

Otis Waldroup of the Bluff section of Madison County has been producing boxwoods for 24 years. He still has two that are 24 years of age, but at the present time, most of them are 18"x24" in size. He has sold about $1,500 worth up to date at from $5.00 to $9.00 per plant.

Otis has gradually grown into the business by making cuttings from the original plants and rooting them near the house in a damp place. After the plants are rooted he transplants them to a field where he grows them out. He uses 500 pounds per acre of a 5-10-10 fertilizer to keep the plants in good growing condition. He gives them a pruning during the fall of the year to even up the growth to make a full rounded plant. Otis has been cultivating his boxwoods four times a year until last year. Then he decided to use a lawn mower (rotary type) to cut the weeds and grass around the plants. At the present time Otis has two acres of the boxwoods at an average size of 18"x24" which is the right size for sale. He estimates that there are 4500 ready to go at the present time.
