Uncle John Berry from Ellijay was in town Tuesday. Uncle John says that his section has experienced the greatest forest fire in the history of Ellijay township. The fire started on 10th and was put out on the 17th. The fire burned over a number of square miles killing much of the young timber and destroying many fences. Many men fought the fire for days before it was brought under control. The people of Ellijay claim that the fire was of incendiary origin.

Highlands puts it over—see "Mr. Bob."

Between 9 and 10 o'clock Tuesday night the fire department made a quick run to the roller mill. The men working on the wheel were drawing gas from the tank of a car sitting in front of the mill. The free moving picture that has been visiting all sections of the county in the past few days has been attracting large crowds. At Otto on Tuesday night 150 people attended and there were many more who could not get into the school house. The show consists of 3-reels entitled "Home Demonstration Agent" and one reel entitled, "Forests Green or Forest Gray". The former shows the various activities of the Home Demonstration Agent in many counties and by contrasts shows the necessity for such an official in Macon county. The latter picture shows the importance of forests conservation, camping scenes, the necessity for fire prevention in the forest and the contrasts between a burned and an unburned area. This picture has brought home to our citizens as nothing else could the importance of care and watchfulness in preventing fires in the forest.

Mr. J. W. Guerny of Walhalla, a former resident of Macon has been in Franklin a few days on business. Mr. Guerny is interested in establishing a handle factory here, being now engaged in manufacturing handles at Walhalla. "Franklin has a bright future", stated Mr. Guerny, "provided industrial sites are not held at unreasonable prices." In his opinion the building of Franklin's power dam will be only the beginning of a great industrial development through out the county, provided land can be purchased for industrial plants at reasonable prices. "A great many communities," he declares "give sites for new enterprises and depend upon the increase of population for the return of their money."

Last Tuesday Dr. F. M. Dula gave an interesting talk on the care of the eyes to the school children of Franklin. Statistics show that in many cases where children have been condemned by both teacher and parent for being lazy and listless the fault lies in the eyes. The most active brain may be handicapped by poor eyesight. No child should be accused of worthlessness until his eyes have been examined.
