NEWS AND VIEWS OF THE TAR HEEL STATE

(By Mark Taylor Orr)

According to Santford Martin, editor of The Winston-Salem Journal, there were 135 of our most widely read newspapers listed as "Democratic" in 1900. With only 19 as "Republican" and 26 as "Independent." However, today there are 56 "Independent" papers in the state, 33 "Independent Democratic," 76 "Democratic," and only six "Republican."

Martin, in a recent radio address from Raleigh, predicted a future of service to the state by its press. He said it was determined on a broad educational program for the state, heralded and backed good roads in the state, hooded health programs, given and continuing to give aid to agriculture and also has been a great factor in eliminating sectional differences.

He further said "The biggest opportunity that confronts the press today is that of proclaiming the essential unity of North Carolina from 'Slick Rock Creek' to 'Kill Devil Hill' as Gov. Bickett used to say."

A white haired old man, 82 years of age sits in a cell on "Death Row." He is not downcast; death has no horrors for him, he will meet it calmly.

He is the oldest man ever to be sentenced to the "chair" in North Carolina. When he was sent to the State Prison he left his faithful, 78 year old wife behind.

The Western Carolinas Mountains, Inc., an association formed recently to serve the civic, commercial and industrial interests of the 13 counties which compose the "Land of the Sky" has been chartered under the laws of North Carolina, with headquarters at Asheville.

The organization will endeavor to advertise the "Land of the Sky," by various media and methods, and promote its interests by regional planning, resort and recreational development, industrial research and promotion, state, county and municipal research and other items of general development.

Officers for the association were selected from the major towns and cities included in the "Land of the Sky."

Three outstanding corporation lawyers of the State will present and defend the objections of various concerns to the request of the Railways to increase their freight rate, 15 per cent. The railways proclaim that they cannot survive on less than a 15 per cent increase. The argument will be tried September 21 and a decision announced 30 days later.

The truck war is still on! Patrol officers have been directed by Lieut. L. B. Fisher of the State Highway Patrol to make an attack upon trucks when such carriers are found violating the state laws by driving regular scheduled routes with produce from other states without taking the trouble to purchase a N. C. tag.

Officials are confident that an agreement will be reached with South Carolina this week and perhaps with Georgia and Kentucky. The two Carolinas have been waging a hot battle, each of the states arresting many intruding scheduled trucks without their license.

In an effort to check the ever mounting death toll, exacted every year in this state by traffic accidents, state highway officials have been notified to compel strict adherence to the speed laws.

Blame for the majority of accidents can be laid to the speed demons and careless drivers, however, Lieut. Fisher of the State Highway Commission, has announced that the necessity of holding drivers to the 45 mile an hour speed limit is only too apparent.

Gov. Gardner is directing a meeting this week to provide relief for the unemployed. The first meeting will be attended by State Highway, Agriculture, Health and Welfare officials in an effort to perfect an organization which will be invaluable to the unemployed.

Prof. R. W. Henninger of the N. C. State College will direct the relief forces.

What a turmoil this old state is in. From over the state comes news of Wet Propaganda that is being circulated from Dan to Beersheba. From one end of the state we hear that the women are forming wet organizations. From another that they are forming Prohibition Societies to protect the Eighteenth Amendment.

Perhaps these wet organizations for women are mere fads and they will disband after a short period of excitement and argumentation.

Though the farm population of the United States has decreased approximately 1,000,000 in the past decade, North Carolina has increased 100,000, according to former Gov. Angus McLean.

When the 1930 Federal Census was made, it was found that there

Funeral services for the little Gilreath child were held at the Crab Creek church Sunday afternoon at 2:00 o'clock.

At the baptizing held here Sunday there were sixteen persons baptized into the membership of the church. The baptizing and sermon afterwards were both well attended. Alonzo McCrary, V. V. Shipman and Mr. Gardner were business visitors to Hendersonville recently.

TRUSTWORTHINESS ONE SCOUT POLICY

(Editor's Note: This is the first of a series of articles, discussing the 12 laws of the Boy Scouts of America, concerning their application to the daily life of not only the Boy Scout, but for any man or woman, boy or girl, as well.)

The first law of Scoutdom reads thus: "A Scout is Trustworthy." A Scout's honor is to be trusted. If he were to violate his honor by telling a lie or cheating, he is not doing exactly a given task when trusted on his honor, he may be directed to hand over his Scout badge.

This is not a hard rule to obey, unless one has gotten into the habit, by lying in order to place undue credit upon himself, or to avoid punishment for some offense.

A good Scout tries to be the very soul of honor. His honor means more to him than any earthly treasures he may attain by violating it. Cheating is only one form of stealing. For in cheating, one is taking that which is not his for his own advantage. A popular form of cheating is found in schools, where the pupil is either too lazy or too dumb to master the lesson assignment, he then proceeds to copy someone else's paper or "sneak a look" at the textbook.

When a boy first joins the Scouts he memorizes the Scout Oath, in which he promises upon his honor to obey all of the Scout Laws.

Then comes the acid test. Will he consider his oath of honor a trivial matter and immediately forget the promises he has made or will it burn itself so into his memory that a slight misdemeanor casting doubt upon the strength of his honor, is repulsive to him?

The twelve laws are hard, for the slightest slip in one of them means that the Scout has broken his oath of honor.

Scout! Man or Woman! Boy or Girl! Ask yourself these questions: Are you sensitive to the violation of your code of honor? Can you be trusted with great responsibilities which may offer inviting temptations? Have you the courage to stick up for the truth, whether it be for or against you, or someone you love? Can you look great temptations to violate your honor, in the eye and say no? If so you have won over Scout Law No. One, and if you are wise you will check this down in your own private Code of Ethics.

were 1,599,918 farmers in the state. Ten years ago there were 1,501,227. Only 19 states out of the "United 48" show an increase in number of farmers.

The movement from the city to the farm started prior to 1930. It was noted the nation over, by the sale and exchange of farms. Many farmers who deserted their farms when the city wages were high are returning this year to pick up the plow and start in anew.
