SCOUTS LOYAL TO PARENTS, COUNTRY

(By Scout Reporter)

The second law of Scoutdom reads: "A Scout is loyal." He is loyal to all to whom loyalty is due, his Scout leader, his home, and parents and country.

LOYALTY is a big word; it requires sacrifice, strength of character and devotion to comply with its demands. Webster tells us that the world loyal means faithful in allegiance, however the Scout word, loyal, has a much fuller, better meaning.

It was loyalty that led so many Scouts into the World War to die for their country. It was loyalty that led them to dare disease and death, in order to render service and first aid during the Mississippi flood of 1928, and it is loyalty that causes them to perform deeds for their country, home and fellow man in everyday life.

Scout training and principles are great factors in strengthening the natural instinct of a boy to be loyal, and true. The normal boy is born to "loyalty." His later life may not stress this law and he may lose this latent talent unless proper guidance is offered.

You have read many instances of loyalty in books, newspapers and magazines; by no means were they all of Boy Scouts. The Boy Scout, however, is prepared to be loyal. His loyalty will prove valuable to whom it is given, while others may be just as loyal, to no avail.

The Boy Scout is loyal to his Scout organization, his home, parents, country, church, school, associates and any institutions with which he may be involved. The Scout organization is second only to the home in the training of boys for cleaner, better and more loyal lives.

An incident of loyalty that I will always remember occurred in a small town on the Mississippi river. The flood was on, full strength; leaving death, disease and homeless families in its wake. A young Scout, 13 year of age lay ill in bed. All of his brother Scouts were out at work, rendering first aid, rescuing human lives, working on the levees and making themselves generally useful.

The young Scout could stand it no longer for he too was a loyal Scout. He arose from his bed, dressed in his new Scout uniform, strapped on his First Aid equipment and went out to do his "bit" of service.

All day he toiled in the water and mud; caring for the injured, cooking meals, saving home supplies, animals, and cooperating with the other Scouts on duty.

It was too much, at the close of the day his small, tired life faded away in the midst of a "mighty good turn."

James E. West, Chief Scout executive of the Boy Scouts of America, and President Hoover sent letters of appreciation and consolation to his sorrowful parents, expressing the appreciation of the Boy Scout organization and America for their son who died with a smile on his lips in a brave example of loyalty.

Such is the Scout spirit of Loyalty.

The Blarney
Murphy had been careless in handling the blasting powder in the quarry and Duffy had been deputed to break the news gently to the widow.

"Mrs. Murphy," said he, "isnt it today the fellow calls for the weekly payment on Murphy's life insurance?"

"Yes," answered Mrs. Murphy. "Well, now, a word in your ear," said Duffy. "Sure ye can snap your fingers at the fellow today."

"Why

My Next Car
will be A FORD"

WHEN you buy a Ford there are two things you never have to worry about. One is reliability. The other is long life.

Here's an interesting letter from a Ford owner in North Carolina:

"My Ford was purchased May 8, 1928, and has been run 121,767 miles. It has never stopped on the road for repairs of any kind whatsoever except punctures.

"The brakes were relined at 101,000 miles. My gas mileage averaged 21 miles to the gallon, and on tires, 19,000 miles per tire. I travel over all kinds of road conditions—mountainous and flat.

"I consider this a wonderful record and I assure you my next car will also be a Ford."

This is just one of many tributes to the reliability and long life of the Ford. A Ford owner in Iowa tells of driving his Ford 73,000 miles in a single year. Another writes of 120,000 miles of good service.

Think ahead when you are considering the purchase of an automobile and consider what it will be like after thousands of miles of driving. Will you still be satisfied? Will you still say "it's a great car"?

If it's a Ford, you know everything will be O. K. It will be taking you there and back in good style, just as it has always done. And you will have saved many important, worth-while dollars in cost of operation and up-keep and low yearly depreciation.
