

Jackson Tops 7th War Loan Quota In Overall Total, But Lagging On E Bonds

Drive Extended Through July 7th For Credit On E Bonds, Citizens Urged To Buy More Bonds

Announcement has been received from the United States Treasury Department that the Seventh War Loan Drive has been extended for the sale of E, F and G bonds through Saturday, July 7th. All bonds of these issues bought before the close of business Saturday, July 7th, will be counted in the Seventh War Loan Drive.

The county had an overall quota of $240,000 and total sales reported up until last Saturday shows that approximately $270,000 in bonds had been sold up till that time which does not include considerable sales which had not reached the Federal Bank up to the time of their report. While the county had already gone over the top on its overall quota it is far behind on the E bond quota of $180,000. Advice from the Federal Reserve Bank Saturday, June 30th, shows that Jackson county has sold approximately $110,000 in E bonds during the drive, leaving about $70,000 to go. Chairman Ariail is urging that every individual get behind the drive and put Jackson over the top before the close, Saturday, July 7th.

Complete reports of sales made in every township in the county will be made after the close of the drive.

DR. CARTER HEARD BY GRADUATE STUDENTS AT WESTERN CAROLINA

Cullowhee—Dr. E. J. Carter, director of the Resource Education Work Study Conference being held now for graduate students at Western Carolina Teachers College, talked today before the student body and faculty members of the college concerning his experience with the Red Cross and the Allied Military Government during the campaigns in North Africa, Sicily, and Italy. Telling of the work of the Red Cross, Dr. Carter stated that the activities of this organization are divided into two general divisions, service to the armed forces and service to the people here in America who are victims of some emergency. The work carried on both here and abroad is financed by people of America who belong to approximately 3,700 organized chapters scattered throughout the country.

Dr. Carter told his listeners that there were approximately 10,000 Americans in Civilian War Relief in theatres of war, about 6,000 of those being girls and 4,000 men.

The speaker, during the last few minutes of his address, discussed his association with the United Nations Rehabilitation Administration after he was sent home from Europe. This organization, he pointed out, is being supported by forty-four nations who have pledged to give for its operations one per cent of their national incomes.

PRESIDENT TRUMAN URGES EARLY RATIFICATION OF CHARTER Goes Before Senate In Plea For Document To Insure Lasting World Peace

President Truman appeared before the Senate Monday and urged the early ratification of the San Francisco Conference charter which he characterized as a document that points down "the only road to enduring peace."

Formally placing the historic treaty before the chamber, he warned that permanent world peace rests "between this charter and no charter at all."

He had just returned from the conference at San Francisco and a short rest at his home at Independence, Mo., and addressed the senate less than 24 after his arrival in Washington by air.

President Truman was the first president to address the senate in 13 years, his appearance was historic in another respect. It was just 26 years ago, lacking eight days, that the late President Wilson came before the upper house to plead unsuccessfully for United States participation in the now defunct League of Nations.

Mr. Truman will have better luck. Both houses have conceded that no more than 10 votes will be cast against the charter to outlaw war for all time and provide an armed force to make that promise stick.

The President got his first cheer when he thanked the senate for allowing him to come back and address that body.

"You know, I am sure," he said, "how much it means to one who served so recently with you."

The objectives of the charter are clear, he said, emphasizing that:

"It seeks to prevent future wars. "It seeks to settle international disputes by peaceful means and in conformity with the principles of justice. "It seeks to promote world-wide progress and better standards of living." (Continued on page 3)

Graham Cites Six Reasons For State's Need Of Hospital, Medical Care Program

CHAPEL HILL, June 28.—There are six good reasons why North Carolina desperately needs a strong statewide hospital and medical care program, President Frank P. Graham of the University of North Carolina, told the North Carolina Congress of Parents and Teachers in an address at their closing session at the Woman's College of the University in Greensboro.

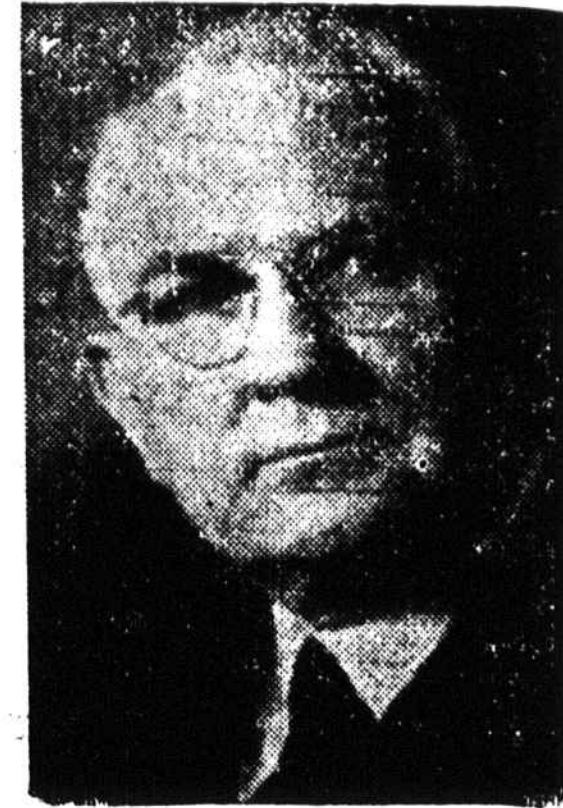

Urging "vigorous carrying forward of the people's movement for this program", President Graham said "the urgent need is made clear and vivid" by the following six facts.

"1. North Carolina stands ninth from the bottom in the tragedy of infant mortality; 2. Eight from the bottom in mortality of mothers at child birth; 3. Sixth from the bottom in the number of hospital beds per 1,000 of population; 4. Third from the bottom in the number of doctors per 1,000 of population; 5. At the very bottom in the number of men rejected by the army for physical unfitness; and, 6. Low down in the scale in provision for competent care of mental and nervous cases."

"The answer", he said, "is to be found in the program adopted as a basic part of the Democratic platform, endorsed by two Governors, unanimously approved by the 100-man Board of Trustees of the consolidated." (Continued on page 6)

David M. Hall Receives Awards At Chapel Hill

David M. (Buddy) Hall, son of Mrs. D. M. Hall, of Sylva has made an outstanding record at the University of North Carolina during the past year. At the close of the school year he was found to hold the highest scholastic average in both the contract and agency courses and given individually bound copies of American Jurisprudence in the field for which they were given. The selection of the student to win these awards each year rests entirely with the professor of the respective courses for which the awards are given and seldom that both awards go to one student.

Buddy, who is a student in the University Law School, was elected secretary, protem and treasurer for the next year of the University of N. C. Law Association.

Mr. and Mrs. Hall reside at No. 16 Carolina Inn Apartments, Chapel Hill.
