"New Look" on Main Street

The Edwards house, which was possibly the oldest dwelling house left here in town, and which was sold about a year ago by Miss Hattie Edwards and sister, Mrs. Lelia Hodge, was taken down last week. The place is being made ready for the building of the new post office, which has been in the offing for some time.

And on the same side of the street on the next block down, there is a "new look" in part of the Gibbs store building. This part, which was formerly a grocery store, but which had been vacant for several months, is now occupied by the O. V. Howell Co., Radio & TV Shop. Mr. Howell has much more room than he had at his previous location and he is well equipped for service. He has an interesting collection of native minerals and stones in his show windows. The shop is an interesting place for "browsing around."

The name of Charles Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Smith, was inadvertently omitted from our list of students going away to college. He is enrolled at State University at Raleigh.

Mrs. A. E. Carter is expected to return this week-end from Nashville, where she has been for two weeks visiting her son, Dr. Oscar Carter, and family.

Miss Owa Bradley left Monday for a weeks visit to friends at Princeton and their "homecoming" church services this week-end.

Mrs. Mae Barnett
Passes Saturday;
Funeral Monday

Surviving are the husband, Gudgey Barnett; three sisters, Mrs. Viola Lance and Mrs. Chester Brown of Baltimore, Md., and Mrs. Fannie Sloan of Asheville; three brothers, Howard of Baltimore, Will of Washington, D. C., and Johnnie Freeman of Asheville.

Holcombe Funeral Home was in charge.

This is the place where she had taught for many years.

Mr. Willard Marshbanks is spending some time here with his mother, Mrs. Gregg Metcalf, and his sister, Mrs. J. G. Briggs, and husband, Mr. Briggs, who had a fall recently suffered severe muscle and tendon strain and is now recuperating at his home.

Mr. and Mrs. Barry, of Jacksonville, Fla., are the guests of her sister, Mrs. Glenn Phillips, and family for a few weeks.

Mrs. Elizabeth Watson, who suffered a stroke recently and has been a hospital patient for the past two weeks, is reported to be making satisfactory improvement, responding well to therapy treatment.

Mrs. Essie Edwards, who was a hospital patient last week, was able to come to the home of her daughter here last Sunday.

Miss Mary Huff was home from ASTC, Boone, last week-end and had as her guest, Mrs. Ila Justice, of the library staff at ASTC.
