English Family Is

Made Happy By Gifts From Sylva Children

Mrs. Glenn Hughes, teacher in the Sylva Elementary school, has received a letter from an English family expressing their sincere gratitude for gift boxes given by her students through the Red Cross for relief of families in England. The children here made their donations last spring before school closed for the summer. The letter to Mrs. Hughes reads as follows:

Crewkerne, Somerset, England.
Dear Mrs. Glenn Hughes:

Will you please convey my thanks to the little ones, who helped to make up the delightful little boxes of gifts, sent to the British Red Cross.

My two children were thrilled to receive a box each.

My husband has been very ill for a year, and I still have him in bed, and I am afraid we have been up against very hard times. But to see the little faces of our little ones light up, when they opened up their gift boxes, did our hearts good, to see them happy.

At the present everything here in England is so dear so I am afraid there is a lot they have to do without.

Our little boy will be five years next month, and he's been going to school since April. Our little daughter was two years old last May.

I feel I must ask you again to thank your class for the boxes we received.

Yours sincerely,
(Mrs.) D. Cook
