COUNTY WIDOW LOSES OVER 360 DOLLARS

A Madison county widow recently called at the field office of the Social Security Administration located in the Flatiron Building in Asheville to inquire about the possibility of benefit payments for herself and three small children as the widow of a deceased wage earner. She said she had seen an article in a newspaper stating that widows and children sometimes received payments, and since she had found a Social Security card with her husband's name on it she decided to see whether he had any credits which would entitle her and the children to payments.

Upon obtaining the record of wages reported for the deceased wage earner, the field office discovered that he had sufficient wages to be "fully insured" and that since he had died in October, 1945, the widow and children had lost over $360.00 due to failure to file a claim within three months of the wage earner's death and that these lost benefit payments could not be obtained due to the fact that the law does not permit retroactive payments beyond the three months subsequent to the date of death.

It was pointed out by Mr. D. W. Lambert, Manager of the Asheville Field Office, that there are two times for action in Social Security; first, wage earners should inquire about their rights at age sixty-five, and surviving relatives of deceased wage earners should inquire as soon as possible after death. This applies also in the case of veterans of World War II who die within three years of honorable discharge.

"The best advice we can give residents of Western North Carolina counties served by the Asheville Field Office," Mr. Lambert stated, "is to inquire in every case where there has been employment by the person concerned, either a wage earner at age sixty-five, or in case of deceased workers, as soon as possible after death. Even where no Social Security card can be found, this inquiry should be made if the person concerned has been employed since the law became effective on January 1, 1937."

Cattle Owners Warned

To Make Bang's Test

RALEIGH, Nov. 12—A warning citing legal requirements for testing cattle for Bang's Disease was issued by Dr. L. J. Faulhaber, State veterinarian with the N. C. Department of Agriculture.

Dr. Faulhaber said herd dispersal sales are occurring so frequently that owners need to be reminded of the law in order to prevent an outbreak of Bang's in this State.

He cited a provision stating: "All dairy and breeding cattle over six months of age offered or sold at public sale, except for immediate slaughter, shall be negative to Bang's test made within 30 days prior to sale and approved by the State veterinarian."

The responsibility for making the test lies with the herd owner making the sale, Dr. Faulhaber explained. He said the warning was prompted by the revelation that a herd owner recently sold cattle without making the test and offered the excuse that he was ignorant of the law. Such an excuse is not valid, the veterinarian declared.

NOTICE--FARMERS

Due to a misunderstanding, the Haynie Warehouse was included in the Bernard-Walker Warehouses in my advertisement. I wish to inform my friends that the Haynie Warehouse is under management of Ray Haynie and all contracts and agreements must be made by Ray Haynie about the Haynie House. I may not be able to be with you on the Haynie House during Tobacco Sale. I will be with you on every sale of Bernard-Walker's 3 big houses at Biltmore, N. C.

Are You SAVING ALL THE GRAIN YOU CAN?

The grain needed to Win the Peace must be saved on the farm. That calls for efficient feeding and management practices. The way to save the grain is to cut feed waste—not cut out good producing flocks and herds!

Come in and ask us for information that will help you tie in with this vital program.

Check yourself on these feed saving practices that can help supply the grain the world needs:

CULL LOW PRODUCERS

1. Remove hens as soon as they stop laying. Sell all old hens.
2. Sell low producing cows—don't waste feed on them.

FEED BALANCED RATIONS

1. Every bag of Purina Pig & Hog Chow saves 12 to 18 bushels of corn when fed according to the Purina Plan.
2. Efficient rations can save about 3 pounds of feed per dozen eggs.
3. A good broiler ration can save up to 3 lbs. of feed per bird.

FEED ACCORDING TO PRODUCTION

1. Know how much milk each cow gives. Then feed according to her production.
2. Feed 26 lbs. of feed per 100 birds per day to keep them at peak production. Top feed Layena Checkers to get enough feed into birds.

MARKET EARLY

1. Market hogs at 200-225 lbs. Heavier hogs take more grain per pound of grain.
2. Market broilers at 3 lbs. or less. Early gains use less feed per pound.

STOP WASTE FROM GERMS, WORMS AND RATS

1. Keep stalls and houses clean, dry and disinfected to guard against disease losses.
2. Worm pigs at 12 weeks with Purina Piglet Granules—Save up to 3 bushels of corn.
3. Kill rats—clean up waste and scatter about 100 lbs. of grain in a rat. Use Purina Rat Killer.
