THE PRAYER CORNER

(From the files of long ago)

THE PARTING

"As I write," says a humble Christian, "there hangs over my head a picture of our valley. Softly the light of day is taking its farewell in the purpling beauty of the lower slopes, light peeps through the shadowy foliage and the still surface of the lake mirrors the exquisite beauty of the heavens. The view is taken from the eastward and clearly discernible is the steeple of our little church silhouetted against the western sky line, where the upper slopes are notched. Above it, pendant like a jewel hangs the evening star. It bears the title: 'Sunset and Evening Star.'"

"Twilight and Evening Star."

And one clear call for me, And may there be no moaning of the bar.

When I put out to sea, Twilight and evening bell, And after that the dark!

And may there be no sadness of farewell, When I embark.

For though from out our bourne of Time and Place The flood may carry me far, I hope to see my pilot face to face

When I have crossed the bar."

When Frances Ridley Havergal was "just crossing the bar" on the last day of her earthly life, a friend was reading to her--The forty-second chapter of Isaiah--and when she reached the sixth verse: "I, the Lord have called thee in righteousness and will hold thy hand and will keep thee." Miss Havergal motioned her to stop and then whispered, "Called . . . Held . . . Used. Well I will just go home on that." And so she died and it was enough.

A PRAYER FOR THE PARTING

Almighty Father, the God, not of the dead but of the living, we have joy together in all who have faithfully lived and peacefully died, and whose beauty is seen in our hearts. May we be assured they who are absent from us have found a more perfect rest in Thee, and the crown of an unfading life.

No longer can we care for them; but Thou wilt care for them better than our love could do. By pastures of green and by quiet waters, into higher life and service Thou wilt lead them, O Thou Eternal Lover of Souls. Cherish and bless them, we pray Thee and give unto us great peace and great hope as we think about them in this still hour. Take the veil from our hearts and join us in one communion with all Thy saints of earth and in heaven Jesus Christ, Our Lord.

O Lord support us all the day long of this troublesome life, until the shadows lengthen, and the evening comes and the busy world is hushed, and the fever of life is over, and our work is done. Then of thy great mercy grant us a safe lodging, a holy rest, and peace at the last, Amen, Lord Jesus--Amen.
