

R. W. EVERETT'S GIFT TO STATE PLEAS DEPARTMENT HEAD

be a contribution toward creating a different feeling toward these divine gifts."

Mr. Everett's collection consists of 31 heads of "big game," several of which represent world records. It is reported that one of the largest museums of the country offered the sportsman $15,000 for the specimens but he preferred a public service to profit from this source.

Gov. O. Max Gardner, while on a visit to Brevard, saw the collection and expressed the wish that it might be placed in the museum at Raleigh, and it is believed that Mr. Everett then decided upon giving it to the state, announcement of his decision being made public only last week.

For the past several years, Mr. Everett has gone to the northwest on hunting trips, and the collection now being offered the state is the accumulation of many years work, during which the Brevard sportsman has had unusual experiences and many narrow escapes from death or serious injury.

Many of the mountings in this collection have long adorned the walls of the Brevard Banking company's building, and thousands of visitors have spent many hours in admiring the unusual display.

The large collection consists of elk, moose, Rocky Mountain goats, Rocky Mountain sheep, mule deer, Alaskan brown bear, coyote, bobcats, mountain lion, and grizzly and black bear. From this collection, Mr. Everett proposes to give to the state museum 31 heads, including ten elk, nine of which were killed in Wyoming and one in British Columbia. One of this collection is listed as a record head, with heavy seven pointed horns, with a 55-inch spread. This prize head was taken by Mr. Everett during a season that had been extended to December 1. A heavy snow had fallen, with the temperature below zero. He had passed up 400 bulls, searching for this big elk, which he finally found at the head of Spread Creek, near the famous Jackson Hole in Wyoming.

Mr. Everett will also donate eight moose heads, four from the Jackson Hole country south of the Yellowstone Park, and four from British Columbia. Five of this group are listed as heavy extra fine specimens.

Three Rocky Mountain goats, taken in British Columbia, are included in the gift. The largest is that of a billy, of unusually large size, with a horn length of nearly 11 inches.

Two Rocky Mountain sheep heads, taken in British Columbia, on the headwaters of Raines Creek, are in the collection. Experts declare that no finer specimens can be found in any museum than these in Mr. Everett's collection. One of these, the finest one, has a base measure between the horns of eight and one-half inches, while the curl of the horn comes out over the eye.

Mr. Everett will also present eight mule deer heads, seven of which were taken in Colorado and one in British Columbia. Two of these are unusually large, one of them having 36-point horns. These were killed on the Sangre de Cristo mountain.

Mr. Everett told interestingly of the Roosevelt elk, found in British Columbia. This elk is much larger than the elk in the Yellowstone National Park area, having heavier horns and larger molded bodies. The Brevard man killed one of these, having heavy six-point horns, with 15-inch spreads, being what experts pronounce a perfect specimen.

In addition to the mounted heads being given to the museum, Mr. Everett plans the inclusion of a mountain lion skin, killed in Colorado. This lion had killed a four-year-old mare just shortly before the Brevard sportsman shot the big fellow. The lion was trailed by a pack trained to follow the vicious cat, treed after several hours, and shot by Mr. Everett.

Mr. Everett holds the distinction of having killed the second largest Alaskan brown bear ever taken. This event occurred on the Alaskan peninsula, near the Pavelof volcano, and the bear was widely known among the natives and visiting sportsmen as "Big Foot," because of a track that measured 17 and one-half inches. After Mr. Everett had killed the bear, and the skin had been removed, three men were required to carry the hide to camp.

SHERIFF WOOD WILL MEET ALL SHOOTERS

Since the bird season opened last week in Transylvania county, a number of the Brevard sportsmen and would-be sportsmen have been ragging Deputy Sheriff Tom Wood, man hunter of much renown, and peace-maker in times of trouble in certain sections of the county.

Sheriff Wood says that he is "just about fed up" on all the braggadocio palavering of the "gun artists" of the community, and issues the challenge that he will meet all comers in field trials. That while he has not hunted any within the past four years, he stands ready to match his ability against that of any of the fellows who have been ragging him about shooting. And this also applies, Sheriff Wood says, to those fellows who have been "talking about his South Carolina dog."

TAX RATE IN ENTIRE STATE HAS BEEN CUT CONSIDERABLY

Raleigh, Nov. 23.—The tax rates in most of the counties of the state for 1931 is from 25 to 50 cents less than it was in 1930, judging from the counties that have already reported their 1931 tax rate to the state tax commission.

With Thanksgiving out of the limelight this week, all faces will be turned toward that jolly old fellow's home—Santa Claus Land.

BREVARD TEAM IN WIN AT FRANKLIN

Final Score of 13-6 Gives Brevard Eleven Courage to Go Forward

LONG PASS NETS LOCAL TEAM WINNING POINTS

Many Stars For Brevard—Bill Morgan Makes Extra Long Run

(By Alfred Hampton)

The Brevard High School Football machine galloped out onto a red mud field, at Franklin, mid a downpour of rain to defeat this red jerseyed team by a score of 13 to 6.

The Brevard team did not look so good in the first and second quarters, as Franklin drove over a touchdown early in the first period, but they failed to make the extra point. Then the Blue Devils tightened down and played very good football. The half ended with Franklin leading 6 to 0.

At the beginning of the second half, the Blue Devils looked like a different team. Brevard received the kickoff and drove the ball to Franklin's 40 yard line. "Bear" Davis came into the game and on the next play plowed through the mud to Franklin's 10 yard line. Schachner then dived over a mass of players for a 5 yard gain. Davis drove through the line, with Schachner and Morgan making a hole

LYDAY BECOMES MEMBER OF KAPPA PHI KAPPA

Raleigh, Nov. 23.—The N. C. State College chapter of Kappa Phi Kappa, national honorary education fraternity, has elected nine new members who were initiated Wednesday night, November 18.

New members are A. D. Williamson, Reidsville; H. C. Colvard, Reidsville; Westley Wallace, Raleigh; M. C. Freeman, Hamlet; R. R. Smithwick, Apex; J. E. Wilson, Shelby; C. H. Drye, Oakboro; H. B. Crumpler, Fayetteville; R. J. Lyday, Brevard.

for a touchdown. Schachner passed to Price for extra point.

At the beginning of the last quarter, the "Blue Devils" were leading their host by a margin of one point. Until the last minute of the last quarter, neither team could make very many gains. Then a most sensational play occurred. The ball was on Brevard's 40 yard line, the Blue Devils possession. The ball was snapped to Schachner, who faded back to his 30 yard line and threw a pass to mid-field. The ball hit the hands of Morgan and stuck. There was one man who was in tackling distance of Morgan. No, he didn't get him, because Neill, Brevard's flashy end, came from nowhere, and this Franklin boy, who was about to tackle Morgan, got a mouthful of mud. Morgan galloped over for a touchdown, as the game ended with the Blue Devils winning by a score of 13 to 6. The outstanding players for Brevard were Joe Schachner, Morgan, Meese, and Price, while "Red" Henry took the honors for Franklin.

"You needn't tell me — I know Camel is the fresh cigarette!"

FRESHNESS

— that's the thing!
CAMELS are never parched or toasted

HAVE you noticed the new trend in cigarettes? — freshness is the popular thing.

That's because a fresh cigarette, as demonstrated by Camels, is something smokers have discovered as better than anything they ever tried before.

Camels are fresh in the Camel Humidor Pack because they're made fresh to start with — blended of choice, delicately mild, sun-ripened tobaccos in which the natural moisture and fragrant flavors are vigilantly safeguarded.

The tobaccos in Camels are never parched or toasted — the Reynolds method of scientifically applying heat guarantees against that.

That's why we say with so much assurance that Camels are truly fresh. They're made fresh — not parched or toasted — and then they're kept fresh in the Camel Humidor Pack.

Try Camels' freshness for a change. Switch over for just one day, then change back — if you can.

CAMELS

Made FRESH — Kept FRESH

Don't remove the moisture-proof wrapping from your package of Camels after you open it. The Camel Humidor Pack is protection against perfume and powder odors, dust and germs. In offices and homes, even in the dry atmosphere of artificial heat, the Camel Humidor Pack delivers fresh Camels and keeps them right until the last one has been smoked
