

Father and Son Banquet At Rosman High School

Over sixty fathers, sons and visitors gathered in the Rosman High school building Tuesday night for the annual Father-Son banquet sponsored by the Young Tar Heel Farmers of the Rosman Vocational Agriculture classes, directed by Prof. J. F. Corbin. Thirty Young Tar Heel Farmers were present with 25 fathers. Visitors included: Prof. G. C. Bush, superintendent of the Rosman High school; Prof. J. B. Jones, county superintendent; Prof. J. A. Glazener, instructor of Vocational Agriculture in the Brevard High school; John Collins, president of the Brevard chapter Young Tar Heel farmers; Rev. J. E. Bert, pastor of the Rosman Baptist church; Rev. E. E. Yates, pastor of the Rosman Methodist church, and Mark Taylor Orr, representative of The Brevard News.

Rev. J. E. Bert led the prayer of thanks, and the banquet was on. An efficient staff of Home Economic girls served the bountiful supply of delicious food in a competent and skillful manner.

Under the supervision of Miss Fortenberry, Home Economics teacher in the Rosman High school, the Home Economics girls had decorated the banquet room in evergreen and streamers of yellow and gold. Throughout the evening the girls gave their services to the banquet, showing in many ways the excellent training they had received from Miss Fortenberry.

Immediately following the banquet meal, the Rosman string band rendered several popular selections for the gathering.

The officers of the Rosman chapter of the Y. T. H. F. took charge of the program, with Claxton Henderson, president of the club, presiding.

The chapter presented a demonstration program of one of their regular meetings. Fourteen candidates for the Greenhand degree applied for membership in the club and were received into full fellowship. The Greenhand members were given their initiation services before the fathers and guests present. The ceremonies were very impressive as the boys were given their Greenhand badges, lettered F. F. A. for Future Farmers of America, by their instructor, Prof. Corbin.

The class president thanked the fathers for their presence and the Home Economics girls for furnishing the food and managing the banquet skillfully.

Sam Jordan read the Creed of the Future Farmers of America. T. J. Whitmire gave the report on outstanding projects of the year and the program of work adopted by the Young Farmers for their year's work. Young Whitmire encouraged the Rosman community fair, plans for which are now being perfected, in his report. He discussed the Farm Program which is now being forwarded by The Asheville Citizen-Times and urged the boys to cooperate with the movement in every way possible.

Prof. G. C. Bush delivered an inspiring speech of encouragement to the boys. Prof. J. B. Jones spoke for a few moments on "Workers and Thinkers," emphasizing the necessity of using both factors in order to make a success.

Prof. Corbin, presiding over the program invited several of the fathers to speak before the group. Mr. Gus Glazener, Mr. Will Glazener and Mr. Joe Galloway delivered interesting and instructive talks to the boys present. Mr. J. K. Henderson and Prof. W. B. Henderson spoke on comparison of present day farmers and those of the past.

The Rev. Mr. Yates and the Rev. Mr. Bert spoke on the spiritual life of farmers, explaining that in order to be good farmers the young boys must also train the spiritual side of their lives. Mr. Sigmon gave an interesting talk on several instances which illustrated the need of better farmers in the world today.

John Collins, representing the Brevard Chapter of the Y. T. H. F., offered the Rosman club the good will of his fellow farmers and encouraged a larger scope of cooperation between the two clubs.

Prof. J. A. Glazener delivered a very interesting talk, using as his theme: "Get Something." "Get an idea." Mr. Glazener stressed the point of thinking and putting that idea into operation for quicker and greater results.

Mr. Allison entreated the boys to study diligently and master the art of farming to such a degree that they could manage splendid farms and be great citizens of the world to come.

Mark Orr, speaking for The Brevard News, urged the boys to seriously realize the ceremonies of the Y. T. H. F. club and to obey and carry out the promises they took upon joining the club.

The banquet came to a conclusion as the Rosman boys recited the Creed of the American Flag in Unison.

Glazener's Direct Answer To Query on Farm Needs

Prof. Julian A. Glazener, instructor of Vocational Agriculture in the Brevard High School, has prepared several suggestions in answer to a query of Bruce Webb, director of Promotion in the Western Carolina Campaign for better farming methods, market plans, stock raising and general improvement on farming. The Asheville Citizen-Times has called a meeting of all farm agents, home demonstration workers, farmers, vocational teachers and business men and women to meet in Asheville on December 14 and 15.

Prof. Glazener hopes to have at least 75 Transylvania people attend this meeting. Already 14 business men of Brevard have promised to take their cars and carry the county delegates to the meeting.

Mr. Glazener's suggestions to the director of Promotion read as follows:

1.—A real, honest-to-goodness county survey to reveal to the people our present condition in reference to the amount and kind of livestock, crops, etc., the farmers are now producing. This would serve as a foundation upon which to build a county-wide program that would fit in with the Western North Carolina one. It would show just how far behind the times we are when it comes to the marketing of standardized products.

2.—Build a county-wide program that is far-reaching in scope and quality.

3.—Cooperative buying and selling.

4.—More and better pastures.

5.—Hog farming, I fully believe, could be made to pay well as this would afford an ideal market for part of our corn crop and what is said in reference to hogs would hold good for beef and dairy cattle.

6.—Poultry production would help to improve the farming conditions in this county as there are over one hundred farms with less than twenty acres per farm. Truck farming and poultry production would work wonders for these farmers when they shall have become educated to such farming.

7.—About 21 per cent of the total area of this county is Porter's Sandy Loam soil, which is the type of soil the Federal Bureau of Soils recommends for truck farming. It is located in the Eastern part of the county nearest to the South Carolina line and is traversed by the Brevard-Greenville highway which is now being hard-surfaced. Truck farming and poultry production in this section should be encouraged.

8.—Since we have five classes of soils in this county I feel that the farmers should know the crops best adapted and the fertilizer requirements.

9.—The using of certified seed of varieties adapted to this section.

10.—A canning factory would help us. I most heartily advocate the use of more limes and legumes.

12.—Korean Lespedeza, I fully believe, will mean thousands of dollars to this county when more farmers learn its true value.

B. I fully believe the lack of knowledge among most of our farmers of the improved methods of farming would be one of the big obstacles. Political faction has held back agriculture progress for there are few who think more about a man's politics than his ability to accomplish things. The lack of cooperation among business men and farmers is a great handicap. Ready markets for the farmer's products has been as yet one of the most outstanding problems.

C. The crops I would suggest to be grown the first year and succeeding years would be: corn, rye, barley, potatoes, tobacco, lespedeza, soybeans, other hay crops and truck crops.

D. Taking into consideration the interest of the farmers, I fully believe a dual purpose breed of cattle like the milking shorthorn would come more nearly solving the livestock problems than a beef or dairy breed would. For beef alone I believe more people prefer the Aberdeen Angus, and Gurnsey would likely be placed among the dairy breeds; in of hogs, Poland China would be second. Hampshire and shire sheep would likely be lead; however there are so few in this county it would be hard to say just what breed would be preferred by the farmers. In the poultry, for commercial flocks I advocate the White Leghorn and the general farmer the Barred Rock.

E. I think that a purebred campaign is greatly needed in county. It should be substituted some of our political campaigns. I really believe such a campaign would prove lasting value in the improvement of our livestock. I would recommend it among the first things in a county-wide program.

F. The amount of finance it would require to put across the sire and breeding stock campaigns would depend upon the amount placed in each community or township. It seems to me that it would require at the very least $2500 to make a fairly good start.

SONG COMPOSED BY J. K. HENDERSON

"Who'll Be There?" an enlistment song composed recently by Rev. J. K. Henderson, will be sung in all of the Transylvania Baptist churches next Sunday in connection with the Every Member Canvass movement which is being conducted in the Baptist churches. The song is sung to the tune of "When the Roll is Called Up Yonder."

When the armies of the Lord are in the battle for the right,
And the fiery darts of demons fill the air,
And the King needs men of courage un-afraid to make the fight,
And the prayer for help is pressing I'll be there.

Who'll be there? You'll be there;
I'll be there; we'll all be there;
If fervent faithful soldiers we'll be there.

On those dark and dreary moments when it seems the battle's lost,
And the soldiers of the Lord are called to prayer,
And the answer comes from heaven that we've failed to meet the cost,
And the call's for tithes and offerings I'll be there.

Who'll be there? You'll be there;
I'll be there; we'll all be there;
If we own Him Lord and Savior we'll be there.

If to fill His great commission I devoutly pledge and pay,
And am faithful in His work and worship here,
Then when this brief life is ended on that bright and cloudless day,
When the roll is called up yonder, I'll be there.

Who'll be there? You'll be there;
I'll be there; we'll all be there;
If He finds us faithful stewards we'll be there.
