THANKSGIVING DAY
Thanksgiving Day is not far away, and the turkey will not have long to stay. You will see the old turkey put on the table, and the people will eat him if they are able. —EDNA PAYNE.

THANKSGIVING DAY
How ever when comes the day For the turkey to say "Good-bye! I'll meet you again some-day— Oh! Oh! What a roast we'll have that day.

When will come the day When you will say Hurrah for the fun, is the pudding done? Hurrah for the pumpkin pie!

Then for the dinner—hurrah— What a thrill there'll be— Cakes, pies and peaches, you see, Shall be a good dinner for thee. —RAY FRISBY.

THE TURKEY
Hurrah for the turkey, Hurrah for the date. Thanksgiving is coming. But he won't like his fate.

Hurrah for November, Hurrah for the twenty-eighth. Out in the back yard strutting about, Is the old turkey, knowing what he's about. — C. L. MILLER.

MAKING GEOGRAPHY A PLEASURE
There are many maps in our room. They are made of salt, flour and water. Miss Casey told us how to make them. After we make them we paint them with water colors. We have also made some sand maps. We have ordered some geography books. When they come we will take a trip around the world. I know we will enjoy riding on a sleigh across the North and South poles. We have bought a bulletin from Miss Casey. She has certainly been nice to let us have her books and beautiful pictures to study. We are going to order illustrated circulars from the Chambers of Commerce in different cities. The material for the booklets we are going to study comes from states we are planning to study. —By RAY FRISBY, Grade 5.

THE FOURTH GRADE CHAPEL PROGRAM

The 4th Grade gave a chapel program last Wednesday morning. It was a Thanksgiving program. It was very funny and was enjoyed by every one.

At our first regular meeting of the students' club of the 7th Grade, the following program was given:
November 15, 1929

Uncle Remus' Stories—Bernice Ramsey; Robinson Crusoe—Harry Lee Giezantanner; William Tell—Netta Miller; The Little Lame Prince—Pattie Tom Tweed; Wild Animals—Pearl Anderson; John of Arc—Mary Rudiell; Princess of the Dwarfs—Christian Cook; African Animals—J. C. Dodson; Animal I Have Known—Ernest Roberts; The Pepper Family—Wade Huey; Great Cities of United States—Katy Deal.

President—Monroe Ramsey. Secretary—Helen Rector. Censor—Paul Payne. Vice-President—Pattie Tom Tweed.

Cotton is a plant of the marlow family, whose fabrics provide the civilized world with a large portion of its clothing and whose products are utilized in countless ways for the comfort and happiness of mankind.

Cotton seems to have been especially created by Mother Nature for the welfare of the human race and a world without it would lack the commonest necessities of life.

This fact has been stated in a series of familiar pictures by Frank G. Carpenter, in his interesting book, "How the World is Clothed."

- SECOND GRADE B
- Last Monday our room set sail on the good ship "Study." We are sailing to the "Town of Good Reading." The one who read the best was chosen Captain, and so on down the line until the crew was made up. Each day we read good we go one hundred miles. The ones who have sailed the most miles are:
- Hazel Davis—Captain
 - Margie Clark—First Mate
 - Hubert Candler—Second Mate
 - Edith Nix—Third Mate
 - Knox Brigman—Fourth Mate
 - Lucille Frisby—Sailor
 - Annie Davis—Sailor
 - Robert Davis—Sailor
 - Paul Worley—Sailor
 - Carol Pressley—Sailor
 - Ollie Fisher—Sailor
 - Bula Sprinkle—Sailor
 - Polly Redmin—Sailor

In the game scheduled for this afternoon (Friday) at 3:00 o'clock, Mars Hill High School will grapple with Fruitland Institute in another game of football on the Marshall High School Athletic Field. This is supposed to be close game throughout and it may be that Mars Hill's record of winning all games for the past two years will be smashed.

All this week Coach Kuykendall of Mars Hill has been training his men in preparation for the Fruitland clash. Every member of the squad is in god physical condition, and is all keyed up for the big game.

We are all very glad that Mars Hill has consented to use Marshall as their home ground because it offers quite a bit of thrills that would not be coming our way. What do you say that we show them our appreciation by attending the games?

On Wednesday, November 27, Marshall will have the privilege of seeing two life-long rival teams clash in what is termed to be the best game of the season in this section. The rivals are Weaverville and Mars Hill. If you miss this game you will miss one of the best high school games of the year.

POETS' CORNER

BY MEMBERS OF TEACHER TRAINING CLASS

MISS CASEY
Our teacher, Miss Casey, she lays down the law, But she's the best teacher 'at ever you saw. She comes to our class room a-meanin' to stay, A-wishin' to lengthen the hours of each day. She even suggested forgettin' a Sunday An' make it a school day, same as a Monday.

Yet Miss Casey, our teacher's so awfully good, She thinks of us allus, as good teachers should. When travelin' and traipsin', it matters not where, A-seein' of sights that are rich and are rare, She's allus remarkin', "Oh, looky, my dear! I'm wishin' my class, every one, could be here."

Each week when she visits the R. F. D. schools. She leaves such assignments we labor like mules. You'd think we'd enjoy being left for a day. But, the work she puts on us, we'd rather she'd stay. In spite of her whimseys there ain't any doubt. She's just the best teacher our state has sent out. —Ruby Payne, Nell Cantrell.

FROM GRAPE VINE

Our day school at this place which is being taught by Mr. Wayne Fisher of Long Branch and Miss Sallie Joe Morgan of Democrat, we wish to say is moving on fine.

E. S. Morgan was visiting his brothers, M. T. and J. G. Morgan at Forks of Ivy last week, and attending the revival meeting at that place. Rosco Cargile was at Grape Vine Sunday.

Rev. James Lamb took dinner with Mr. A. H. Sams Sunday. Professor Hudgins was at the home of Mr. Morgan Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Morgan and family were visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Morgan Sunday.

Mrs. Bill Cody was visiting her son Mr. Neal Cody Sunday.

We all feel grateful for the great revival meeting at this place, held by the pastor, Rev. Mr. Lamb and Rev. Cecil Reece, Rev. Mr. Bullman, and Rev. Mr. Ballard. Twenty-two joined the church and were baptized. A great number renewed the church, greatly revived.

From BIG LAUREL

Mr. W. A. Wallin killed a fine hog Tuesday morning. Mr. Carlie Rice got his house burned down Thursday, the 14th. Mr. Reho Bishop and wife have moved into their new house. Born to Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Wallin a son, who died Nov. 11th, and was buried Nov. 12th. The mother is still in the White Rock hospital, slowly improving.

Mrs. Bercher Cantrell and children took dinner with Mrs. Loane Wallin Sunday.

Mrs. Amy Wallin is spending a week with her daughter at Walnut, Mrs. Spurgeon Chandler.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Holland spent the week-end with Mrs. Loane Wallin.

Several people from Big Laurel attended the revival at Chapel Hill.

Mr. Pat Bishop motored to Marshall last week, taking his son, Edwin, to the doctor. They have all been quite sick, but are improving nicely. I'll be darned, if I don't come again.
