WATERLULU!

Dear STR: You attended the Tenn-Vandy reproduction of Waterloo at Knoxville 16th but you have never given your readers an exposition of the psychological factors which must have entered into the contest to bear powerfully upon the final issue.

Dear Coach: We dislike very much to harrow up the emotions of the Vandy Crew, or of any of their devotees, but we do feel an obligation to the Sport Loving Public of Marshall to tell 'em how it happened—as we saw it.

TOBACCO GROWERS

THE RUMOR THAT OUR WAREHOUSES ARE FULL IS FALSE. WE HAVE ROOM FOR OVER A THOUSAND LOADS. DO NOT BE MISLED BY RUMORS FROM OTHER PLACES, BUT COME STRAIGHT TO HEADQUARTERS.

just the opposite, let him alone, with his thinking!

Second, there were rumors of dissension in the Vandy General Staff. You could hear that Hindenburg advised flanking 'em on the right, that Ludendorff urged attacking the center and that Moltke was all for meekling around the other end!

Third, the Vandy rooters generally seemed dissipated right from the first. Possibly they had heard rumors, too, and were downcast by that.

There you have it, in three short paragraphs: Miscalculation, Rumors of Dissension, Too Much Soft Sentiment Before the Game!

Those of Neutral Sentiment who paid $3. per seat to witness the game are entitled to a Substantial Rebate. Those who prayed that Vandy might win, knowing that their generals were not wholly intent upon a plan for tomorrow's battle...
