MR. LYDAY EMBRACES APPEAL IN MESSAGE

G. T. Lyday, tax supervisor and one of the best loved citizens of the county, makes an especially fine appeal to the citizens of the county in announcing that listing time begins next Tuesday. In addition to stating the facts in the case and citing the law governing the listing of taxes, Mr. Lyday goes further, and in his characteristic manner appeals to the patriotism of the citizens to come forward and cooperate with the list takers, to the end that money may be saved for the county and the tax payers themselves escape the penalty that is provided against those who fail to list their taxes.

Mr. Lyday's appeal is the first we have noticed in any of the county papers wherein the tax supervisor makes personal and patriotic appeal while informing the tax payers of the tasks to be performed. We are confident that the citizens of the county will respond to Mr. Lyday's appeal in like manner that it is made.

BETTER BE GETTING THINGS READY FOR A BIG SUMMER.

As we told you before, it would be well for all of you who have rooms for rent, apartments to let or furnished houses that you will let out for the season, to be making your plans for a big, busy season. The folks are coming up here, in great numbers, and it is not long until the first of the group will begin to arrive. Many will be here in May, and June will be far better than any June, from the standpoint of the tourist business, since the days of long ago. Then July and August will tax the capacity of the town and countryside.

Upper South Carolina, especially Greenville county, will send more people to these mountains this summer than have ever been here before from that section. The great system of highways, leading from every direction right into Brevard, will bring people who have never been here before. Folks in the larger cities have discovered only recently that they can live in Brevard and Transylvania county during the summer on the same, or less, cost than they can remain at their homes in the hotter sections, and they are coming, too.

Get things in readiness now, and be prepared to realize upon the coming of the thousands who will be in this community during the season.

THIS A MEMORABLE DATE IN THE WORLD'S HISTORY

Fifteen years ago Wednesday, April 6, the United States officially and formally entered the World War. Heavy of heart, Woodrow Wilson entered the hall of congress, presented his message, and Congress, with no less heavy hearts, declared that a state of war existed between the United States of America and Germany. It was an official act that no one could foresee the consequences. No one could look down through the days and weeks to follow and see the awfulness of situations that were to come.

Feverish haste laid hold upon the American people. Bands were formed, trained, tuned and turned loose to make music that would deaden the heartache and quicken the pulsebeat. The draft plan was formed, spread out, and gathered into its fold the fairest of the nation's young manhood. Cantonnements sprang up, to receive the lads who but a few short years before that had been nursed and nurtured at the breasts of their loving mothers. Selections were made; the hour of departure came; a mother's arms were unclasped from about the boy's neck; the father's strong frame was shaking with uncontrollable grief—and to the training camp, then to the battlefield.

Throughout twenty months the war raged. Then came, one day, the signing of the Armistice. America went mad with joy, but all was not joy, for many who went away did not come back. They were planted in Flanders Field. Others came, maimed, shattered. Hospitals were filled instead of training camps.

Just fifteen years ago, but how forgetful are we!

Another group of the land's fairest young manhood is now with us. What are we, as a nation, doing to prevent another period like that of fifteen years ago? Do we write to our representatives about these things? Are we different? Have we forgotten?

Those who went then have not forgotten. They are asking the government for a little cash money that the government owes them. Do we think enough of those who went away and came back to write to our representatives and tell them not to forget. Just fifteen years, but think back over it all, will you?

CONSISTENCY IN LIFE IS BEAUTIFUL TRAIT.

Much of the happiness and troubled hours of life come as a result of inconsistency. There is much joy to be found in occupying a plane of the grounds of common decency, but that joy is dimmed and diminished when a person is living an outward decent life and is guilty of indecency in their private lives. It shows upon their faces and is heavy upon their consciences.

Christianity is the world's strongest force and power; the Christian, that is, the person enjoying real Christianity, is fortified with a strength that can enable its possessor to be happy under almost any circumstances. But there is so much inconsistency in this life that many of us who profess Christianity derive but a shadow of the substance that could be ours if we were only consistent in Christian living.

Christianity does not offer much, however, to the person who is not a Christian in the real sense of the word. There is little need for any one to pray for mercy who has no mercy in their hearts for others. The Lord hears not the words of supplication coming from lips that are uttering hateful and untrue statements about a fellow man. God does not love any person who hates another person. One cannot speak the Truth in the church and utter damnable lies on the street—they will not mix.

It is a waste of time for anyone to ask God to bless himself and his family, and in the next breath ask God to damn some fellow creature.

You can see these illustrations all about you. The inconsistent person is always an unhappy person. You hear a man leading church activities, who, upon the street, is doing his best to tear some other man to pieces, and you see something of the gnawing misery at his miserable heart—always present with the inconsistent person.

Next time you try to pray, just think back over the week, and recall whatever hateful things you have said about someone, or whatever hateful thoughts you may have had about another. It may help to clear the way for your prayers. We are told that God is a Just God. We cannot deceive Him.

AS TO BANKS AND BANKING

Editor Brevard News: Odd, isn't it?

Under present banking laws, banks cannot operate unless the people deposit their money in them. As long as the banks operate and are going concerns, the depositors' money belong to the depositors. If for any reason the banks close, then the depositors' money becomes actually an asset of the closed banks, and used to pay the accumulated obligations of the banks, plus the added tremendous costs of the vultures set to work on the poor carcasses to clean their bones.

Present banking laws authorize banks to accept deposits on condition that money so deposited be paid to depositors on demand.

The same laws authorize the banks to loan out into channels of commerce and industry 85 cents of each dollar of deposits for various time periods, 2, 3, 4, 6, or 12 months.

If all, or a large part of the depositors demand all their money at the same time, the banks, having loaned 85 per cent of deposits to commerce and industry, as authorized by law, cannot comply with the law to pay back all such deposits on demand.

This is a direct contradiction in the banking laws and should be remedied, so that under certain grave conditions banks could pay back to depositors a part of their deposits, in some degree of relation to the return payment of loans to commerce and industry.

Under present laws should a bank fail to pay any demand, even though solvent in assets, the law forces closure and liquidation, with tremendous loss to depositors.

A National banking law that would make for safety of depositors' money in banks would bring back into channels of trade and commerce and industry almost every hoarded dollar in the country.

It is amazing that the only objections to National banking laws suggested by congress making for safety of depositors' money in banks come from bankers alone!

Why? Over 2300 banks closed in the United States in 1931; none in Canada in more than two years. In Canada there is one banking system—National. In the United States there are 49 systems, one National, 48 state systems, the latter intensely political, and far less strict in regulatory laws and inspection than the National system.

Congress would make a hit with the people of this country if they would study and apply the safety of the Canadian banking system to depositors' money in this country. If all who have lost money in bank failures would write and demand of their senators and congressman demanding safety for deposits in banks, such protective laws would be enacted despite objections from bankers.

Much ado has been made of power of the hoarded dollar to strangle activity in commerce and industry, in that every hundred dollars hoarded in home or safety boxes would, if deposited in the bank have a credit working value of ten times that amount, or one thousand dollars.

The arbitrary charge of a dollar a month by banks against accounts that fall below $100 a month, is quite likely costing the banks in deposits several hundred million dollars in North Carolina alone.

That much money back in the banks, plus the ten times credit value so widely advertised, would change depression to prosperity. Not so many years ago banks advertised widely and vociferously for the dollar account.

IN MEMORIAM

On March 11, 1932, at 12:30 p. m., the death Angel flew down to the bedside of Synthia Stepp Sentelle and winged away with her soul to the everlasting place of rest.

Mrs. Sentelle was before her marriage Synthia Stepp. She was born August 2, 1881. Married O. W. Sentelle August 1, 1902, and to this union was born five children, three boys and two girls. Two boys, Harvey and Carl died while small. Mrs. Fleet Galloway of Pisgah Forest and Clyde and Beatrice Sentelle of Penrose, N. C., Rt. 1, survive.

Mrs. Sentelle joined Pleasant Grove Baptist church in 1903 and her membership remained there through life. She believed in going to church, and worshipping God.

No one is able to tell of the suffering she bore. Some two years ago it was necessary to remove a cancer from her breast, and some few months ago a complication set in in her head which medical science could not cure, and from this trouble she died while visiting friends and relatives at Pisgah Forest, N. C.

While visiting W. H. Sentelle, her two first children died, and in this home she died also.

A chair is vacant in the home; a smile is not to be seen, her presence is missed by all.

Four sisters and three brothers survive of this pioneer family: Mrs. Minta Coval of Greenville, S. C., Mrs. Susan Chandler of Concord, N. C., Mrs. Laura Radford and Mrs. Lizzie Burns of Pisgah Forest, N. C., Mitchell Stepp of Greenville, S. C., and Will Stepp of Pisgah Forest, N. C.

She was laid to rest in Little River cemetery after a brief funeral service conducted by Rev. Carl Blythe, assisted by Rev. J. E. Sentelle. The songs sung were her favorites.

The pallbearers were the six brothers of the bereaved husband: W. H., Arthur, Jethro, Glover, George and Nicholas Sentelle.

The entire community joins in sympathy with Mr. Sentelle and children. May God comfort them and help them to live so as to be able to meet this loved one in the sweet bye and bye.

SIGNS OF BETTER BUSINESS

Textile mills continue to speed up operations. Many plants are being renovated and newer and more modern machinery is being installed to replace older units. Numerous additions to plant buildings are under way and contemplated. The Stevenson (Ala.) Hosiery Mill has resumed full time operations after being closed down for some months, and 75 machines are running day and night.

IF YOU HAVE A FRIEND WORTH LOVING

(Carrie Holden)

If you have a friend worth loving. Love him; yes and let him know That you love him, ere life's evening Tinge his brow with sunset glow. Why should good words ne'er be said Of a friend till he is dead?

If you hear a song that thrills you. Sung by any child of song, Praise it. Do not let the singer wait deserved praises long. Why should one who thrills your heart Lack the joy you may impart?

If you hear a prayer that moves you. By its humble, pleading tone. Join it. Do not let the seeker Bow before its God alone. Why should not your brother share The strength of two or three in prayer?

If you see the hot tears falling From a brother's weeping eyes Share them, and by kindly sharing Own your kinship in the skies. Why should any one be glad When a brother's heart is sad?

If a silvery laugh goes rippling Through the sunshine on his face. Share it. 'Tis the Wise Man's sayings For both grief and joy a place. There's health and goodness in the mirth In which an honest laugh has birth.

If your work is made more easy By a friendly helping hand. Say so. Speak out brave and truly. Ere the darkness veil the land. Should a brother workman dear Platter for a word of cheer?

Scatter thus your deeds of kindness All enriching as you leave them. Trust the Harvest-giver. He will make each seed to grow, So, until the happy end, Your life shall never lack a friend.

3. That the known bondholders, mortgagees, and other security holders owning or holding 1 per cent or more of total amount of bonds, mortgages, or other securities are: C. W. Pickelsimer, Trustee.

4. That the two paragraphs next above, giving the names of the owners, stockholders, and security holders, if any, contain not only the list of stockholders and security holders as they appear upon the books of the company but also, in cases where the stockholder or security holder appears upon the books of the company as trustee or in any other fiduciary relation, the name of the person or corporation for whom such trustee is acting, is given; also that the said two paragraphs contain statements embracing affiant's full knowledge and belief as to the circumstances and conditions under which stockholders and security holders who do not appear upon the books of the company as trustees, hold stock and securities in a capacity other than that of a bona fide owner; and this affiant has no reason to believe that any other person, association, or corporation has any interest direct or indirect in the said stock, bonds, or other securities than as so stated by him.

Keep Your Eyes
On This Spot

Each week there will appear in this corner of the Editorial Page of The Brevard News a little message that will interest you.

THIS WEEK

There was a lady, a nice, intelligent lady, who wanted a dress (nothing interesting about that—lots of the ladies want dresses, but this particular lady had in mind a certain type of dress, and being intelligent, she wanted it at as reasonable price as possible. (right she was). But this lady had the idea that to procure just what she wanted, at the price she wanted to pay, it would be necessary for her to go to a larger town than Brevard (wrong). So, this otherwise nice and intelligent lady drives her car forty miles, wastes a day, and gets the dress. (sad). It was a beautiful dress, made up well, best of material, perfect fit, just what the lady wanted and should have (fine). The sad part of this story is: that the lady could have procured the identical dress, same material, same workmanship, made by the same company, IN BREVARD at several dollars less (it's a fact) and then she would have been LIVING IN BREVARD instead of STAYING here.

SEE YOU NEXT WEEK UNDER THE EYES.
