

MINERALS OF STATE HOLDS ATTENTION

Great Activity in Mining in Many Sections of North Carolina.

Raleigh.—Public interest in minerals of North Carolina has not been so great in many years as it has been during the last two-year period, according to State Geologist H. J. Bryson.

Bryson cited the number of mineral specimens sent to his office for identification as evidence of this interest. During the past two years, Bryson pointed out, approximately 800 mineral rock specimens have been received and reported on by his office. This is an increase of more than 200 over the previous biennium.

Along with this indication of increased interest in minerals, Bryson announced that he has received more than twice the number of inquiries regarding deposits, particularly gold, in the last two years than for the preceding period.

Considerable activity has been shown in the gold mining industry the last two years, with a number of stamp mills built and placed in operation.

Among the new stamp mill, he enumerated the following:

A ten-stamp mill in Rowan County, a twenty-stamp mill in Randolph, a ten-stamp mill in Montgomery, a five-stamp mill in Union, a five-stamp mill in Cabarrus, and a ten-stamp mill in Rutherford.

Other improvements he noted were: A lane mill was reported to have been reconditioned and put in operation in Union County; one property is being operated hydraulically in Rutherford County; two washing plants in operation in Montgomery County; placers have been investigated in Rutherford and McDowell counties, and veins carrying gold have been prospected in Stanly, Henderson, Cabarrus, Transylvania and Rowan counties.

Schiaparelli's Collection

Schiaparelli's collection is one that is eagerly anticipated by the American buyers and designers, for she is always ultra-modern and always interesting. In her new collection, just presented in Paris, she has again shown her independence and originality. Perhaps the most interesting feature of this collection is the new silhouette. Long and very slim lines are stressed. Suit skirts are cut just wide enough for comfortable walking, and suit jackets hug the figure with just a slight jaunty flare below the high waistline. The skirts are built high above the natural waistline with the brief little blouses she launched last season continued in this. Some of the split jackets have a bustle pad in the back of the flared peplum, which is amusing if extreme. In her coats she clings to the stressed shoulder width and this is achieved by caped coats, and by intricate sleeve settings such as seamed points around the armholes. High waisted redingotes are favored. Furs used in the coat and suit trims are mink, silver fox, and seal, and she also shows three-quarter fur coats of seal.

As for accessories, the clip fasteners have been abandoned and in their place are copper fasteners shaped like disks. Copper is also employed for belt buckles. A variety of novel materials used for scarfs and waistcoats on sport things. Frequently reversible and two color, these materials are honeycomb knitted wool with wavy edges, quilted satin ribbon called Tohu-Bohu, or a very finely quilted silk ribbon called Freminto.

Stressing a departure from monotone woolsens, diagonal weaves, vague checks, and hand-woven tweeds are used. Silk jersey in ribbed and plain effects is introduced for afternoon and evening, and dull velvets, which are popular in all the important French houses, are shown in many models. Colors for morning and sports wear are combinations suggestive of autumn such as yellow and brown, orange yellow and brown, deep and bright reds. Also combinations of odd shades of blue and brown, such as gingerbread brown and hyacinthe blue. Hyacinthe shades from very dark to pale blue are favored for evening, with the darkest shade taking the place of black. Copper brown, and red cabbage red, and rose red are other evening shades.

Hogs costing 2 1/2 cents a pound to produce were sold recently on the Richmond market for 5 1/2 cents by E. J. Dandford of Brunswick County.

Fall Fashions—1932 vs. Gay 90's

FASHION news reports from style centers pertaining to the new autumn mode say that the cigarette silhouette is to rule in new fall frocks for the modern miss, with the full sleeve created to accentuate the cigarette silhouette. As this study in styles indicates, a full sleeve is just as full of shirred textile under one name as another. The Victorian vamp of the gay 90's was proud of her leg o' mutton sleeves and this autumn Miss America of 1932 will simply do on the dolman sleeve. The dolman sleeve is in fact a healthy juvenile balloon-sleeve well on its way to full-blown maturity. Of course, forty years ago, when the leg o' mutton sleeve was all the rage, cigarettes would never have been mentioned in connection with styles. The belief of that era did not smoke since the raw tobaccos used in making old-fashioned cigarettes did not have the mildness which the toasting process gives to the modern cigarette which Miss America of 1932 prefers. But the descriptive term seems applied quite naturally to the modern straight and youthful silhouette which is inspiring the fall mode.

The dolman sleeve in its design permits the style creators to narrow the bodice lines by crowding the shirred sleeve-top in toward the center of both front and back, thus giving the effect of an eight-inch wide front and back and creating the straight line essential in the cigarette silhouette.

Sales Tax Will Be Adopted by the General Assembly, Is Now Indicated

RALEIGH.—The enactment of a sales tax of some sort—either general or so-called luxury, if not both—is regarded as almost inevitable when the 1933 general assembly meets here in January, according to those who have been studying the lists of those who will probably be in the nouse and senate. Particular study is being given to the personnel of the senate, since it was the senate in the 1931 general assembly that refused to enact either of the sales tax plans passed by the house.

Indications are that a major effort will be made by the sales tax advocates to enact a general sales tax rather than a so-called luxury sales tax and that this effort will be centered in the senate instead of the house, according to those who have been studying the lay-out and observing trends. Two years ago the house passed a general sales tax bill with little objection, but this was immediately rejected in the senate by a large vote. Now it has evidently been decided to try to line up the senate for a general sales tax, on the assumption that the house, with its large majority from eastern North Carolina will accept any form of sales tax the senate will approve.

An impartial survey of the 50 men most likely to be elected to the state senate—the election of 47 of these virtually conceded—shows that there are 16 senators regarded as favorable to a general sales tax. 18 in favor of a so-called luxury tax and only 16 definitely opposed to both. A survey of the senate made by those opposed to either form of sales tax, and supposed to be based upon definite declaration by the members either for or against a sales tax, shows 30 opposed to any form of sales tax and 20 favoring one form or another, this would give the anti-sales tax forces a majority of five against any sales tax.

But the anti-sales tax forces admit that five of those who have declared themselves as being against any form of sales tax are regarded by most observers as being for it and that they are very "doubtful." So if these five should desert and go over to the sales tax side, and in going over get only one more recruit, the anti-sales tax bloc would be defeated.

The only factor that may save the day for the anti-sales taxers is the inability of the two sales tax groups to get together and agree on any one type of sales tax. For there are some who favor a general sales tax but would never vote for a luxury tax but will ever vote for a general sales tax.

In order to enact a general sales tax, the 16 senators now regarded as favoring the tax must win over at least 10 of the luxury tax advocates in order to impose a luxury tax, the 18 luxury tax advocates must win over eight more adherents either from the general sales tax group or from the anti-sales tax group.

Although the luxury sales tax group at present is larger than the general sales tax group, the odds are that the general sales tax group will prove the more powerful and will eventually win out.

PLANT NOW FOR GREENS
THIS FALL AND WINTER

For a supply of green, leafy vegetables this fall and winter the year-round gardener must make final plantings this month.

"Collards and turnips are the most popular of these vegetables but for variety a few other crops such as kale, spinach, brocoli salad, and tendergreen should be added to the plantings," says E. B. Morrow, extension horticulturist at State College. "The last two mentioned are new additions to our list of greens but are proving popular with growers and consumers."

Plantings of kale, broccoli, and tendergreen should be made early in September and again about the latter part of the month or early in October, states Mr. Morrow. These plantings will furnish a leafy vegetable for the greater part of the fall and winter and will also give a welcome change to the diet.

"While spinach is not as popular with Southern gardeners as the other greens it is probably the tenderest of all and should have a place in every garden," says Mr. Morrow.

The first planting of this crop should be made early in September with another planting about the first of October. The Virginia Savoy va-

THOUSANDS OF MEN RETURNS TO FARMS

Leaving the City of Disappointment and Moving to the Farm Lands.

Kansas City, Mo.—Thousands of unemployed are going back to farms in the Southwest.

Turning away from the cities where they found unemployment and disappointment, men and women have succumbed to the lure of three square meals a day and a roof.

The story of this return to the land was told by officials of half a dozen states in terms of cold statistics which did not, however, conceal the human story.

No land, these men said, is too poor to claim attention of the new pioneers, for many of them are just that, penniless, half starved, seeking a new start in a new land.

The meager homestead land left in the territory has been taken, the state lands not under lease have been occupied by squatters, large farms have been split as members of the family who left the farm in more prosperous days have come home.

Today, officials agree, hardly an acre of tillable land is untenanted—and still the trek goes on.

In Arkansas Henry Major, assistant in the state bureau of agricultural economics, reported that a survey showed from 8,000 to 10,000 new farms had been established since January 1. Arkansas is one of the few states in which any considerable amount of homestead land is available.

J. E. McDonald, Texas agricultural commissioner, is furthering the movement in his state, in which he points out that modern machinery may make employment scarce in the cities for years to come.

In Nebraska rent land is in high demand, according to A. E. Anderson, state and federal crop statistician, who said crop observer's reports indicated a large number of town dwellers already have returned to the soil.

Oklahoma has 75,000 acres of land under the state control land department, and hardly an acre of it, according to A. L. Beckett, chairman of the commission in charge, is unused.

An organization of bankers, agricultural college heads and others interested has been formed in Kansas City with the idea of fostering the movement, and is reported planning a strong campaign, through advertising to bring it to the attention of the people.

Mr. Morrow has given best results in this State and Mr. Morrow recommends this variety for both plantings.

Mr. Morrow states that it is now a little late for most root crops but that early varieties of turnips such as White Milan, Purple Top Strap Leaf and other early maturing varieties may be planted with fair assurance of a good crop. Radishes can also be planted once each week up to within five or six weeks of the first killing frost. For early spring onions Mr. Morrow recommends the Norfolk Queen and White Pearl varieties with plantings in the third or fourth week of September.

Failure to Supply Body With Essential
Minerals Allows Excessive Acids to Destroy Health and Vitality.

Medical science, constantly searching for ways to prolong life, frequently come forward with startling statements of their findings, but no more astounding announcement has been made in recent years than the statement of an eminent Chemist who now declares that "There is no natural death! All deaths from so-called natural causes are merely the end point of progressive acid saturation."

Deficiencies of these vital elements—and at last their efforts have been rewarded.

ACIDITY KILLS MILLIONS

Your doctor knows that the 11 essential Minerals and all Vitamins are contained in foods in their natural state and could be live with you constantly, carefully select and prepare everything you eat, you would never need medicines of any kind. This being impossible, science has been searching for years, trying to compound a formula that would make up for the
