AND THIS IS TO BE A BATTLE ROYAL FOR FAIR

Now that the real estate boom is a thing of the past, and interest in the banking situation is waning, Western North Carolina must have something else to scrap about, so the women of Asheville begin organizing for repeal of the prohibition laws. Not content with a little scrap in Asheville, notice is given that the fight is to be carried into all the counties in Western Carolina. All right. But let us tell you one thing: This is going to be a battle royal. All scraps of the past will appear as pink tea affairs in comparison to what this scrap is to be. North Carolina is dry, and any effort to agitate repeal of the dry laws can result in nothing but a fuss which will divide families, destroy friendships and tear communities asunder.

It is a foolish thing to do just now, when the whole section ought to be busy at constructive work which can be done only with solidified effort. Looks like we have had enough hell without starting a foolish fight over prohibition at this time. We should, at least, wait until we get the Great Smoky Mountain National Park going, and some of the defaulted interest coupons on our bonds redeemed, and some of our school affairs straightened out, ere we begin a fight over as foolish a thing as an attempt to repeal the prohibition laws.

GLADE CREEK FOLKS ARE PRAISING FRED JOHNSON

Citizens of the Glade Creek community are giving much praise to Fred Johnson, in charge of the road work in that section, because of the fact that those residents can now drive their cars over the road. One citizen remarked a few days ago that this is the first time since Adam was a little boy that people could get in and out of the Glade Creek section with any degree of ease.

Several sections of the county are beginning to "see daylight," with improvements being made on the country roads. Mr. Howard, in charge of this district for the State Highway Commission, receives many letters expressing gratitude for work being done in the several rural communities in Mr. Howard's district. We have been expecting to hear from East Fork on improvements of roads. Seems that we used to have communications from that section lambasting the roads rather severely. As we get it from second-hand sources, there has been considerable improvement in East Fork, but we would like to get first hand and direct information about the matter.

Wonder what is the matter with our good friend who used to send in some most interesting news from that section. (Since the above was written, East Fork came in like a cyclone, Glory Hally . . . oh, you spell it.)

OUR GOVERNOR AND SENATOR GIVE DIFFERENT REASONS.

Over in Asheville last week some women of that city listened to a couple of imported public speakers, one from Washington and the other from Raleigh, and then proceeded to organize themselves into a group with the avowed purpose of bringing about repeal of the prohibition laws. It was declared by the imported speakers that the awful crime wave waving about over this wavering country of ours was due to the prohibition laws, therefore, these laws should be repealed or modified.

Down at Chapel Hill during the same week two great men were speaking, the one Governor O. Max Gardner, the other, Senator Josiah W. Bailey. They, too, were talking about the crime wave waving over this wavering country of ours, and the causes as given by these great men for this crime was our love of money. Governor Gardner and Senator Bailey gave sensible, sound arguments and cited facts and figures to prove their case. The women who came to Asheville merely said their say, and had no facts nor figures upon which to base their assertions.

We believe that statesmen like Governor Gardner and Senator Bailey will find more people ready to accept their diagnosis of conditions than can be found who will accept the word of ladies who are out on the stump fighting the prohibition law. We know, at least, that Messrs. Gardner and Bailey represent the state of North Carolina. We do not know whom these two women represent, nor who is paying their expenses, nor from whom they take their orders. We do know that Governor Gardner and Senator Bailey are deeply interested in the development of North Carolina's resources and in the advancement of her people. We do not know whose brewery is to be benefitted by the repeal of the prohibition law, nor whose winery and distillery is to be put in operation just as soon as the prohibition act can be annulled, if, and when, such an impossible thing happens.

OF COURSE THE BUILDING AND LOAN IS GOOD HERE.

One of our subscribers living in Florida, but owning some property here and having shares in the Brevard Building and Loan association, writes in to know if The Brevard News really believes in the future of this county as expressed in an editorial two weeks ago. She also wants to know about the Brevard Building and Loan association.

We have replied to the lady in a personal letter, but fearing that others might be worried in similar manner, we are making this public statement.

We not only believe all that was said in our recent editorial, but a whole lot more could have been said of the future of this section, and the enlarged statement be well within bounds of reason. Other great developments have come to light within the past week which add much to the already bright prospects for the future of Transylvania county.

As to the Brevard Building and Loan association, we can assure our good friend that no other institution has done so much for the community, and close examination and inspection of the association by experienced men give assurance that the local institution is in splendidly sound condition. The fact that not a single building and loan association in the state went down last year, while banks all about were falling by the wayside ought to be sufficient evidence of the soundness of these institutions.

Some very flattering reports have been made concerning the Brevard Building and Loan association, and we know of no other institution anywhere in the state that has greater resources behind it in comparison with its liabilities than that found in the Brevard Building and Loan association. We advised our good friend in Florida to hold on to her property here, and by all means to keep her building and loan payments right up to the notch at all times.

BIG EVENTS TOLD IN LITTLE PARAGRAPHS

(Gleaned by Clifford Montieith)

Fire in the suburbs of Mesopotamia, as an aftermath of the hurricane that struck Belize, British Honduras, on September 10 is now threatening to complete the destruction of storm and flood as the work of burying and cremating the dead, now estimated at more than a thousand, goes grimly on.

Flight Lieutenant J. N. Boothman flew his silver plane 271 miles at an average of 340.03 miles per hour Sunday, September 13, to win the coveted Schneider cup for Great Britain.

If Henry B. Bigelow, professor of zoology at Harvard University, and Sir Hubert Wilkins, polar explorer, are successful in their experiments an answer to the riddle of the mythical "lost" continent will probably be found.

George Young, a husky young man from Toronto, was winner in the annual 15-mile swimming race in Lake Ontario last week.

At the eighty-second meeting of the American Chemical Society in Buffalo last week Professor Linus Carl Pauling, of California Institute of Technology, was presented with a certificate and $1,000 for being the most promising young chemist in the country.

The Graf Zeppelin has returned to Friedrichshafen, Germany, completing a non-stop flight from Pernambuco.

The Hungarian government, last Saturday, ordered all newspapers in that country to reduce the number of their pages one-third as part of an economic program.

More than two billion dollars passed through the national treasury last Tuesday when the quarterly financing securities were sold, income tax received and maturing securities and debts paid.

Carl Milles, greatest sculptor since Rodin, is making a tour of the United States.

Clyde Pangborn and Hugh Herndon, Jr., announce that they will attempt a non-stop trans-pacific flight from Japan to the United States in the near future.

Fires in the Minnesota north woods last week caused three deaths, left over three hundred persons homeless, and destroyed approximately a million dollars worth of property.

Less than twenty hours after their take-off from Le Bourget on a non-stop flight to Tokyo, Joseph LeBrix, French aviator, and Rene Mesmin, mechanic, were killed when their airplane Hypphen 11 crashed into a field Saturday, September 12.

With peace reigning on the Parado after the $150,000 revolution, President Gerardo Machado has started setting his country to rights.

Oil is again flowing from some 1,800 wells in the sprawling East Texas field. Although some of the wells have a capacity of 40,000 barrels per day, only 225 barrels are allowed to flow from each well per day.

Willy Rody and Christian Johansen, in their big junkers airplane, took off from Juncal do Sol Sunday on a non-stop hop from Portugal to New York.

Among the 32,000 inventions on display this week at the international patent exposition, being held in Chicago, are invisible galluses and non-skid soap.

Jack Hyland, of Wilson, N. C., has arrived at Detroit after roller-skating for 34 days and eight nights. He used up four pairs of roller skates in the 1,900 miles covered.

Premier Mussolini's cabinet will issue a decree revoking the 1924 law against gambling houses throughout Italy in an effort to aid the pleasure and health resorts, which have suffered severely from lack of business this summer.

Flight Lieutenant G. H. Stainforth became holder of the world's speed record last Sunday when he flew over a three kilometer course at a speed of 386.1 miles per hour.

Sir Hubert Wilkins' polar submarine, the Nautilus, has returned to its home port at Spitzbergen after an extended tour of the Arctic ice fields. The Nautilus was somewhat damaged in the ice but was able to make port under its own power.

Secretary of War Patrick Jay Hurley is now in the Philippines securing first-hand information concerning the political, educational, social and economic conditions which now prevail in the islands.

His usual prayer period and an international radio broadcasting system were used last Sunday by Mahatma M. K. Gandhi to address the American people, and to "appeal to the conscience of the world to come to the rescue of people who are dying in order to regain their liberty."

City and county authorities have again taken charge of Jonesboro.

Breedlove will be glad to know she is well again after being sick for the past two weeks.

WHAT IS A GOATEE?
ASK YOUR HUSBAND

(By CARL GOERCH)

There are certain things which are serious, solemn and sacred and which should not, under any circumstances, be treated lightly.

That statement is intended merely as a word of warning in the event that you should feel like laughing out loud when you read in the papers that President Hoover is going to issue a Thanksgiving proclamation as usual this year.

During the past week I received over eighty letters from people in different sections of the state, referring to a statement I made in this column recently to the effect that dogs do not scratch themselves with their left hind legs.

Some of the writers seemed slightly peeved about the proposition. They wrote that they had spent an hour or more, waiting for their dogs to scratch, and then had discovered that the animals were just as prone to use the left leg as the right one.

Come to think of it, maybe I was wrong in saying that dogs didn't use their left hind legs. Perhaps it was ostriches that have this peculiar habit. Anyway, watch the next ostrich you happen to see and report to me on its activities.

Taking everything into consideration, I believe that Max Gardner has had more serious problems to deal with than any other Governor we've had this century. Strikes, deficits in finances, depressions, the cotton situation, the legislature—it's been just one thing after another. As a whole, however, he's made a darned good Governor and deserves a lot of credit for the way he has handled the affairs of state.

Stop reading this for just a moment and turn to some member of the family or some friend who happens to be in the immediate vicinity and ask him what a spiral stairway is. Then watch his right hand closely.

Nine hundred and ninety-nine people out of a thousand will immediately start making circular motions with their hands before saying a word. The instant you pronounce the word, "spiral," you'll observe that their hands start in motion.

The same is true about the word, "goatee." Ask some of your friends what a goatee is, and you'll discover they will invariably grab for their chins before uttering a word. Folks are funny that way.

What this country needs, during these days of low prices for farm commodities, is to fire every special commission and every special board that has been appointed to investigate the situation as it now exists.

On top of that, if we'd forget about the farmers and let them work out their own salvation, the chances are that they might be able to accomplish something.

We don't give the farmer credit for having sense enough to come in out of the rain. Everybody seems to think that the farmer can't get along without outside help. Personally, I believe that the average farmer would be a blamed sight better off if people who don't know the first thing about agriculture would quit messing up things.

The Norfolk-Southern drawbridge across the Pamlico river is turned by hand. The negro who pushes the lever around, walking in a circle 24 feet in diameter, has been on the job more than a score of years. During that time, he has walked a distance of more than 15,000 miles in that circle, opening and closing the draw.

Just think of that. Fifteen thousand miles and never more than a few feet from where he started. He and some of our leading politicians in North Carolina are very much alike; they spend practically all of their time going around in circles and never getting anywhere.

We had a children's party around at our house the other night. Eight to twelve years old. When it came time for the party to break up, parents of the guests would drive up in front of the house and sound their auto horns. In every instance, some child would jump up from her seat and say: "here's our car; I've got to be going!"

In not a single case did any of the guests make an error in identifying their respective cars.

In these days and times, children may sometimes fail to recognize the voice of their parents, but they never fail to recognize their own automobile horns.

Speaking of children: Over in Greenville not long ago, J. B. Kittrell and his five-year-old son were having a conversation.

"Daddy, are you afraid of thunder?"

"No, son."

"Are you afraid of snakes?"

"Not especially."

"Are you afraid of lions?"

"No, indeed."

"Gosh, daddy, but you're brave."

"You're not afraid of anything in the world, except Mamma, are you?"

Ark, following the withdrawal of national guardsmen called there Thursday, September 19, when a controversy between factions of the First Baptist church reached alarming proportions.

Lawyer (for auto accident victim) "Gentlemen of the jury, the driver of the car stated that he was going only six miles an hour. Think of the long agony of my poor client, the victim of this accident, as the car drove slowly over him!"
