Presbyterians Have Service In New Church

The Rev. A. Ray Howland, pastor, delivered the first sermon in the new Marshall Presbyterian Church last Sunday morning. He spoke on "The Strongest Thing In The World," it being, in the words of Voltaire, "an idea that is about to be born."

Mr. Howland stated that in this the Atomic Age it is necessary to erect churches adequate to handle social activities of the community and that the congregation should take a greater part in these activities. He stressed the fact that that is more necessary today than at any other time in our history.

The service was held in the new church although it was not fully completed. Mr. Howland expressed thanks to the other churches in Marshall for the use of their facilities for almost a year while the new building was in the process of erection. He also expressed to Mr. H. E. Roberts appreciation of the electric organ in memory of Frank Fowler Roberts. The Marshall Methodist Church was thanked for the beautiful Chas. Lillies which decorated the rostrum.

Mrs. Lillian Corbett, organist for the Baptist church, had charge of the music with Mrs. W. C. Rector as soloist. The service was well attended.

Hooray and hot dog — Marshall is going to have a gymnasium — I hope — from the looks of the articles on the front page of this issue, it seems quite possible that we can have basketball games here in Marshall in a year or so — speaking of basketball, the Mars Hill High School Tournament was most successful — large crowds, good teams, etc. — at the "working table" during the tourney was a team composed of Smith, Howell, Story, Sams and Higgins with Ellsberry Holcombe as chief electrician and handyman — we had a great deal of fun and I hope I'll have the opportunity of again working with the same team — appreciate the nice remarks made by Mr. Warrick, principal at Mars Hill — I think that Emmett Sams is the best, most accurate and skillful scorekeeper and time keeper I've ever known — I'm sure Ronald Higgins agrees with me — we had quite a business meeting prior to the final games — in the principal's office — reviewing players, teams, individual awards, etc. — the fine ball handling of Scoggins and V. Mull was praised — also the fine all-round ability of Mars Hill's Ada Shelton — she's an expert guard as well as a fine person in every respect — basketball will be history after this week's Tournament of Champions in Asheville — baseball has already taken hold with teams in spring training — soon I'll be "living" on the diamond instead of the court — saw John Corbett cheerfully driving down Main Street Wednesday morning, reading his mail — one eye on a letter and the other on the traffic — for a few seconds Wednesday, shortly after noon, I thought the French Broad Hotel was on fire — it turned out, however, to be a work train car on the tracks behind the hotel — the blaze was soon extinguished by fireman with little damage being done — it seemed great to see the picture of the Marshall students in the Asheville Citizen last Friday — they were among those entering the play contest at Lee Edwards Friday — the Little Symphony is to play at the high school auditorium Monday morning at ten o'clock — this is the first time that Marshall citizens will have such an opportunity to hear this great orchestra.

Just A Woman's Observations BY DOBNEY B. SHUPS

Have you had this awful flu or what can you call it? I had it once and now sometimes I am getting it again. So if I sound awful and nod and all like myself, just lay id to be cold in me head.

I heard a rumor yesterday that we are getting lines built out this way for telephone service. Gee, that certainly sounds good. I can't imagine being able to call Louise in the middle of the night and making her crawl out of her warm bed, just to say, "Hello." I do wish they could have been built before the basketball season when I had to go to Marshall every time I had to call in a game. The night my car lights went out, I was ready to sue everybody 'cause I didn't have a phone, but I'll be satisfied if we get them before long now.

Some guy has suddenly decided that to say, "It is me!" is correct. Shucks, that individual is way behind times, we Madison County people have been saying that for a long time. What kills me, in the person who has been exposed to the use of the verb "to be" following it up with "Just between you and I" or "He went with she" in some cases where they think they are really getting up in this world of proper English. I ain't got NO answer to the problem, have you?

This new colophone industry sounds exciting over Broadway way. I've been expecting Mr. Opie Wells' picture in the paper with all those big shots, but I guess they are holding back for the big day of the opening. He will appreciate the last paragraph 'cause he tried to beat some of that English stuff in my head way back yonder in the '30's, when he was headmaster at dear old Walnut high. If you have an executive job in your new concern for a woman, Mr. Wells, just remember me — and try to find someone like me — 'cause I ain't available!

Observed — Getting your spring plowing done, friend? It's high time for it — it's hard to believe Spring is around the corner — Visited Mrs. Baker last Sunday who is recuperating at her Big Pine home from an operation; best wishes for a speedy recovery — are we gonna see the girls' softball teams this year? — Goodbye.
