From June 1, 1943 to July 10, 1944 Miss McAdams was senior research analyst in military intelligence, Office of the Chief of Staff, War Department, in Washington. She assisted a colonel on foreign material until the close of her particular post.

In the summer of 1938 Miss McAdams was Director of Creative Art, Off-the-Street-Club for boys and the Bethlehem community center, Chicago.

She has developed two hobbies, painting and poetry, to professional levels, and has done a good deal of research and writing for publication, especially on Symbolism and Symbolists, Mysticism and Mystics.
