Asheville's Fine Showing

ing the hard times that some fi gures which tell the contrary are hard to believe I ast week some figures from the clearing house showed that there was cleared $5,139,000,00 through the banks of that city. Of course that means that the surrounding towns have had a part of it and the banks here who have their cor respondents in the city of Asheville have contributed somewhat to that tota!. It also means that the cry of hard times is about over because a city of the size of Asheville which has that much turn over in a week is doing some business and if business is that good it must mean, better times for every one who has anything to do with it The large building program on at present and the opening of different parts of the outlying parts have been instrumental in this. The city cannot have that much business without spilling over into the country and so Mashall and Madison County will feel the benefit.

It does not mean either that it is fict:tious turnover but solid business.

The News-Record is proud of what is doing in Asheville and sees in this great showing a promise of still greater things in the future. The Editor while in Marshall lately was talking to one of the men who was building there and he said he was so sure that Ashevile would grow that he was putting his money there as a gilt edge investment. As the city is growing so well others grow with her and Marshall wishes to have part of the over-

A Letter From Trust.

Editor News-Record: We are having plenty of rain and farmers are in hard luck about their farm work. The most talked of about Trust is the ad from Redmon to EDDs and Gardner's store mostly about the survey from Freezeland Gap to to the Freezeland or Asheville road, a majority'as we learn from what you hear talked is not pleased with the survey as made or the route adopted by the surveyor, they think another route ought to have been adopted some are dissatisfied because of the damage done their land, without give g better advantages to use the road I know it is hard for an engineer to get a road with a good grade w thout ill conscience to some people. Ebbs and Gardner and J. C. Well are damaged more than any land owner over whose land the survey was made these parties are in favor of good roads; but when you cut a man's pasture land so that several acres of his pasture land is cut off from water, I imagine he would be like the man I once heard of, his stock commenced dying as he would find them he would say verything is for the best. So at ast he found old Charlie his aithful horse dead, he said they my everything is for the best, but be durned if I can see now it is this time. I was at preaching at the Flats, Baptist Church, yesterday and heard a fine sermon by Rev. Davis the pastor of the church at that place, he has been paster of this church for five years. I see in the News-Record that there are to be a neeting of the Board of issioners and Counourd of Education on Saturthe 20th day of May 1923, it that every member of and will be present it is a ortant meeting the suche schools and opening advises aplying the school build for in the midst of councel there are safety and hope the friends of Education in Madison County will take on new life this year. We have so long been bemoan- Madison is progressing fine, let With best wishes to Editor of the News-Record and its readers.

Rural Mail Carrier William Worley Lost His Horse Buggy And Mail

William Worley, Rural mail carrier from Marshall to the head of Little P.ne, returning by the way of Pawpaw was caught in the severe storm which prevailed all over the country Wed! nesday May 23, between one and three o'clock. At the first ford of the creek above the homestead of James Payne, deceased, the stream was swollen to such an extent that Mr. Worley thought it advisable to wait until it had run down, this he did but finally entered the stream In which he lost his horse buggy and mail and came, very near loosing his life he did however catch against some rock, after washing a distance of twenty five yards while the last he saw of his horse and huggy was them being washed down the stream. The horse apparently was loose from the buggy. The mail pouch includ-ed the usual mail several mon-ed the usual mail several money orders of small amounts.

Mr Worley said when he got into the stream he found the bed of the creek had washed out, and when he saw he had no chance he leaped from his buggy. He went to a friends home and borrowed dry clothes and a horse and come to the office and reported the accident. Thursday morning Mr Worley not be usually his horse had been the common to the common to
