NAZI FATE MAY REST ON BULGE

THE SUCCESS OF GERMANY'S third summer offensive in Russia, according to military experts, depends on her ability to straighten the Orel-Belgorod bulge in the 2,000-mile long battlefront. Unless her armies can do this, the Russians may drive on Smolensk, one of her vital supply points, or at Poltava and Kremenchug, key approaches to Nazi-held Crimea. Strong Soviet forces recently advanced along the Zhitomir-Mtsensk line and from Kursk, threatening to envelop the Nazi defense salient at Orel. These successful attacks may have caused the German High Command to start the third offensive sooner than they were prepared to move. (International)

Somewhere In Africa

Somewhere in Africa, where the sun is like a curse, And each long dull day is followed by one slightly worse, Where the brick red dust blows thicker than the sifting sands, And a white man dreams and wishes for fairer distant lands.

Somewhere in Africa, where a white woman is never seen, Where the sky is cloudy and the grass is never green, Where the rats nightly squealing robs a man of his blessed sleep, Where there isn't any whiskey and the beer is never cheap.

Somewhere in Africa, where the nights were made for love, Where the moon is like a searchlight, and the Southern Cross above, Sparkles like a diamond necklace in the balmy tropic nights It's a shameless waste of beauty, 'cause there's not a girl in sight.

Somewhere in Africa, where the mail is always late, And a Christmas card in April is considered up to date, Where we never have a payday and never have a cent, But we never miss the money 'cause we'd never get it spent.

Somewhere in Africa, where the ants and lizards play And a hundred fresh mosquitoes replace each one you slay So take me back to good old North Carolina, let me hear that mission bell For this God-forsaken outpost is a substitute for hell. —PVT. Tunisian Sand

By FRED B. MOODY (On Duty In North Africa) There's blood on the sand of Tunisia, It's the blood of the brave and the true, Of three nations who battled together With banners of red, white and blue.

As they marched o'er the sand of Tunisia, To the hills where the enemy lay; They remembered their General's order: "The pass must be taken today."

Some thought of their homes and their mothers, And some thought of their sweethearts so fair, And some, as they plodded and stumbled, Were softly whispering a prayer.

Forward they went to the battle, With faces unsmiling and stern; They knew as they charged up the hillside That many would never return.

There's blood on the sand of Tunisia, It's their gift to the freedom they love, May their names live in Glory forever, And their souls rest in Heaven-above.

Marcellus Buchanan, III, returned to Bainbridge, Md., after spending a few days here. He is with the personnel department of the air base there.

Seaman Carol Bryson has returned to Bainbridge, Md., after spending a few days with friends and relatives here.

Mrs. Frank Henry and children are visiting Mrs. Henry's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Doe Harris.

Miss Sue Hedden Becomes Bride Of Rev. C. W. Benson

Announcement has been made of the marriage of Miss Sue Hedden of Sylva, to Rev. Clark W. Benson of Salisbury and Randleman. The vows were solemnized on Tuesday morning at 10:30 o'clock at the Cullowhee Methodist Church, with the pastor officiating.

The altar of the church was arranged in vases of white and pink gladioli.

The bride wore a navy blue ensemble with harmonizing accessories. Her corsage was of pink sweetheart roses and gypsophelia. Attendants were Miss Juanita Fisher, of Lowell, who served as maid of honor to the bride and Joe Pickard, of Randleman, who was best man.

The couple will reside in Randleman, where the bridegroom is pastor of a church.

Mrs. Glenn Hooper has returned from a short visit to Newport News.

Misses Bee Jane Harris and Mary Cecil Bryson spent the week-end in Asheville with Miss Kate Harris.
