Hughes Leads Ticket As Usual, Cooper Follows

Jackson County voters went to the polls Tuesday and reelected a full Democratic slate of office holders to carry on and represent them for the next two and four years. While the Democratic majorities this year were whittled nearly in half, and more than half in some cases, they still went in by from 500 to 600 majority.

The reduction in the Democratic majority was caused by an active and aggressive campaign waged by the Republicans. The Democrat vote was not much different from former election but figures show that some thousand or more Republicans got out and voted Tuesday. For instance in the Sheriff's race in 1946, four years ago, Middleton polled 3942 votes to 2758 for Williams. This year Middleton polled 4145 votes but his Republican opponent Parker votes than Williams did four years ago. In the race for Congress two
