Hon. John M. Morehead of Charlotte Passes Away

Mr. John M Morehead who ling as well as in the nation died at his home in Charlott last Thursday. Mr. Morehead was one of the most conspic-nous characters in Nort : Car.lina. For quiet a number of years he has been tender of the Republican party in this state Before he moved to Charlotte Before he moved to Charlotte he resided at Spray, N. C. which was in the Creensboro congressional district. Although the district was overwhelmingly democratic he was elected to congress as a Republican by a handsome unjurity. The writer has known Mr. Morehead since January 1865, at that time the writer entered the University of North Carolina and Mr. Morehead was a student. He was one of the irrest men we ever throw, unlike most politicians who will tell you anything to the rid of you. Mr. Murabead

THENEWS-RECORD son of John Motley Morehead who was Governor of North Carolina before the civil war industrial Governor of North Carolina. Before he was Governor the state only had one short line of railroad known as the Wilmington and Weldon railroad. Governor Morehead, promoted and had constructed by the state, the North Carolina railroad from Charlotte to Goldsboro, which is still owned by the state and is now leased to the Southern Railway Company. Our John Motley More! head was also a great industrial man It is always a loss to the tate and to the people generally to loose as true and strong wis well known in North Caro man as was Mr. Morehead, but left a character worth; to be emulated by the younger generation. The NewsRecord wishes to extend its sympathy to the relatives of Mr. More-head and to pay tribute to the memory of this splendid type of American character.
