TWO MINUTES WITH THE BIBLE

THE WATER OF LIFE

For almost twenty-four hours, recently, Chicagoans had to boil their drinking water. Millions of small fish had jammed the water intakes far out in Lake Michigan, and had died there. It was, of course, a major operation to clear them all away and make sure that Chicago's drinking water was uncontaminated.

It is of the utmost importance, always, that the water we drink is pure and fresh, and this is no less so where spiritual matters are concerned. The Bible has much to say about stagnant water, and foul water, and poisoned water, but the spiritual life of those who trust in Christ for salvation is called "the pure water of life," doubtless because it is so wholesome and refreshing.

Perhaps the reader will recall the picture our Lord drew for that sinful Samaritan woman at the well of Sychar. John 4:10-14 tells how He and the Samaritan woman discussed Jacob's well. Somehow she seemed to sense that He was contrasting her vain pursuit of pleasure with eternal life, when He said:

"Whoever drinketh of this water shall thirst again, but whosoever drinketh of the water that I shall give him shall never thirst; but the water that I shall give him shall be in him, a fountain of water, springing up into everlasting life" (Vers. 13, 14).

How true this is! The pleasures of this world do not satisfy. Men keep pursuing them to keep from being bored, but the everlasting life that God gives to those who trust in Christ is a never-ending source of refreshment and joy. And it provides the greatest incentive to serve Him.

Those who possess the joy of sins forgiven and of peace with God naturally long to serve and please Him, and God desires no service except that which springs from genuine gratitude and love. "We love Him because He first loved us" (I John 4:19).

GRANDMOTHER RETIRES

McGuire Air Force Base, N. J. —Mrs. Mable Page enlisted as a private in the women's branch of the air force 20 years ago when her son was drafted. The 69-year old great grandmother retired with the rank of master sergeant. She held the record of being the oldest enlisted member, man or woman, of the air force.

CONDITIONAL SALES

What is a conditional sales contract? It is a type of contract used by many persons in buying items of personal property on the installment plan. It enables the buyer to get immediate possession of the property on his promise that he will pay the full purchase price later in certain specified installments. Although the buyer acquires possession, the seller retains the title or ownership of the property until the last payment is made.

Merchants frequently attract the attention of customers by advertising the conditional sales contract security device as the "easy payment plan," "budget plan," "deferred payment plan," or "dignified credit plan."

If the conditional buyer misses one of his payments, may the seller take the property back?

Yes. If the conditional buyer fails to make any payment when it is due, the seller can repossess or take back the property.

If the seller repossesses or takes back the property he can still sue the buyer for the amount of the sales price not yet paid, less any amount he gets from a resale of the property.

Is a conditional sales contract valid oral?

A conditional sales contract is valid, as between the conditional seller and the conditional buyer, without a writing. But in order to be valid against the creditors of, and purchasers for a valuable consideration from the conditional buyer, it must be in writing and registered in the court house.

Many conditional sellers do not make a general practice of registering all written conditional sales contracts. They frequently register only contracts involving a large sum of money or where, in their opinion, there is considerable financial risk.

 poll book — not that on June 2 "and since that date" failed to retain custody of the other 23 poll books of the county's precincts.

All poll books used in the county's 23 precincts prior to the June 27 Democratic runoff primary are still missing.

The petitions directed to Judge J. Frank Huskins of the 24th Judicial District, claim that the ouster is unlawful and that there is no statutory provision for an appeal.

Therefore, the petitions continue, Freeman will be deprived of his rights unless an order is entered directed to William Jolin and members of the state board to hand over to Madison County Superior Court for review a transcript of the ouster hearing and the subsequent order.

Freeman asks that the Superior Court review his testimony and other proceedings involved in the ouster, and says "that there is no other means of appeal provided by law unless this Petition for Certiorari is granted by the Court."

Hawkins said the petitions would be calendared for a Superior Court hearing, probably on Aug. 31.

member battle with Johnson. Wallace appeared on CBS' "Face the Nation."

The action offered the Republican presidential nominee some possible rewards in Dixie, if he maintains his conservative course, that would have to be weighed against what he might gain elsewhere if he yielded to intra-party pressure to swing toward the middle of the road.

Rep. William E. Miller of New York, the vice presidential nominee, indicated he would like to see some overtures to the party's moderates and liberals in the party's Northern industrial states that would bring them around to active support of the national ticket.

But Miller said in response to questions on NBC's "Meet the Press" that failure to get the backing of such men as Sens. Jacob K. Javis and Kenneth B. Keating of New York, Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania and Clifford P. Case of New Jersey "won't be fatal." Goldwater said in Phoenix, Ariz., he thinks he will do well in New York and Pennsylvania in November.

Miller said he favors a summit meeting of Republican leaders of all shades of opinion to canvass out that a demand was made on June 11 of the state board to certify Ponder as State Democratic nominee and that the state board had failed to act. "It is not what they have done but what they have failed to," Cocke said.

It was after lengthy reading of laws and discussions that Hawkins ruled that the motion be allowed.

In appealing the decision to the superior court, Leake is basing his contention that the hearing should be before a judge of superior court having jurisdiction as provided by GS 1-583.

Accompanying McGalliard to Marshall for the hearing was State Board Chairman, William Jolin.

A small crowd attended the hearing which consumed about an hour and a half.

A GROWING ECONOMY—The two children and a towering building of Carolina Press & Light Company's new steam-electric generating plant at Asheville exemplify the vigorous economy of Western North Carolina. The plant was dedicated in Asheville Wednesday, June 10. Congressman Roy A. Taylor described it as "part of the potential for prosperity" of the Appalachian region.
