Many People Visit Pilot Mountain

Our teacher was saying the other day that if we make a better mouse trap than anybody else the world would make a beaten path to our door. We have not made anything out of the ordinary, but we claim to have something in our section that other folks do not have, and folks are beating the path to see it for themselves. This thing is the Pilot Mountain, from the top of which the rim of hills around Brevard look like a wash basin.

There were a score or more people up on the top Sunday. We are pretty certain they were from Brevard, for they wanted to look that way all the time. But one will soon discover, looking from the top of that mountain, that his little nook becomes little indeed compared with the countless thousands of acres coming into range of the eye. Arrangement of the thousand hills and mountains seen, we believe, was original with the Creator. He made them for no other place is like it.

You should visit the top of this peak. You may get tired climbing up, and your knees are sure to tremble as you come down.

YOUNG MISS MILLS PROMISING WRITER

Little Miss Hazel May Mills, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Mills has written a very interesting story entitled, "Teddy Bear Goes To Town." Hazel is only 11 years of age and a seventh grade student in the Brevard Grammar school. Her story is excellently written and superbly told.

Read it and see for yourself: "Teddy Bear Goes To Town"

My how excited Teddy Bear was. To think of it just fairly made him jump. I don't want to keep you waiting so I will go on with the story. Teddy Bear was going to town. He had a new bright red coat and a green cap. But Teddy Bear had a secret. He was going to have some strawberry ice cream at town, and a jar of honey to bring home.

"Oh! I do wish Grandpappy would hurry," said the excited little bear. "If you don't sit down I shan't let you go," said Mother Bear. When his mother said this he sat down on the floor. "Get up or you will get your coat all dirty," sighed tired Mother Bear. "I don't think I shall ever let you go to town again." At this threat the little bear quietly sat down down in a chair.

"Ding-A-Ling went the door bell. "Oh! there's Grandpappy," said the little bear. "Are you ready to go?" said Grandpappy laughing at how excited the little bear was. "I thought you would never come," said Teddy Bear jumping up and down. "Tell your mother goodbye, Teddy for we shall stay all night. What fun we shall have."

Nothing happened on the journey that was very interesting so I will skip over that part.

"Well where do you want to go first?" ask Grandpappy? "To the ICE CREAM PARLOR," answered the little bear promptly. "Alright the ice cream parlor is our destination." Well that is where they did go. Teddy Bear just dearly loved the little booths, but most of all he loved the ice cream. Well I guess you would too if you could have seen all the strawberry ice cream and those little pink cakes.

I would take up a whole book if I should undertake to tell you all the things they did but so as not to disappoint you I will tell you one thing they did.

They went to a drygoods store and what do you think. Grandpappy bought Teddy Bear a new red suit to go with his red coat and a new green umbrella. Well what do you think Teddy Bear did. He hugged him until the old bear got red in the face. Now wasn't that nice. I think so, don't you?

Some other time I will tell you more about Teddy Bear and his adventures.

LOOKING for YOUTH?

ABRAHAM LINCOLN'S mother died at the age of 37—an old woman, worn out from the hardships of the frontier. She was not an isolated case. There were thousands of others like her.

Hard, physical labor robbed her of health and beauty—made her old before her time.

Strange as it may seem, even in this Electrical Age, there are countless homes where, except for lighting, the work is being done just as it was in the frontier days. The women of the house are still wasting their health and time doing tasks that electricity can do for them at a very small cost.

Electricity will do your washing and ironing with a minimum of effort on your part, and help with the cooking and cleaning. There is hardly a household task that it cannot make easier, or do for you.

Electricity is Now the Burden Bearer. Put it to work for You!

YOU WILL NOT FIND YOUTH BY WASTING YOUR HEALTH
