

6 Pupils In Who's Who Of American Colleges

Western Carolina Teachers College placed six students in the 1943-44 edition of "Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges." Martha Perkins, Goldsboro; Helen Hartshorn, Asheville; Roselle Ayers, Robbinsville; Elizabeth Hunter, Cullowhee; Dorothy Jean Ensley, Bryson City; and Bob Hall, Sylva. Miss Ensley, Miss Hartshorn and Hall, were also named in 1942-43 issue of the yearbook.

Miss Ayers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. R. Ayers, of Robbinsville, was valedictorian of her graduating class and received several awards in her high school work. She entered W.C.T.C. in September, 1940. She is majoring in science with a minor in mathematics. She is a member of Alpha Phi Sigma, the Journalism club, and the Science club. She was treasurer of the B. S. U. Council in 1942-43; vice president of Alpha Phi Sigma 1942-43; associate editor of The Western Carolinian 1942-43; secretary-treasurer of the Science club 1942-43; program chairman of the Science club 1943-44; member of the student senate, 1942-43; she was elected editor of the Cata-mount for 1944 but resigned to accept the presidency of the student body. She has been named on the Alpha honor roll every quarter.

since she entered the college and on the Dean's list every quarter since her junior year.

Helen Marion Hartshorn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. O. Hartshorn, Jr., of Asheville, is a major in Physical Education and Science. She is serving her second year as the editor of The Western Carolinian and as the president of the Robert Lathan Journalism club. She has been on the Dean's list for two years; is acting editor of the Cata-mount, was sports editor of the Cata-mount last year, associate editor of The Western Carolinian and vice president of the Journalism club in 1942; was society editor for The Western Carolinian in 1941; president of the Alpha Psi Omega, secretary of the W. A. A., vice president of the Youth Fellowship, and State H. P. E. and R. Association, student director of Western Carolina Players 1941, member of Alpha Phi Sigma, Science club, on the Standards Committee; library assistant since 1942; student teacher in the P. E. department, 1944; and executive secretary of the national office of Alpha Phi Sigma 1944.

Dorothy Jean Ensley, senior daughter of Mrs. Harry E. Marlow, of Bryson City, is president of the International Student Society; associate editor of The Western Carolinian; vice president of the Journalism club and the Alpha Phi Sigma; a member of the B. S. U. Council and Science club; named on the Dean's List; president of the Alpha Phi Sigma; secretary-treasurer of Moore Dormitory and I.S.S.; society editor of The Western Carolinian, reporter for W. A. A.; member of the executive committee of Alpha Phi Sigma.

Robert Hall, son of Mrs. David Hall, of Sylva, was the only man selected in the group. He was president of his sophomore class and junior class; president of the Marshall's club; secretary of Western Carolina Players; played leading roles in "Smilin' Through," "Have a Heart," and "The Great Big Doorstep." He is at present a member of the U. S. Naval Reserve.

Miss Perkins, a member of the junior class, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. I. G. Perkins, of Goldsboro. She is president of the Women's House Government; president of the Wesley club and a member of the student senate.

Elizabeth Anne Hunter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Hunter, of Cullowhee, was president of her freshman class; has been a member of the student senate since 1941; secretary of the senate 1942-43 and vice president of the senate 1943-44; president of the band; on the Dean's List; president of the Western Carolina Players and chairman of the Standards Committee.

In Spotlight Again

THUMBING through photographs, fliers at Floyd Bennett Field, N. Y., spotted this picture of Kathryn Case, "Miss Philadelphia of 1937." They fell hard. Investigation revealed her to be a real pin-up girl —she has an infant son. Nevertheless, she's still the boys' ideal and has accepted an invitation to visit their field. (International)

W.C.T.C. Seniors Dedicate Annual To Miss Tyree

Member Of English Department Honored by The Senior Class.

The Senior Class has selected as the person to whom they would dedicate their '44 annual, Miss Mabel Tyree, a member of the English department staff at W. C. T. C.

Miss Tyree, the daughter of Mrs. John Tyree, of Lexington, Kentucky, is a native Kentuckian, being born and reared near Paducah. She came to North Carolina in 1938, as a member of the McKee Training School faculty.

After attending Benton high school, Miss Tyree took two years of undergraduate work at Murray State Teachers College, completing her undergraduate and graduate work at the University of Kentucky where she served as a graduate assistant. She received her master's degree from the University of Kentucky in 1938.

The first year of her teaching experience was done in the primary grade in Marshall county. From that time she has taught every grade from the first through the twelfth in high school and through the second year of college.

Miss Tyree's teaching experiences have been many and varied; a one-teacher "school-marm" in two different schools, in one of which she was the coach of the boys' basketball team; twice director of championship girls' softball teams; a sponsor of dramatics, journalism, athletics, and as she says "One year I even directed the glee club", plus any miscellaneous work that had to be done.

Since coming to Cullowhee, Miss Tyree has organized the Western Carolina Players Little Theatre group, sponsored and directed their dramatic productions, and has been active sponsor of the Western Carolinian for five years. Within the last few years she has also introduced and sponsored the Alpha Psi Omega dramatic fraternity and the high school dramatic tournament, the latter promoting better dramatics through competition for loving cups and individual medals.

Miss Tyree has done two summers of graduate work on her doctor's degree. Last summer she helped to make bombers in a Detroit war plant.

The unspoken word is one of our most valuable weapons for use in this war!

G. O. P.—The Republicans—and there is still a good scattering of them in Democratic North Carolina—are showing much interest in their convention to be held in Charlotte on Thursday, March 16, than in several years. There is a reason. Republican political pie in the South has had very little filling—pitifully little during the past 11 or 12 years—but there is some chance for improvement during the next year. Now this is said with all due respect for the Democrats; but if the Republicans elect a President and can bring 10 per cent as much Republican money to North Carolina during the next four years as the Democrats did during the first year after they came into power in 1933, they need not worry one minute about any expenses incurred in attending the convention.

CONVENTION—The Democrats are going to decide when to hold their State convention around February 24, it seems. Chances are—in fact it is safe to say definitely—the convention will be held before the primary, which comes during the last week in May. Back in the good old days the convention was held during the hottest day of the year, and the day served as a sort of honeymoon for the new Governor. However, times change.

If memory serves correctly, the first convention held before the primary came at the end of O. Max Gardner's administration. The convention that year (1932) came between the first and second primary. The battle was between J. C. B. Ehringhaus, who is now practicing law in Raleigh, and R. T. Fountain, who now lives in comfortable semi-retirement in Rocky Mount. Although at that time the next Governor had not been nominated, Ehringhaus led Fountain by around 50,000 votes in the first primary and he and his followers were the bosses of the convention. Of course, back of them was Governor Gardner.

But whereas the old conventions were more or less receptions for the new State leaders, the modern ones are going-away parties for the retiring leaders; and whereas the old conventions served to heal wounds suffered within the party during the primary, the new ones merely serve to draw the lines of battle.

Rumors are that Governor Broughton has been asked to permit the convention to follow the primary, but he is inclined rather strongly to follow the recent trend. However, there are still thousands of Democrats in this State who will tell you that pre-primary conventions are bad for party unity.

RADIO—Look for some straight talk from Cameron Morrison when he formally launches his campaign for the Senate. If you have followed his career for the past 40 years, you know he can get a few things said now and then. Well, he is going to "get 'em told" via several state-wide radio hook-ups within the next 10 weeks. He will not move from county seat to county seat, but will go directly to the people with some facts which should prove somewhat shocking. Mr. Hoey will likely be able in his Southern-gentleman manner to withstand the attacks—but the campaign will not be an easy one.

ECTC—Look for some changes around Eastern Carolin Teachers College at Greenville. There has been some bad feeling there among the members of the faculty for several months, they say, and it is about to come to a head. All sorts of stories about the investigation underway are flying. Virtually the entire probe is being conducted by a State Bureau of Investigation man and a State auditor.

WCTC Chorus To Give '44 Follies February 24th

The Western Carolina Teachers College chorus re-elected officers this quarter. The vice president, Alice Weaver, was made president, and Sara Beth Crawford was elected vice president. The same secretary-treasurer, Sara McMillan was retained. Betty Gudger was made librarian, and Marion Madison was chosen press reporter.

Since the fall quarter was taken up entirely with study of sacred music, the group decided to feature music of a light and popular style during the winter quarter. On February 24, at 2:25 p. m., in Hoey Auditorium the Western Carolina Teachers College Follies of 1944 will appear. The public is cordially invited to attend. Mrs. Charles G. Gulley is director of the chorus, and Miss Rachel Rosenburger is accompanist.

al Walker, who took the second class mailing privileges away from "Esquire" magazine several weeks ago, is, ironically enough, quite a Beau Brummell. He was dressed fit to kill at the Jackson Day Dinner held in Raleigh recently. A lot of the newspaper boys had planned to corner him and ask him what in thunder he meant by interfering with their Varga girls with Phil Stack versus. Somehow, though, they forgot—and they still regret it.

VETERANS—The number of disabled veterans coming back home to the Old North State each month is strictly on the q. t. It is larger than you think—most of them nervous cases. R. C. Godwin, veteran employment representative for North Carolina, has charge of getting jobs for these fellows. The size of his task is growing daily; but each case receives minute, careful attention. The State should be proud of him.
