EXPERT HELPING FARMERS IN WAR ON BOLL WEEVIL

Free Advice Available to Cotton Growers in Any Part of North Carolina.

North Carolina cotton farmers will be much interested to hear that Mr. J. O. Taylor, special agent in boll weevil control work connected with the Government laboratory at Tallulah, La., has been employed by the F. S. Royster Guano Company to devote his entire time to giving free advice and demonstrations in the State of North Carolina on what the United States Department of Agriculture recommends as the successful method of fighting the ravages of the boll weevil. For several years Mr. Taylor has been working on farms in the boll weevil infested section of the South, poisoning weevils with calcium arsenate, under the treatment known as the Coad method, which was worked out by Professor Coad, the Chief Bacteriologist in the Government Laboratory at Tallulah, La.

Mr. Taylor will work in North Carolina the entire year of 1923 and there will be absolutely no charges or fees in connection with the assistance that he is to render the farmers of the state. He will in all instances work in conjunction with the county agents and the extension forces, and all requests for his services should be made through the local county agent. Between now and the growing season, Mr. Taylor is going to spend his time lecturing on the subject of boll weevil poisoning wherever request is made for his services. He will go anywhere in the state that the farmers ask for him, at no expense whatever to the farmers. Mr. Taylor is going to select test fields in twelve or fifteen counties of North Carolina, which are infested with the boll weevil, and will give a demonstration of the results of poisoning and the proper methods of treatment.

Remarkable results in successful cotton growing in boll weevil districts have been obtained by poisoning according to the Coad method which has been developed and sponsored by the United States Department of Agriculture. No question of the hour is more serious to North Carolina farmers than the proper method of attacking this pest. The personal advice and attention of Mr. Taylor is free to any farmer in North Carolina who wishes to poison his cotton this season. Taylor is a practical farmer and has had years of Government training in fighting the boll weevil, and his work is expected to mean much to the farmers of the state during this season.

All requests for information about Mr. Taylor's work or applications for his presence at a meeting, should be sent to the Service Department of the F. S. Royster Guano Company, North Virginia.

To My Farmer Friends In Western Carolina:

Our market opened up this morning after three week's vacation and I am glad to report to you that prices are higher than they were when we closed. I made some fine sales this morning from your section of the country. Anything with color is selling high.

Get yours ready as soon as you can and let it come on here as prices are generally better in January and February than they are later on in the season. Just mark your tobaccos to Acre's Warehouse in my care and I will see that you get outside prices on every pile of it.

Your Friend,
J. Alex Wilson.
