BACK TO THE FARM FOR SAFETY

"Those unable to find jobs must go back to the land," says Liberty Magazine in an editorial on unemployment. "Small farms of a few acres will supply the food and the crude comforts essential to healthful living. . . . A family with a small farm does not have to ask for charity. A farmer can always raise garden truck and if he has a cow and chickens he can practically support himself."

THE PRAYER CORNER

CHRIST THE SAVIOUR Psalm, 23.

It has been said that what the nightingale is among birds, that is this Divine Ode among the Psalms, for it has sung sweetly in the ear of many a mourner in his night of weeping and has bidden him hope for a morning of joy. I will venture also to compare it to the lark, which sings as it mounts, and mounts as it sings, until it is out of sight, and even then is not out of hearing. I wish you could hear it as I heard it many a day in the dear old Green Isle.

Note the last words of the Psalm, "I will dwell in the House of the Lord forever. These celestial notes, more fitted for the external mansions than for these dwelling-places below the clouds, oh, that we may enter in to the spirit of the Psalm as we read it, and then we shall experience the Days of Heaven upon earth.

What expectations are awakened by this Divine Ode among the Psalms. Many have come into the Christian Life because in experience they have found that "it is not in man that walketh to direct his steps." They wanted a guide in the mysterious pilgrimage of life, and in the words of hymns like, "He Leadeth Me, O Blessed Thought," they saw the promise of a God Conducted Experience.

But they are disappointed. They have the same old puzzles to face about what they ought to do; they have no Divine Illumination that clears up in advance their uncertainty as to the wisdom of their choice; they are not vividly aware of any guidance from above to save them from the perplexities which their companions face about conduct and career. Of course part of their difficulty is due to false expectation.

"Not even Paul or John was given mechanical guidance. Infallible and unmistakable: they never had a syllabus of all possible emergencies with clear directions as to what should be done in every case; they were guided through their normal faculties made sensitive to Divine suggestion, and doubtless they never could clearly distinguish between their thoughts and their inspirations."

"Divine Guidance did not save them from puzzling perplexities and unsure decisions, but it did give them certainty that they were in God's hands, that He had hold of the reins behind their human grasp; that when they did wisely and prayerfully the best they knew, He would use it somehow to His service. And so far as the vivid consciousness of being guarded is concerned, that probably came in retrospect; when they saw how the road came out, they agreed that God's hand must have been in the journey. Such an experience it is reasonable to expect, and possible to have.

A PRAYER

O God, our Lord, the Stay of all them that put their trust in Thee, wherever Thou leadest, we will go, for Thy Ways are Perfect Wisdom and Love even when we walk through the Dark Valley. Thy Light can guide us safely through the Night of Sorrow. Be Thou our Friend, and we need ask no more in Heaven or Earth, for Thou are the Comfort of all who trust in Thee, the Help and Defence of all who hope in Thee.

O Lord, we would be Thine; let us never fall away from Thee. We would accept all things without murmuring, from Thy Hand, for whatever Thou dost is right. Blend our wills with Thine and then we need fear no evil, nor death itself, for all things must work together for our good. Lord keep us in Thy Love and Truth. Comfort us with Thy Light, and guide us by Thy Holy Spirit, through Jesus Christ our Lord, Amen. —C. D. C.

DR. MURCHISON IN STRONG SERMON

Dr. Hugh R. Murchison, dean of Bible at the University of South Carolina, was given rapt attention by a large congregation at the Brevard Methodist church last Sunday evening when he presented a compelling discourse on "The Way of Life."

Basing his remarks on the 90th Psalm, the learned minister and teacher very aptly traced the life of the youth of today through young manhood and womanhood, into the age of service or maturity, and climaxed his sermon with fruits of a life well spent, pointing out the many wonderful chances of service and the problems surrounding the life of a traveler on the Highway of Life.

Dr. Murchison will preach at the Brevard Presbyterian church Sunday morning, and on Monday will leave to take up his teaching duties in the South Carolina university. He and Mrs. Murchison have been guests for several weeks of Rev. and Mrs. R. L. Alexander.
