Season's Greetings

Each year at this Christmas Season, we pull our old typewriter up close and think of you, our circle of readers. We wonder how we might write to say "thank you" in a different way; but, to put it plainly and without affectation, we can think of no better way than these simple old words we have used for so many years - A VERY MERRY CHRISTMAS.

Although 1962 has been a year filled with local, state, national and international unrest with one crisis after another and although the sale of tobacco has been below last year's average, our people have done well.

Some of them will have to strain their credit in obtaining money to start the new crop, but the records show that Madison County farmers have produced better than last year with such crops as milk, eggs, poultry, meat, tobacco, and even honey.

This can mean only one thing. Our people have developed a better "know-how." If the coming year should be favorable, this added ability and better knowledge should result in banner farming in Madison. We hope that will be the case.

Many new homes have been built during 1962 and farms and barns improved. Much study and efforts have gone toward securing additional industry for our county during 1962. Prospects are most encouraging and with continued efforts and faith, we can rest assured that a new industry will be located on the industrial site here during 1963. Mills Manufacturing Company will soon be operating here and 1962 has seen continued growth at Hammarlund Manufacturing Company at Mars Hill and Pacific Mills at Hot Springs.

Let us be indeed grateful during this season as we exchange gifts, have family "get-togethers" and enjoy the Christmas Season.

We also wish to express our sincerest thanks to our subscribers and advertisers during the past year. Without them, a newspaper could not exist. We also wish to thank each and every news correspondent from the various communities who have so faithfully sent us the news.

It is with this thought in mind that the publisher, editor and entire staff of The News-Record wish for you all a

Merry Christmas

CHRISTMAS GREETINGS FROM LIBRARY

Dear Friends:
Another Christmas Season is here, and for the two weeks which touch this Day on either side the world will be a happier better place to live. Hearts will be full and overflowing with love because of our reason for celebrating December 25 - the birth of the Christ Child.

As we at the Library bring you another Christmas Greeting, we look back over the seven years that we have had this pleasure, and each year we see the circle grow larger and the old ties of friendship grow stronger.

Again we want to say to the Marshall Garden Club, a very sincere thank-you for the beautiful wreath on the Library door.

And now my co-workers in the Marshall Library - Mrs. Wade Huey (Louise) and Mrs. Agnes Stuart (Aggie), and also the faithful volunteer helpers - Mrs. Joy Gayer at the Hot Springs Branch, Mrs. Dorothy Huff in Mars Hill and my husband, Harry, who maneuvers Bookie around the curves for me, all join me in wishing each and everyone of you

A Very Merry Christmas and A Happy New Year

CUTTING MEAT ON THE FARM

More and more farmers in Madison County are cutting pork chops out of the loins from their hogs. For the inexperienced meat cutter this can, sometimes, be a difficult task. It is a good plan to let the carcass chill overnight and then cut the carcass into pieces. Even though the loin may be chilled, it still presents quite a problem to cut uniform cuts.

Harold Baker, of Hot Springs, has a good idea on holding the meat while it is being cut. He simply constructs a device similar to a homemade mitre box. This device is just like a carpenter's mitre box, except he can build it to fit the meat which he is cutting. Any farmer, who has had difficulty in holding and cutting pork chops, should try this idea.

If the weather is mild, so that the meat does not become firm when it is chilled out, it may be put in the refrigerator, or freezer, and left just long enough to become firm. This makes the job of cutting pork chops on the farm much easier.

FARM INCOME OPPORTUNITY WITH TOMATOES

According to Harry G. Silver, county agent, the county Extension Advisory Board and the committee of farmers assisting the Extension Agents in projection planning, recognized vine-ripe tomatoes as a new source of income. The long time plans for this crop in Madison County are to introduce the vine-ripe tomatoes to farmers in the county and to construct a packing and grading shed in the county making local market facilities available for tomatoes and other vegetables. This plan has been accepted by the Madison County Planning Board and was part of the original O.E.D.P., for the county which has been approved by the A.R.A. in Washington.

The plan of the Extension agents for 1962 in Madison County with vine-ripe tomatoes was: (1) To introduce this crop to more farmers in the county and teach them the techniques, managerial skills, and provide technical information for successful production of this crop; (2) To obtain more information on marketing and plant facilities necessary for a local market; and (3) To encourage expansion of the present production in order to have the necessary acreage closer to the amount necessary for a successful local market.

The survey of farmers growing 25 acres in 1961 was completed in 1962 and showed their income above marketing cost to exceed 2800 per acre.

Over 35 acres were produced and marketed through the Haywood County Mutual Cooperative Fruit and Vegetable Association, Inc. Early survey results, at this time incomplete, appear to equal the 1961 per acre income. Mr. Hardy Plemmons sold over 5,000 worth, above market cost, from an even acre. There were two near failures but even these farmers did not lose money. Vine-ripe tomato income in the county, including those sold on the open market exceeded $90,000 in 1962.

Mr. John Gentry, a Spring Creek farmer, and Harry Silver, county Extension agent, are serving on the board of directors of the Haywood County Mutual Cooperative Fruit and Vegetable Association, Inc. With this experience we will be better informed on market needs and opportunities for tomatoes. Additional efforts are being made to learn the marketing of this crop by contacting Extension Marketing Specialists in seven states, tomato brokers and packers and by consulting with our own marketing specialists, economics specialists, production and disease specialists. SOLVES WINTER FEED PROBLEM WITH SILAGE

Mr. John Silver, of the White Oak community, operates a grade "C" dairy and winter feed is always a problem, observes Frederick E. Boss, assistant farm agent. Mr. Silver has partially solved this problem without a big capital investment by producing corn silage and storing it in a stack silo.

He has had about one-third of it now, and says he is definitely planning, now, to increase the amount of silage corn he will plant next year. His cows are holding up in production better this year on silage than they did in previous years on hay.

Mr. Silver says he can raise more feed, per acre, and harvest it cheaper with corn silage than any other feed he has tried.
