

COAL CARS STAY IDLE AS MINERS QUIT JOBS

WITH 437,000 COAL MINERS quitting their jobs for a two-week work stoppage in pits east of the Mississippi, coal cars like those shown above at Liberty, Pa., stand idle on sidings. Coal production in the U. S. was reduced to a relative trickle as the miners began the "memorial" holiday ordered by UMW President John L. Lewis in mourning for the men who died and were injured in the nation's coal mines during the past year. The holiday also served Lewis as a means of demonstrating his opposition to President Truman's appointment of Dr. James Boyd as director of the United States Bureau of Mines. Sylva Camera Club Met Monday Night

The Sylva Camera club held its regular meeting Monday night in the club rooms in the old Ferguson building, with fourteen members and one visitor present. One new member was enrolled at this time.

After a routine business session the members saw a demonstration on enlarging, given by a club member. The program was to have been on tinting of photographs, but due to illness, Mr. Wakefield was unable to be present to give the demonstration. The enlarging technique demonstrated to the members was very interesting and instructive and was greatly enjoyed by those present.

The next regular meeting will be held April 4 in the club rooms. All members are urged to attend and visitors are cordially invited to drop and look the club over.

Sclerotinia, a stem-rot disease, has caused serious damage to alfalfa and clover stands in several North Carolina counties this winter.

While in Sylva Mr. Clark will study the forest fire protection set-up of the Forestry Division. He will be taken out on a fire, if one occurs, and see how the county forest wardens organize their crews and attack the fire. He will also observe forestry management and planting practices.
