ADEQUATE AND SAFE WATER SUPPLY URGED

Hundreds of Madison County citizens will be taking advantage of the program recently initiated by the Farm Agents Office to have running water and bathrooms installed in every home in Madison County.

This is a very important project, not only from the standpoint of raising the standard of living, convenience, fire protection, etc., but also a vital factor contributing to the health and welfare of the people of Madison County.

Nothing is more vital to health than a safe supply of water that is free of disease organisms. We are very fortunate in Madison County to have an abundant and accessible supply of water which when properly protected is of the highest quality with regard to appearance, taste and safety. Contrary to popular belief, rain after reaching the earth, is exposed to organic matter which frequently contains germs which cause human disease. For this reason your well or spring must be protected from surface water. If it is not it could be good today and tomorrow put you in the hospital with typhoid fever or many other water borne diseases.

To make sure this doesn't happen to you, contact your Health Department for information when you start planning your new water supply or if you wish to protect your old supply.

There is nothing that would contribute more to the health, happiness and welfare of our citizens than running water and bathrooms in all our homes.

NOT SO LUCKY
Sandstone, Va. — Mrs. W. R. Pritchett has lost faith in the luck which 4-leaf clovers are supposed to bring. Although she found 16 four-leaf clovers, five six-leaf and two five-leaf clovers on her lawn, Mrs. Pritchett, while doing her housework, fell through a first-floor window she was washing in to a prize tulip bed. She wasn't badly hurt, however.

By "POP"

It isn't often that the "cold bug" gets me down — in fact, I am most grateful that I have suffered as little as I have — but Tuesday — oh my gosh — I woke up with a very sore throat — plenty of aches and pains — the sniffles — and so hoarse that I sounded like a bullfrog in a tin pipe — through necessity, I stayed home all day — although not completely recovered, I'm able to be out again — thank goodness — last Thursday night local firemen were kept busy — first at the home of Miss Stella Carver and then just as the first was "put out" and "mopping" was in process, another alarm sent firemen rushing to Rollins where the home of Mr. and Mrs. Willard Barnes and two children was ablaze — the home was completely destroyed and with it went all clothing and household furniture — many people and organizations quickly came to the rescue of this family, supplying them with clothing, housing facilities, money, etc. — there is never a time to lose everything you have, but it seems doubly hard just before Christmas — I'm sure they appreciate what's been done — another huge crowd attended the second drawing at the courthouse last Saturday afternoon — it took about an hour and fifteen minutes to give away the prizes, but everyone seemed to have a good time — John Corbett, president of the Merchants Association, sponsors of the event, gave me a rest at the microphone — thanks, John — you did a fine job — the jammed ice in the river is finally breaking up and melting away — it has been truly beautiful — but sometimes becomes a bit hazardous as far as Marshall is concerned — Christmas is "just around the corner" and I'm still like the cow's tail when it comes to shopping — maybe I'll get around to it before next Tuesday — haven't even been around to view the various homes and yards, decked out with Christmas decorations — will try to do that this week-end — what's ever become of Caroling at Christmas? — used to be that a group of boys and girls — and men and women — would ride up and down Main Street and surrounding streets singing Christmas Carols — and what about the stockings hanging from the mantelpiece — and mistletoe — and sleigh-riding? — are we becoming too modern for these things which used to mean so much? — well, anyway — I've received many beautiful Christmas Cards already and I appreciate every one of them — so at this Christmastime, let me join all the other merchants and individuals by wishing for each of you a —

Merry Christmas
