FINAL SALMAGUNDI PARTY THIS FRIDAY

Friday evening will mark the close of a series of three Salmagundi parties sponsored by the Women's Guild of the Episcopal Church. The parties are held in the Joines Motor company building, beginning at 8 o'clock. Tickets are on sale now by the Guild members and those who desire may purchase tickets in advance. Ten prizes will be given on this Friday evening as has been done the past two parties. A grand prize, Biltmore Homespun, will be given after the drawing of the regular prizes.

Drawing is done after the ticket purchaser has written his name on his ticket and placed it in a box. The admission tickets for this week will be placed in a separate box for the drawing of the ten prizes and when that is complete those tickets will be placed with the tickets used at the other parties for the grand prize drawing, thus making every one who has purchased a ticket to either or all of the parties eligible for the valuable Homespun.

The prizes will be on display in the Joines building all day Friday along with some fancy work done by the ladies of the Church which will be for sale.

This type of entertainment attracts a large number of people because of the variety of games that may be used to please the individual. Any game may be played, set-back, bridge, casino, checkers, chess, provided that the player furnishes his own cards, or whatever game it is that he desires to play.

LET US PRAY

The Alabama Baptist prints the following anecdote, and it must be true:

A preacher at the close of one of his sermons said: "Let all in the house who are paying their debts stand up." Instantly every man, woman and child, with one exception, rose to their feet.

The preacher seated them and said: "Now every man not paying his debts stand up." The exception noted, a care-worn, hungry looking individual, clothed in last summer's suit, slowly assumed a perpendicular position.

"How is it, my friend," asked the minister, "that you are the only man not to meet his obligations?"

"I run a newspaper," he meekly answered, "and the brethren who stood up are my subscribers, and—"

"Let us pray," exclaimed the minister. — Catawba News-Enterprise.

Jack Alexander of Lenoir County won the livestock judging contest conducted among the 4-H club members by Fred M. Haig during the recent short course.

TIMELY FARM QUESTIONS ANSWERED AT STATE COL.

Question—Can I use soy bean meal in place of animal protein in my laying mash?

Answer—This substitution has been made but is not advisable under most conditions. When soybean meal is used in place of animal protein the ration must be carefully supplemented with a mineral mixture. Economy in poultry feeding cannot always be measured by price of feeds and it will be just as economical to feed the animal proteins such as fish meal, meat meal, and a milk product as it would to use the soybean meal. These feeds also furnish a wide range of acids which are readily utilized by poultry.

Question—Please let me know if a tomato sucker can be rooted and transplanted and produce tomatoes suitable for market?

Answer—Tomato suckers and branches are often used for producing a late crop but the practice is not as satisfactory as growing plants from seed. Branches that have been in contact with the soil and have developed a few roots may be set directly in the garden if the soil is moist. Usually, however, it is necessary to root the branches in a moist, partially shaded bed and then transplant to the field. With good soil and weather conditions, the well-rooted branches should produce just as good tomatoes as plants from seed but, due to the extra labor involved in rooting and handling the branches, the use of them is not advised for commercial purposes.

Question—Is the fall crop of native Irish potatoes equal to northern grown potatoes as seed for a spring crop?

Answer—Yes, as far as the yield is concerned as the native seed produce as large and sometimes a larger crop than do the northern grown seed. The crop grown from northern seed, however, matures from two to three weeks earlier than that grown from native seed planted at the same time. The difference in time in getting to market and the resulting price difference is favorable to the northern grown seed.

Features of all Roman Ranges

Not found elsewhere

DAMPER. When starting a fire in any range the damper must be open. With the Roman, when the damper is open, the fire is forced under all six covers.

FLUE STRIP. With damper up or closed, the heat travels 86 inches around under bottom oven plate and back over top oven plate.

PORCUPINE FIRE BACK. The Porcupine Fire Back used in the Roman gives the oven a direct connection with the fire box and projects an abundance of uniform heat into the oven.

THE features described above are the results of many years' experience of heat engineers and stove manufacturers.

These features make it possible for the ROMAN to cook with half the fuel used in other ranges, and do it quicker than any other cast iron range on the market.

For the present we will allow $10.00 for any oil, gas or electric stove or $6.00 for any coal or wood stove on any of our Roman Ranges.

THE Roman Range is built from modern Wood Patterns which assure full size measurements, smooth and proper thickness of castings, as well as good fitting joints.

The castings are made of new Southern Gray iron. (Not an ounce of old scrap iron used).

The steel parts are cut from the best grade of Polished Sheets.

THIS is certainly a "Day of Colors." When tastefully chosen, color is the keynote to kitchen decoration.

The Roman can also be had in all-over Blue Porcelain or Ivory Enamel. Certainly, you cannot find a more beautiful range on the market.
