A READER,

From Rev. R. P. McCracken

There are a few things I desire to say, and I know of no better way than to say them through your paper. I moved from Macon County to Walnut about two months ago. Being accustomed to the quiet staid citizenship of Macon I was almost amazed at the behavior of certain Walnut folks when on last Friday night during my absence from home they came by crowds and without waiting even for an invitation to come in they stormed their way right in and didn't even tell their business till in the dining room they began to unload. Then it became evident to my surprised family that they were not K K's, on a raid of correction but just good friends finding a way to express their friendship and appreciation of a most humble servant of the Lord. Words fail us to express our most sincere thanks to every one. There were men women, boys, girls, school teachers, merchants, mechanics and several others. Mr. Editor I shall not attempt the task of giving a list of the good things they left in our dining room, for fear your space for other things would be crowded. When we get over the effects of this pounding perhaps we can find words to more adequately express our feelings. In the maze there is only one thing I can think of and beau. He asked me to marry him she replied with uplifted hands "Oh you scare me." Searching his mind for some kind of apology, and looking off in the far away couldn't quite find it. She, impatient said timidly "John why don't you scare me again." We like Walnut fine.

Bull Creek Items.

During the past years people of Bull Creek Township have been raising large quantities of both barn cured and burley tobacco, but this year we are all planning to raise more than ever before. Everybody received good prices last year for their tobacco, many averaging from thirty to thirty-five cents per pound for an entire crop of burley. The highest average received for a crop of barn-cured was thirty-seven cents. This was sold on the Danville, Va. market by Mr. J. J. Capps. He is an experienced tobacco farmer who learned long ago to raise what the buyers wanted if he was to get good prices. Before these good returns began to come in it seemed as if no one intended to put out a large crop for the coming year, but now plant beds are seen on every side, showing that if plants are good we will have out more acres than ever before. We cultivate most of our burley on the rich bottom land and leave

From twelve to fourteen hundred pounds of burley and about eight or nine hundred pounds of the barn cured are made per acre. It is hoped that by using more and better fertilizer in the future we will increase this yield. Mr. Woodson Ray, Miss Grace Howell and Miss Mary Fisher spent Sunday night at the home of Mr. Roy Capps, Mr. Capps and his sister, Teakie have both been teaching in Madison schools this year so it is with pleasure that their old friends find them again at home. Mr. William Metcalf and Mr. Will Silver have just returned from Asheville where Mr. Metcalf expects to move soon. His friends at Bull Creek feel that he will be missed.

The drivers of the two public school trucks operated between Petersburg and Marshall have resigned to go to Winston. Mr. Silver and Mr. Candler were great favorites with both students and teachers for both their careful driving and for their friendly attitude toward their passengers. It is hoped that they will have a pleasant stay there. Rev. Perry Sprinkle has been holding a revival meeting in Asheville. He is a very popular young minister who is held in the highest esteem by all who know him. It is hoped that he will have great success in his life work.
