

Sylva Lions Pass Bond Drive Quota With Fine Record

Self-Assessed Minimum Of $200 Each Is Exceeded; Tuttle Is Quest Speaker.

Members of the Sylva Lions Club, which met last Wednesday in Allison Education building, are receiving hearty congratulations for exceeding their self-assigned quota in the third War Bond drive.

At the previous gathering they had obligated themselves to buy or sell war bonds to the extent of $200 per member, a total of $8,800.00. When reports were all in, the sum had soared to $15,025.

Another high mark was set last Wednesday, when the attendance which had been a matter of special effort, was recorded with only two members absent. The club numbers 44 and 42 were present—over 95 percent.

Rev. R. G. Tuttle, pastor of Sylva Methodist church, was guest speaker and his subject was "Being a real person."

Mr. Tuttle began by telling how an American army aviator was caught in a nose-dive. With the engine dead, he hung between sky and earth, expecting to plunge to instant death. Saved by cool-headedness and by doing almost the impossible in achieving safe landing, he declared that, "it is in your act you exist; your body belongs to you—it is not you."

The minister said that to "be a real person," we must co-ordinate our impulses, bringing body, mind, spirit into their proper relationship. Alibis are out, he declared, citing Lou Kehrigh, the great ball player, and Glenn Cunningham, world champion runner, who surmounted even physical lameness to gain world renown.

In closing, he quoted: "Some men are like weather-vanes, indicating the way the wind blows; others are like mountains, determining the way the wind must blow."

Charles Guy Reed, secretary of the Lions Club, announced election of two new members, Claude Jones and J. H. Deitz, both of Sylva.

Mr. Reed said that future meetings will begin at 7:30 p. m. instead of 8, as heretofore.

Help For Stuttering Child

By GARRY CLEVELAND MYERS, P.H.D.

MANY CHILDREN under six stutter some and they can easily become stutters for a lifetime. If not treated wisely at home. Naturally the parents think of the mechanics of stuttering rather than of the whole child and his emotions. Accordingly, they incline to interrupt him as he stutters, telling him to speak slowly or repeat after them.

Judging from a number of letters I read, an occasional family doctor who has no appreciation of the emotional aspect of stuttering will also advise the mother to do some of the very things she should be cautioned not to do.

Here is a sample: "My five year old boy stutters. He has gone for a period of four weeks when he did not stutter at all, and then he started again. I have consulted our doctor and he told me not to worry, but to correct him each time.

Curative Treatment
The best means of cure, in case of the young child, is to discipline yourself so as not to seem to have any anxiety over his stuttering—either by your speech, demeanor, gestures, or even your breathing; to build up your child's health; with the doctor's aid; provide him with an atmosphere of serenity and family affection and to read to him.

While the speech expert may, by working directly on the patient, be able to help many older children of school age, they rarely can do much to help the very young child. Indeed, direct treatment of him, such as by mechanical exercises, tends to make him worse, since it makes him more self-conscious of his stuttering without his being able to derive a plan for self-help. Since stuttering is primarily emotional, and the parents and other members of the family have most to do with the young child's emotions, these persons need to be worked on rather than the child. Indeed, successful speech experts dealing with school children have, in recent years, been placing less emphasis on direct work on the patient's speech and more on his teachers, parents, even his classmates, to make them more considerate of him.

East Sylva Baptists Have Service Banner Displaying 45 Stars

A service flag bearing 45 names—30 percent of the average congregation—tells with moving eloquence the war record to date of East Sylva Baptist church.

Rev. E. W. Jamison is the pastor, its location being about three-quarters of a mile from the business district.

In accounting for the fine record which his charge is making in the war effort and in other activities, Mr. Jamison ascribed the success to an impressive unity of purpose, with dissensions, cliques, and bickerings conspicuous by their absence. "Our building, which cost around $7,000, is paid for and already dedicated," he pointed out, adding significantly that there has never been a "box supper," weiner roast, strawberry picnic, or anything else, employed to raise funds. "All our money was freely given, as straight contribution," he said.

Beginning in 1918 as a mission of the First Baptist church of Sylva, the East Sylva congregation became an independent unit in 1921, its original roster having grown from 35 to 300.

The following ministers have served as pastors: Reverends A. C. Queen, Abe Norman, R. O. Vance, Nelse Deitz, John Hoglan, John Stansberry, R. F. Mayhew, Luke Rogers, E. W. Jamison.

Plans for the present new building were laid in May, 1940, and only two years later, the $7,000 edifice was not only completed, but paid for and dedicated, Rev. T. F. Deitz delivering the dedicatory sermon.

W. Hayes Beasley is superintendent of the Sunday school, his assistant being Grover Fox. Miss Mattie Beasley is pianist and the choir director is Floyd Carden.

The B. T. U. is headed by Grover Fox; Mrs. E. W. Jamison is president of the Women's Missionary Union; its vice president is Mrs. F. L. McNeely.

Sunday school teacher of adult men is Frank Moore; of adult women, E. J. Beasley. Grover Fox has charge of the young men's class; the young women being taught by D. H. Dillard.

Intermediate boys are instructed by Floyd Carden; intermediate girls by John Shepherd. W. H. Greenarch has charge of junior boys; Mrs. Grover Fox teaches the girls.

The primary class is under direction of C. A. Beasley; Mrs. Will Adams has the beginners. The Sunday school secretary is Miss Georgia Jamison.

The board of deacons consists of: E. J. Beasley, chairman; John Shepherd, C. A. Beasley, T. H. Dillard, Grover Fox, W. H. Greenarch, Will Adams, M. A. Plemmons.

New Farm Loan Association Is Given Charter

Retired Members of Waynesville and Sylva Associations To Receive $9,000.

The charter for a new association covering Clay, Cherokee, Graham, Haywood, Jackson, Macon, and Swain Counties, and authorized to accept applications for farm loans from The Federal Land Bank of Columbia in this territory has just been announced.

The Waynesville National Farm Loan Association has been chartered by the Farm Credit Administration effective October 1, 1943, according to statement of D. Reeves Noland, Secretary-Treasurer. The new association was organized as a result of the consolidation of four farm loan associations which have maintained a joint office here for the past several years. Mr. Noland, who has been serving as secretary-treasurer of these associations, will continue in the same capacity for the new association.

The new association was organized in order to effect a stronger organization and provide better credit service to farmers in this territory. The association is a co-operative credit organization owned and controlled entirely by its farmer-members. Its purpose is to obtain farm mortgage loans for farmers from The Federal Land Bank of Columbia at a low rate of interest and on terms suited to their needs. The association has an authorized capital of $30,000 divided into six thousand shares, having a par value of $5.00 each. It has 230 loans outstanding aggregating more than $400,000.

The old Waynesville Association only served Haywood, Macon and Swain counties, and jointly with the Sylva Association in Jackson county. The new association has taken over the assets and liabilities of the four national farm loan associations and all retired members who have paid their loans in full to the Federal Land Bank of Columbia will receive cash for the par value of their stock in the associations," Mr. Noland stated. "Under this arrangement, retired members of the old Waynesville and Sylva Associations will receive approximately $9,000. This reorganization was made possible through the cooperation of the officers and directors of the old Waynesville and Sylva Associations, and the officers and directors of the two other associations which were consolidated. The new association is closely affiliated with the Columbia Land Bank so that more efficient credit service can be rendered to farmers in this section at less cost. The association has been designated as issuing agent for Series E War Savings Bonds, and I hope farmers will make some of their bond purchases through their own credit organization," Mr. Noland continued.

Directors of the new association are: Jarvis H. Allison, president, Waynesville; Glen A. Boyd, vice president, Waynesville; A. Howell, Waynesville; J. E. Cabe, Otto; and H. H. Rogers, Shooting Creek.

4-H Clubs Assist In War Bond Sale

Thirteen communities in Jackson county, during the past week, have held their 4-H club meetings with a total attendance of 375. The programs were presented by the members themselves and these stressed the importance of club members buying stamps and bonds. The Glenville club members had a goal of $2,775 in stamps and bonds. Every club member has bought stamps and eight have purchased bonds. Approximately $3,000 in bonds were sold by the Savannah club, one club member alone selling $2,000 worth.

THESE STORES WILL BE CLOSED SATURDAY, OCTOBER 9 In Observance Of A Religious Holiday

The United States is one of the few countries in the world in which the right of free speech, free press, freedom of assembly and freedom of worship is guaranteed by the government.

To preserve this great heritage, there are about 1,500 men from this county in service today, ready to sacrifice their lives, if need be. Yes, they are willing to pay the supreme price for the cause of liberty and freedom, and we wish to take this opportunity of again expressing our deep and profound appreciation of them.

We are proud of America and of the things for which she stands. We are proud of our courageous, history-making heroes of tomorrow.

Let's show our appreciation and let's do OUR PART by buying more War Bonds.
