack Robinson. Jack sold $8.75 worth of tickets to the concert of the Oxford Orphanage performance, given last Thursday evening. That Jack is a loyal worker for his daddy's lodge is an established fact.

Wife (after dull evening at home)—"Don't sit there like a dud! Say something!"
Husband (brightly)—"Well, well, well. I see Mr. Hoover has had his picture taken."—Tit-Bits.

"Gracious," said the doctor, "how did you get these awful bruises on your shins? Are you a hockey player?"
"Oh, no; I just led back my wife's weak suit."

GREAT CROP GOING TO WASTE AS WE STAND AND LOOK ON

There is great consternation in evidence when a fine crop reaches almost to the point of harvest time, and then something happens to cause that fine crop to go to waste. That is as it should be. No one with any regard for other people can see such calamity without experiencing real regret at evidences of waste and ruination.

But we are thinking now of something far more valuable than a crop of grain, tobacco, cotton or vegetables. We are thinking of that fine group of young men in this community, and better fellows never lived than these of our own right here at home. Most of them have completed High School, or will graduate within a year or two. They have worked hard to "come through," and make the grade. Many of them are thinking about matrimony, and establishment of a home.

Then the awful question arises: "But what am I to do? How am I to make a living?"

Now just look about you. What have we here in this community for our young men to do? What effort has been made to establish something in which these young men might engage that would assure their future? Some few of the young men have obtained employment in the restaurants, barber shops, the postoffice, drug stores, and so on. But the many? What of them? Is there anything here at all for them?

We respectfully suggest to President Jerome that he make this question a matter of study in the Chamber of Commerce. No more constructive work could be done than that of making a place in the community for the young men who are already here, and want to stay here as useful citizens. It is far better, we believe, to provide places for those already here than it is to try to build the town by getting others to come here, while our own are having to leave and seek their opportunities in other fields.

Oakland News Items

James and John Chandler of Virginia, who left this county nearly fifty years ago, were here last week for a short visit to relatives.

Her many friends will be made sad to learn of the death of Myrtle, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. S. R. Robinson, formerly of this place, but now of Clatskanie, Oregon. Myrtle was married about a year and a half ago to Haywood Galloway of Tryon, N. C., and left pretty soon afterward for the state of Oregon, where she lived until her death last week. Myrtle was such a sweet girl. To know her was to love her.

Mr. and Mrs. Guy Matheson came up from Troutman last week to spend sometime visiting relatives and friends here.

Mrs. Charley Reid spent one day last week with her aunt, Mrs. E. A. Reid.

Mr. and Mrs. Guy Matheson and daughters, Billie, Joe, Martha and Mary and Mrs. Lee Norton were supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. I. S. Sanders Thursday evening.

Mrs. E. Norton of Easley, S. C., with a camping party of friends are spending several days in our section.

Miss Sanders joined a party of friends from Lake Toxaway and went to the ball game at Glenville Saturday afternoon.

Miss Flora and Miss Bess Reid are visiting their cousin, Miss Lessie Reid at Sapphire.

Rev. S. B. McCall and E. A. Reid made a motor trip to Henderson county and back Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Welch Reid had as their guests over the week-end Mrs. Alvin Miller and children of Quebec.

I. S. Sanders and son, Roy, were in Brevard, Monday on business.

Dan Reid and Clarence Norton left Monday to attend court as jurors this week.

Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Reid of Brevard spent Sunday evening with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Reid.

The revival meeting which started ten days ago is still going on at Lake Toxaway Baptist church and we trust there is much good being done. There has been a number of conversions. We don't know just how many. The public is cordially invited to attend this meeting. Prayer meeting at 7:30 and preaching at 8:00.

BIRTHS

Mr. and Mrs. Johnnie Hudson announce the birth of a son at the Transylvania hospital on Saturday, Aug. 1.

Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Osborne announce the birth of a girl, Patricia Ruth, Tuesday July 28.

CEMETARY WORKING

All who are interested in Glazener Cemetery are invited to meet there Tuesday, August 11, to clear off the graves. Bring lunch for yourself. Let's spend as much of the day as possible in a social as well as working way.

THE PRAYER CORNER

THE WAY OUT

I wish my readers to share with me some thoughts on that have come to me in my reading, for what we all want is Self Respect, do we not? To get Self Respect, I must do those things that bring my approval."

"THE WAY OUT"

I never approve of myself unless I do what I know I ought to do.

Self Respect, therefore, goes back to morality. When I am moral, I respect myself. When I am immoral I despise myself.

If you ask what I gain by being good, by doing what is just and fair, I answer, I gain my own Self Respect.

This means Happiness, the very foundation of All Happiness, for without a feeling of Self Approval, and other pleasures rest on a basis of concealed wretchedness.

Many people are gloomy, restless, pessimistic, and profoundly miserable, and do not know why. It is because they do not respect themselves.

I am an Eternal Companion of myself, I am the One Person I cannot get away from. If I despise this Me with whom I am doomed to live all my days, how can I be content? How then can I have Self Respect?

The answer is simple—In every movement of my life, I am called upon to decide whether to do this or that. Life is a continuous choosing. If I make an invariable rule to choose to do that which I feel I ought to do, I will be guided in the Way of Peace.

To do right is the path to Happiness. If you stop to think, you will see that this is not "just preaching," it is plain psychological truth. There isn't any way to be comfortable with anybody else unless you are comfortable yourself.

Suppose, therefore, you pause amidst your soul writhings and mortal torments and tangled beliefs, and distressing unbeliefs and dark moods, and the general spiritual stew you are in—just suppose you pause, and say, "There are a million things I don't know, but there is ONE I do know, I know enough to do right and I'll do it. Life is a mystery but the feeling that I ought to do this thing and ought not to do that is no mystery, but plain as a pikestaff, I will simply begin to do what I know I ought to do."

That is THE WAY OUT.

"I don't know by what ways it will lead you, but I know whither it will lead you—to Self Respect, and only where Self Respect is do we find those two jewels of our heart's desire—Peace and Poise. (Poise means the state or quality of being balanced.)

A PRAYER

Our Father, be with us, we pray Thee, not only in the great moments of experience, but also in the trivial round, the common task. Make us children of quietness and heirs of peace. Grant that we may go among our fellows with cheerful, kindly faces, ever lenient to their faults, ever glad to praise their virtues. Help us to control our tempers and to be kindly affectionate one toward another. Wherever we see need, or distress, may we be ready to help, counting it a joy to bear another's burdens, and so fulfil the Law of Christ. Save us from all selfish pleasure, and slothful ease, and idle curiosity.

Grant that we may commend our religion to others by our joyous demeanor, our courage under trials, our self restraint under provocation, our patience under misfortune and disappointment. Thus may we, as far as in us lies, spread the knowledge of the good news of Thy Kingdom, and attract others into it with the glad invitation, "O sad and disconsolate, weary and heavy laden ones, come ye and let us walk in the light of the Lord." These blessings we beseech Thee to give us, for Jesus Christ's sake, Amen.
