

Billy Graham Will Give Tribute At Memorial Program For JFK

Raleigh—North Carolina Evangelist Billy Graham will deliver the tribute May 17 at a special memorial program for the late President John F. Kennedy at Chapel Hill's Kenan Stadium.

The Sunday afternoon event will climax the state's fund-raising campaign for the John Fitzgerald Kennedy Library at Harvard University.

Contributors of $10 or more to the fund will receive a ticket to the memorial program. The state's goal is $230,000.

In announcing the event at a news conference Tuesday, Gov. Terry Sanford said, "we thought it would be more significant to have many people contribute $10 than have a few large contributors."

Sanford named Hugh Morton of Wilmington as chairman of the fund campaign and picked State Budget Officer G. Andrew Jones of Raleigh as treasurer.

The check covering the state's contributions will be presented during the program which will be held rain or shine in the football stadium, where Kennedy spoke in October, 1961, during his first visit to the state as president.

Sanford said movies of the event would be distributed to other states and placed in the library. In addition, he added, a list of contributors would be included in the library.

Assisting Morton and Jones will be a blue-ribbon committee of state and federal officials and celebrities. Campaign chairmen will be named within a few days for each of the 100 counties.

Sanford said each parent with a $10 ticket would be able to bring one child of 15 years or younger at no additional charge.

He said May 17 was selected for the program to accommodate Dr. Graham's schedule and to make sure that sufficient personnel would be on hand to direct the crowd.

Singing

The regular 2nd Sunday night singing will be held Sunday night, April 12 at the Alexander Baptist Church. This will be one of our best singings of the year. We are expecting to have with us the Kingmen Quartet of Asheville, the Sluder Trio, the Joyfullaires, and others.

All singers and listeners are invited to come and take part in the singing.

COMMON ERRORS ON BUSINESS RETURNS

The Internal Revenue Service has pointed out some common errors in Federal income tax returns filed by business and professional people. They include failure to take adequate inventories, omission of cash income from receipts, no records of expenses paid in cash, failure to include interest and dividend income, inadequate records of travel and entertainment expense, deduction of capital expenditures as current expense, and failure to eliminate personal expense from business expense accounts.

The last two items are probably the most common errors found by Internal Revenue Agents in their audits. Frequently, capital expenditures, such as building improvements or even new equipment are charged off as current expenses under accounts for repairs, maintenance, supplies, and legal expenses accounts. Audits also reveal the charging of personal expenses might be included.

The IRS suggests that business taxpayers carefully review all invoices to insure that personal items are eliminated before expenses are charged to their business accounts.

"Tax Guide For Small Business," which furnishes more detailed information on this subject, is available upon request from the Internal Revenue Service at 40c a copy.

WORKING WIVES

The Internal Revenue Service said today that there are many inquiries each year about exemptions for wives having small incomes. The rules for claiming an exemption for a wife are entirely different from the rules for other persons the taxpayer supports.

A husband may claim his wife's exemption on his separate return only if she had no income and was not the dependent of another taxpayer. A husband and wife may also file a joint return even though one of them had no income. However, if the wife had any income at all, no matter how small, the only way the husband can claim his wife's exemption is for them to file jointly, reporting their two incomes together.

Technically a wife is not a dependent for income tax purposes. The exemption is based on the marital relationship rather than dependency. Thus, the taxpayer will find out that there is one set of rules for his wife's exemption and another set of rules for exemptions of his children and other dependent relatives.

Document No. 5013, which furnishes more detailed information on this subject, is available upon request from the Internal Revenue Service.
