

NEWS AND VIEWS OF THE TAR HEEL STATE

(By Mark Taylor Orr)

Representatives of city, county, state and federal governments were invited to take part in a three day meeting in Chapel Hill, Tuesday, for the purpose of searching for the best measures of combatting crime in North Carolina today.

Various measures were to be discussed concerning cooperative modes of banishing crime, privileges of officers and organizations of police departments.

The best authorities on the crime situation in the state were scheduled to participate in the discussions. Among them were: Gov. O. Max Gardner, R. R. Talbert, president of the N. C. Association of Police Chiefs; President Frank Graham, of the University of North Carolina; Lieut. Gov. R. T. Fountain, Senator J. W. Bailey, Attorney General Dennis G. Brummitt, Associate Justice George W. Connor and W. J. Brogden of the Supreme Court; Judge J. J. Hayes and Judge I. M. Meekins of the federal bench; Jurgens M. F. Barnhill, Wilson Warlick and Michael Schenck of the Superior Court. E. B. Jeffress, chairman of the state highway commission; J. F. Spruill and J. C. B. Ehringhaus, former solicitors, and Albert Coates of the U. N. C. Law department is in charge.

An Eastern band of Cherokee Indians who live in the Plott Balsam and Great Smoky Mountains of Western North Carolina, elected Jarrett Blythe, graduate of Carlisle, as their chieftain. Around 1000 votes were cast in the election, about 200 being cast by women. This was the first election in the history of the Cherokees, in which the women were allowed to vote.

The duties of Chief Blythe are to administer the land and money affairs for the 3,131 Indians enrolled. He maintains an office at the Cherokee School.

Labor Day was generally celebrated in North Monday in a very quiet manner. The major celebrations in Western North Carolina were held at the American Enka Plant, Asheville, and at Canton.

The majority of people have forgotten just what Labor Day means. It was started in the U. S. by the Knights of Labor in 1882, in the cause of improved labor conditions, by large parades in the streets and interesting demonstrations. Since the labor conditions are no longer "improved," citizen have forgotten the time-honored day in regard to celebrating; instead they regard it as merely a day of relaxation, perhaps it is better that way.

U. Benton Blalock, general manager of the N. C. Cotton Growers Co-operative Association, announced Monday that distribution of a cotton picking fund of $50,000 had been started by that association and approximately $25,000 of it is already in the mail.

In connection with the cotton situation, Gov. Gardner has announced that no cotton will be grown on the farms operated by the state of North Carolina in 1932. This may aid the cotton farmer to some extent.

Construction of a series of State Prison camps to take care of the prisoners who are to work the roads of the state, began in McDowell county Monday morning, according to W. W. Neal of Marion, District State highway commissioner. The camp will be built by non-convict labor at an approximate cost of $20,000. It will be of brick and concrete, surrounded by a steel fence, giving the appearance of a stockade. It is expected that the camp will be completed within 60 days. Other camps are to be erected in Burke, Catawba, Cleveland and Haywood counties in the near future.

The camp in McDowell county is the first to be erected since the state took over the roads, for operation.

James S. Goode of Waynesville and E. M. Hale of Sylva, have organized a company to edit and publish a weekly, democratic paper in Waynesville, within a few weeks. It is said that Goode will be editor and Hale business manager. Both men are veterans in the newspaper world and highly capable to publish a fine paper.

A large, new hospital with all modern conveniences and improvements was dedicated to Hugh Gwyn Chatham, late universally loved and admired business man, last week. The hospital was presented by J. B. Ivey, president of the Western North Carolina Hospital Board.

The hospital is located at Elkin and is said to be one of the best in the state.

Public schools, universities, colleges and private schools are opening over North Carolina this week and many of them report a better enrollment than that of last year. There is still money in this state for education.

"North Carolina can increase its annual cash tourist crop a minimum of $6,000,000," said Charles P. Clark,

SAVE YOUR EYES

By Dr. John T. Campbell, Secretary North Carolina State Board of Examiners in Optometry.

Persons who use a "night light" either from fear or some other equally unwise reason would do better to omit its use, as perfect darkness is more conducive to the attainment of sound and refreshing sleep. Other causes of sleeplessness may be the shining into the window of nearby street lights; the light from passing cars or from nearby houses.

In cases where the light cannot be removed, screens which are opaque and do not permit the light to pass through should be so placed as to keep the outside lights from reaching the eyes of the sleeper. It should not be necessary to state that the attempt to screen out the light must not interfere with adequate ventilation.

The lids of the eyes are closed in sleep but they do not form a perfect shutter, as some light is allowed to pass through them. Any light entering the eye will cause a nervous impulse which will be conducted by the visual pathways to the brain, thus tending to excite consciousness. By this means an unexpected and unlooked-for cause of sleeplessness is established.

People who sleep in rooms facing the east are awakened early by the rising sun in summer, and without doubt the sunlight caused some little annoyance before the sleeper was awakened. Bedrooms decorated in light colors, with light painted furniture may look pretty by daylight but they are not so restful at night as those finished in darker shades of green and brown, with dark furniture and trimmings. And then, too, better leave out the "Night Light."

INSTITUTE OPENS WITH ENROLLMENT LARGER THAN EVER

Principal of grounds and assistant supervisor of student labor; J. A. Bishop, farm superintendent; Rev. J. H. West, pastor.

The first term of the school year began Wednesday morning for registration, the school work beginning as usual.

Brevard Institute is the outgrowth of the Brevard Epworth School, founded in 1895 by Rev. Fitch Taylor and aided by the leagues and Sunday Schools of the Western North Carolina Conference of the M. E. church, South. In June 1903 the school was placed in the hands of the Woman's Missionary Council, and on October 20th of the same year, the school opened with 50 students, E. E. Bishop being made principal.

The school has grown steadily year by year and several modern buildings have been added during that time.

The purpose of the school is to give boys and girls a good education who otherwise would not be able to get one. The school is an A grade accredited high school as rated by the N. C. Department of Education.

Rev. Fitch Taylor was superintendent from 1895 to 1901. Mr. Taylor died in Brevard in 1909. His wife, known as "Mother Taylor," is still living here.

E. E. Bishop was superintendent of the school from 1902 until 1907, resigning in 1907 to accept a position with the Vashiti schools.

Prof. C. H. Trowbridge was superintendent for sixteen years, from 1907 to 1923. Mr. Trowbridge is at present president of Weaver College, where he has been since he resigned from his position at Brevard Institute. Prof. O. H. Orr was superintendent from 1923 until 1927. He is now connected with the Pisgah Industrial bank, of Brevard. Supt. J. F. Winton accepted the superintendency in 1927 and is now acting in that capacity.

Brevard Institute offers opportunities to many boys and girls that are not to be found in any other school. The students are enabled to work much of their school expenses on the school farm and in the kitchen.

About twenty students remained at the school during the past summer and worked, raising and canning vegetables and fruits to earn money to apply on their expenses for the regular school year.

One of the most important points in favor of Brevard Institute is the religious atmosphere which surrounds it. The students attend church regularly and are members of the Brevard Methodist Sunday School.

General manager of the American Automobile Association, to more than 200 representatives of motor clubs in the two Carolinas, Tennessee, and officials from the national headquarters Monday afternoon in a district meeting near Greensboro.

He explained that he would organize a campaign to encourage the tourists to remain 24 hours longer in the state than they had first intended. Mr. Clark based his ideas on the scenic beauty of North Carolina, stressing the interest people from other states express of "our mountains and wild life."

WELCOME SERVICE FOR B. I. STUDENTS

Formal welcome will be extended to the student body and faculty members of Brevard Institute at the Sunday morning service of the Methodist church. This group, which plays an important part in the activities of the local church, will be extended appropriate welcome by the pastor, Rev. J. H. West, Rev. G. C. Brinkman, representatives of the Sunday School and lay bodies of the church.

At the Sunday evening service, Prof. J. F. Winton, superintendent of Brevard Institute, will preach.

Last Sunday evening Rev. Mack Grogan, recently ordained minister, preached a very appropriate sermon to a highly appreciative congregation, using as his scripture basis the 19th chapter of the prophecy of Jeremiah. Many people, who were privileged to hear the young divine for the first time were warm in their praise of the ability of the popular young Brevard man.

The dole and free trade have brought Great Britain to the verge of financial collapse. And yet there are "statesmen" in America who would have this country enter upon the same road to destruction.
