

Notice of Summons.

North Carolina—Madison County
In the Superior Court
L. D. Chandler
vs.
Wilson Chandler

The defendant above named will take notice that a summons in the above entitled action was issued against said defendant on the 4th day of April 1923, by W. A. West, Clerk of the Superior Court of said County, North Carolina, and a complaint filed by the plaintiff setting forth that the defendant abandoned the plaintiff and has failed and refused to provide for plaintiff with support as it was his duty to do as husband of the plaintiff, and that the plaintiff demands judgement against the defendant for support, and that a certain tract of land in Madison County, the only property of the defendant in North Carolina, be sold and the proceeds applied to the plaintiff for her support, which summons is returnable before said Clerk of the Court at his office at the Court House of said County, on the 7th day of May 1923. The defendant will also take notice that the plaintiff will apply for judgement ordering the sale of said tract of land. The defendant is required to appear and answer or demur to the complaint, or the relief demanded will be granted.

American Valuation Plan Can be Easily Administered

—J. B. REYNOLDS

Financial Expert, Making Investigation for Senate Finance Committee, Says New System is Feasible.

The American Valuation plan of assessing import duties, as provided in the pending Fordney tariff bill, is possible of administration and the only feasible means of compiling a tariff that will afford adequate protection to the American manufacturer, according to J. B. Reynolds, former assistant Secretary of the Treasury and now director of valuation investigations for the Senate Finance Committee.

"There is nothing uncanny, nothing mysterious and nothing at all of a tremendously unusual or out-of-the-way nature about American Valuation," Mr. Reynolds says. "Today, when imports are brought into this country they are assessed on the basis of the value in foreign countries. The invoice is presented and on that the importer puts his value."

Invoices Practically Worthless

"These invoices—to give them all the credit that they are entitled to—in the average case, are worth a little less, perhaps, than the paper on which they are printed. Now, I say, that after a long experience in handling invoices, and by that I mean that the certification that the consul abroad has to make amounts to nothing. The invoices go through on the day before a ship sails; they go into a consular office in any part of the world where there is a large business between that country and the United States. You have a perfect string of people filling in with invoices to get the invoice off on the next boat with the automatic affixing of a stamp. It is a matter of a clerk signing the consul's name. And all that it does is to certify that the invoice is on the right colored paper, is made out in the right legal form, and nothing else."

"There is a proposition now put up against that. It seems to me it is a very simple one. Instead of putting the duties, assessing the ad valorem duties which are duties assessed on the value of goods, on the foreign invoice value, the proposition is to put these duties on the value of the goods in the United States."

"The value of the goods in the United States is not an unknown quantity. It can be found. All the books, all the papers of the manufacturers, the jobbers and the sellers of every kind, are at the disposal of the Government. Prices are known in this country. We are dealing with an absolutely known and certain proposition and the whole idea is simply that where there is an ad valorem rate of duty on goods, we do not try to assess this on the foreign value, which is largely guess work, but upon the American value of the goods that is known in the United States, and it is capable of being found out."

A Feasible Plan

"The American valuation plan, in my judgment, is absolutely possible of enforcement. There is nothing in it that cannot be carried out after a little practice just as well as the present law is."

"The idea that it is impossible to find out what the American value of a piece of goods, is when you are supposed to find out the foreign value seems to me preposterous. There is one more thing to be kept in mind. The only way to take care of depreciated currency at the present time and to make the manufacturer safe and able to carry on his business under depreciated currency, is to put aside the need for the manufacturer to wonder in what currency the duty will be assessed on the goods with which he has to compete, and wonder one day what it is going to be the next. He must have it fixed on the one stable thing in the financial world, and that is United States money. This is something that does not change and will not change. And the only way to have stable duties, the only way to have duties that will say what they mean and mean what they say, in the tariff law, is to have a duty that when it depends on the value of the goods it depends upon its American value and not on the value that it has in a foreign country that changes from day to day and from hour to hour."
