After many meetings and much consideration, the Senior class elected the following officers:

- President: Robert Pierce.
- Vice President: Bess Ponder.
- Secretary: Ella Mae Scruggs.
- Treasurer: B. F. Gillespie.

We feel sure that these officers will assume this responsibility, since they are good in their school work and will be ready to make all steps for the good of the class.

MOTTO AND COLORS

At a meeting of the boys and girls of the Senior class, two weeks ago, the motto and colors for 1932-33 were chosen. The boys knowing that the girls had more ability in selecting colors, gave them the privilege of deciding on the colors that they thought suitable for the class. Lavender and gold were shown as the most popular colors by a majority of votes. The boys' task was to put before the class a number of mottos, out of which one was to be selected. Of the various mottos presented, "Rowing Not Drifting" led in the selection. It is thought that this motto and these colors were the most outstanding in the minds of the Seniors because they could be well represented and carried out effectively.

MARKETING ASSOCIATION FORMED FOR LIVESTOCK

The Eastern Livestock Cooperative Marketing Association is now an accomplished fact and producers and feeders of cattle in this State may affiliate with the new organization, according to J. W. Johansen, marketing specialist at State College.

The new association is now operating at Baltimore beginning work on August 1 and did a volume of business in that month of $40,645. Business done in September doubled that of August and the organization seems on a fair way to success. Mr. Johansen says this organization is one of 24 other such groups organized in various parts of the United States and is handling about 25 percent of all livestock sold in the Nation. Most of these regional groups are members of the National Livestock Association with headquarters in Chicago. North Carolina is now a member of this national organization.

Of more interest to North Carolina livestock folk, is the fact that the National Feeder and Finance Corporation is affiliated with the national association and a member of the North Carolina group is eligible to make application for loans for feeder purposes if the applicant qualifies as to certain requirements. Mr. Johansen will be glad to supply information on how these loans are secured. More than 15 million dollars have been loaned to livestock borrowers in 28 states to date. About 10 million dollars of these loans are outstanding now and the finance body has a total loan capacity of some 40 million dollars.

Any livestock producer in this State may become a member of the Eastern Livestock Association by signing a market agreement and subscribing to one share of common stock at $1 a share. This does not compel the member to sell his stock through the association, Johansen says.

- Vice President ..... Hon. A. M. White, Rosman
- Secretary ..... W. H. Grogan, Jr., Brevard

GOOD OF THE ORDER—We the committee on the Good of the Order beg leave to submit the following report:

First: Experience has taught us that no camp or grove will prosper unless the officers are diligent and active and we therefore recommended that the very best men and women in the camps and groves be selected as officers. Select officers who have the interest of the Order at heart. Men and women who do not accept the office merely for the honor but men and women who wish to render service to their lodges and to humanity. Make the honor something to be coveted and then demand that the officers serve the camps and groves diligently.

Second: We re-affirm our recommendation of the last meeting that we continue our publicity campaign in the local press.

Third: Ours are fraternal organizations and not an insurance company and we therefore recommend and earnestly request that our officers and members stress the fraternal side of the organization.

Fourth: May we urge that each camp and grove look after the sick members, widows and orphans of deceased members. Herein lies the secret of our success.

Fifth: Let our motto be "Service to ourselves, service to our camps and groves and service to humanity. A good citizen first and then a good Woodman."

Red Cross Spends $2,760,000 To Help Victims of Catastrophes.

In a year of great misfortune caused by economic depression, in which the American Red Cross assumed heavy burdens of relief for the unemployed, the organization also responded to emergency needs in 60 disasters in the United States and its insular possessions.

During the twelve months ending June 30, 1932, the Red Cross gave aid to 75,000 families totalling 338,000 individuals, with expenditures of $2,760,788. These people were in distress because of drought, flood, forest fire, tornado, snowstorm, mine explosion, or other similar great disaster.

Prolonged drought caused the Red Cross to go with help to 58,000 families in the northwest. Here in 144 counties in North and South Dakota, Montana, Nebraska, Washington and Iowa the Red Cross spent $1,930,000 from its own treasury to feed and protect people through the winter and spring.

Other grave disasters were floods in southeastern states, where the organization spent $192,000 from its treasury and $66,000 local contributions to help 12,000 persons.

More than 50,000 people were homeless from floods in tributaries of the Mississippi river and again the Red Cross faced a long relief task, aiding these people. The national organization gave $108,000 and local contributions were $10,000.

The Red Cross always maintains a state of readiness to meet these sudden emergencies, and funds and other essentials to this work are supplied. In part, by the annual roll call, held each year from Armistice Day to Thanksgiving Day. Every citizen can support this worthy activity through joining as a member in the local Red Cross chapter.
