

STATE COLLEGE ANSWERS TIMELY FARM QUESTIONS

QUESTION — What vegetables are timely for planting now?
ANSWER — With the exception of the mountain section of North Carolina, a number of tender vegetables such as snap beans, corn, cucumbers, and squash can be planted now. In the Coastal Plains area, lima beans, okra, eggplant and tomato plants will survive. If you are a person who likes greens throughout the summer months, John Harris, gardening specialist for the State College Extension Service suggests that you plant some Swiss Chard and New Zealand spinach right away. He says that both of these vegetables are so productive that approximately a dozen plants will furnish an average family with all the greens necessary.

QUESTION — How are poultry breed standards determined?
ANSWER — Prof. Roy S. Dearstyne, head of the Poultry department at State College answers your question this way:

In setting the standards for the various breeds of chickens and other fowl, the American Poultry Association sets up an exacting description of the males and females of the breeds, and includes with this statement the defects and disqualifications of birds within a certain breed.

QUESTION — Where can I secure a blue print for a farm building which I plan to construct?

OUR TOWN AND SOCIAL SECURITY

By D. W. LAMBERT, Manager Asheville, N. C.

On or before midnight April 30, 1947, employers who are subject to the insurance provisions of the Social Security Act will send to the Government their quarterly payroll tax returns covering the first three months, January, February and March of 1947. A similar report is due each quarter.

MR. EMPLOYER, the law applies to every business or industrial establishment, even though it has but one employee, either full or part time. You can save yourself time and trouble by making certain that the name, account number, and wage earnings of each worker employed by you during January, February and March are shown on your tax report. Sawmills, boarding houses, summer camps, and other businesses are included.

MR. EMPLOYEE, you can save yourself and your family the possible loss of future benefits if you cooperate with your employers by seeing that they have your name and number exactly as it appears on your account number card. If you have not given this information to your employers, do so at once. If you do not have a Social Security account number card, apply for one immediately. You can get the application blanks from the local Post Office and you should send the completed application to the Social Security Administration, 203 Flatiron Building, Asheville, North Carolina. As soon as you receive your card show it to each employer you have had during the months of January, February and March.

RED ROSES

ONE-DENIER spun rayon fabrics are especially effective in dark background prints. Pictured above is a smart afternoon dress which features a splashy rose print on a black background. Notice the becoming keyhole neckline and the unpressed pleats. The rayon fabric washes and wears well. If you are interested in remodeling your old dresses to keep step with this season's styles, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to the women's department of this paper for your free copy of the leaflet, "Make-Over Tips For Your Rayon Wardrobe."

FUNERAL SERVICES FOR MRS. IDA JONES

Funeral services for Mrs. Ida Jones were held in the chapel of Moody Funeral Home last Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Rev. H. M. Hocutt of Asheville was the officiating minister, assisted by Rev. C. M. Warren, pastor of Sylva Baptist church. Interment followed in Parris cemetery.

Mrs. Jones died Tuesday, April 15, at the home of her son, Fred Jones, in Knoxville, following a stroke suffered Sunday morning. She was the widow of the late Sam Jones of Barkers Creek, where they made their home prior to his death in March, 1938.

Pallbearers were Hobert, Elbert and Robert Davis, Frank, Willie and Roger Monteith, all nephews; flower girls were Mrs. Claude Campbell, Mrs. H. E. Monteith, Mrs. W. H. Monteith, Mrs. J. Buchanan, Miss Edna Allen, Miss Mary Jane Deaton, Miss Ruth Jones and Miss Jeanette Jones.

Surviving are six sons, Claude and Roy of Sylva, Fred of Knoxville, Clarence and Talmadge of Biltmore and Ernest of Canton; two daughters, Mrs. Russell Sutton of Dillsboro, and Miss Minnie Jones of Morganton; 14 grandsons, according to Stephen, who pointed out that drifting dust may kill bees a mile or more from the field being dusted.

When plants are in bloom, the bees should have their way unmolested. "Do your share to see that the bees and other insects which pollinate your crops are protected," the Beekeeper said.

Bees Are Invaluable, Specialist Declares

The work performed by bees in pollinating crops on North Carolina farms is worth more than ten times the value of the honey produced, W. A. Stephen, Beekeeper for the State College Extension Service said this week.

"Honey and bees are the products of honeybees," Stephen said, "but bees do much more than harvest nectar and make wax. Their help in the production of seed and fruit by pollination is invaluable."

Mr. Stephen disclosed that unfortunately, bees are killed in some localities because poisonous insecticides are applied to open blooms where the bees feed. As a result, he said, the bees may die before reaching home, or may carry home poisoned food for other bees in the hive. In this manner, the colonies are weakened to such an extent that many die out completely.

Dusts, especially if applied by airplane, are particularly danger-

Larger Acreage But Fewer Strawberries

Raleigh, April 21—Although the strawberry acreage in North Carolina this year is now expected to run about 10 per cent higher than in 1946, there won't be as many strawberries as last year.

In making this estimate, the Federal-State Crop Reporting Service said that the yield would probably run sharply below the 80 crates per acre realized last season, production prospects pointing to only 156,000 crates as against 176,000 for 1946 and the 10-year average of 440,000 crates per season.

Patron, presided over the meeting.

Hostesses for the evening were Mrs. Virginia Watson, Mrs. Viola Bryson and Mrs. Kate Bryson.
